PRESIDENT WARREN J. BAKER TO SERVE ON PANEL ADDRESSING EDUCATION CRISIS IN CALIFORNIA ON SEPT. 19

The reduction in state budget support, continued resource inequities among schools, shortages of qualified teachers, persistent achievement gaps among population segments, high student attrition and low completion rates all along the educational continuum have contributed to a long-term educational crisis in California.

On Friday, Sept. 19, 2008, Cal Poly President Warren J. Baker will serve on a “State of Education in California” panel to address these important issues, opening a summit hosted by the University of Southern California and the Competitiveness Crisis Council.

The panel will discuss trends and specific impacts on California education and a vision for the education system in 2020. President Baker will serve on the panel with Cal Poly Pomona President Michael Ortiz, California State University Chancellor Charles Reed, California State University Los Angeles President James Rosser, Los Angeles Unified School District Superintendent David Brewer and Pomona Unified School District Superintendent Thelma Meléndez.

PHIL TONG TO LEAD DAIRY SCIENCE ASSOCIATION

Professor and administrator Phil Tong was installed as vice president of the American Dairy Science Association (ADSA) at its annual meeting in Indianapolis in July. The leadership post leads to president and past president positions in successive years for a three-year total commitment. ADSA has more than 4,500 members worldwide. Tong is both director of Cal Poly’s Dairy Products Technology Center (CPTC) and a professor of dairy science. For more information, visit

OUTSTANDING STAFF RECOGNIZED AT FALL CONFERENCE

Three Cal Poly staff have received the 2007-2008 Outstanding Staff Award: Carson Crain, administrative analyst/specialist in the dean’s office of the College of Liberal Arts; Ben Johnson, electrician in Facilities Services; and Emanuel Vieira in Facilities Services. The three were recognized by President Warren Baker at Fall Conference on Monday, Sept. 15, in the Performing Arts Center, Christopher Cohan Center.

Crain is celebrating 34 years at Cal Poly. “Carson is one of those selfless individuals who will shoulder the extra responsibility—whether it means working longer hours, or taking on a task that wasn't originally hers—because it's important that it get done, simple as that. She is amazing,” said a co-worker.

Johnson has worked in Facilities for three years, but started in ASI in 1996 as a student assistant and worked later as a technician. “Ben exhibits qualities of character that make the difference between a good employee and a great one. He continually puts the needs of the university and its staff, faculty and students first,” said his supervisor.

Vieira came to Cal Poly in 1992 and is known as the go-to guy. “From special events to special cleanups, there is no situation that he doesn't handle without professionalism and class. He always has a positive attitude and a contagious smile,” said his supervisor.
