SMITH WORKS FOR FRESHMAN CLASS

Mr. C. F. Fry, instructor of the Federal students in poultry, returned October 16 from a most pleasant and profitable trip after visiting all the largest poultry ranches near Los Angeles.

The party was made up of ten Federal students besides Mr. Fry and they traveled by auto, camping out whenever possible to lessen the expense of the trip.

The direction of Mr. Fry many exhibits were studied at the fair at Riverside where various commodious houses in Los Angeles were visited to study market conditions of poultry and eggs.

The class visited the farm bureau egg-laying contest at Pomona that is under practical methods of feeding and sanitation. None of the stock is for egg production or longer.

Mr. Fry and the Federal students are to be highly commended for making these progressive trips.

REGULAR ASSEMBLY

At the Assembly of Wednesday, October 12, the subject of student body control was again taken up, this time the following being elected to the Special Student Affairs Committee.

Miss Chase gave a report of the financial affairs of the store and it was suggested that seventy-five dollars had been earned by the store in the past year. This money will be used for student affairs.

Henry Gammond gave a very pleasant solo, "A King of the Sea," and was accompanied by Miss Bell.

The rest of the time was given to Mr. Fry, who gave an interesting report on the trip made by him and some of the Federal students, who went through Southern California looking over some of the poultry ranches in that section.

MR. C. F. SHAW, JR., CO-ORDINATOR OF THE FEDERAL STUDENTS, REPORTS

Mr. R. C. Shaw, Jr., co-ordinator of the Federal students for the past several years, went to San Francisco to fill a vacancy caused by the illness of a member of the staff. Mr. Shaw's work and influence for the welfare of the Federal student has won for him the pliant friendship of all whom he has come in contact with. The students and staff of the California Polytechnic School are sorry to see Mr. Shaw go, but are glad to hear he has left to handle a more important position in the field of education.

With him go our best wishes for further success. Mr. Shaw will be followed by Mr. E. C. Smith.

AMAPOLA CLUB HAS BARBECUE

Tuesday evening, October 17, a most enjoyable time was spent by the members of the Amapola Club in the grove on the school grounds.

Miss Chase gave a报告 of the activities of the club and the future plans.

Friday, October 27, the class of 1923 will be honored with a barbecue by the Amapola Club.

MECHANICS HAVE SPLENDID TRIP

At the Assembly of Wednesday afternoon, various interiors of the Engineering Mechanics Association of U.S. & H. Adams, another member south for the Union Oil Company wharf at Avila, for the purpose of going through the oil tankers. The Santa Maria, prize of the Union Oil Company.

The Santa Maria is an English-built ship and the officers of the boarders, we were allowed to go through and inspect the big tanker from stem to stern. We were of the sightseeing employees on board, we learned much of the interesting points on the use of the machinery and other equipment we might ask about.

An extra propeller shaft on the was attractively located and was quite different from the kind you will see when you tour your ferry ship. Besides, the wharf manager, the men were very courteous, the machine-shop, and the generating plant in the oil tankers.

From the engine-room, through the crowds, quarters, we went to the stern and looked over the cooler, and saloon. Positive that we understood that we next turned our footsteps through the officers' room, dinner, and pilot room, on a tour of inspection, and down to the main deck. Some of us went a few miles to see if the tanks were full of oil, but soon found the road to the far north, where we could see the men loading empty tankers into the freighter, and also study the under-bogie mechanism.

Have been made everything of a higher interest, in the wharf. This looked like a thorough and complete operation, and in fact was a really splendid sight.

The Saturday morning, October 21, the Federal students of the class of 1924 were honored with a barbecue by the Amapola Club.

COMMERCIAL CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

The Commercial Club held their first meeting of the year on Thursday, October 19. The following officers were elected: Fay Rognestad, president; William Homasson, vice-president; Frank Linn, secretary; Dorothy Lebo, treasurer.

The new officers were elected for a term of one and four and fifteen cents a year. It was decided to allow those being absent from the meetings.

COMMERCIAL CLUB PLANS MEETING

The Commercial Club is planning a meeting for Saturday, October 21, which will be attended by all the students.

CORRECTIONS

Of course there are exceptions to cases. One dayman know of lost, seven calves before he awakes to know that something was wrong, and called in a veterinarian. He may lose seven cows if he does not realize what is wrong.

Mr. Kaye is writing news of the day for all our students. Mr. Kaye has been in Polytechnic than the mentality of the new men brought by the government and is consequently able to gather in items of interest.

DAIRYING

It has been said that California must change its style of farming, and we agree to that statement. We might also add that dairy farming around San Luis Obispo must be changed.

Dairy management is almost unknown in this section. Little do the daymen around here understand about dairy management or if they do understand it little they do care.

Types and breeds of dairy cattle are given but little thought. Foods and feeding is too expensive to be bothered with.

Sanitation is too much work.

Of course there are exceptions to all cases. One dayman know of lost, seven calves before he awakes to know that something was wrong, and called in a veterinarian. He may lose seven cows if he does not realize what is wrong.

Another dayman was closed down by the government and they were forbidden to sell their milk.

One look at the stock and you can plainly see that they have been improperly fed. The type of dairy cows found on most of the farms here is just low and that's all you can say.

If these dairy cows were fed with such poor herds, what would they do with a first-class herd? The question is, whether the house is, can you convince them?

How long do you think the Perry-scope will survive?
POLY ATHLETICS AIDED BY SAN LUIS OBISPO MERCHANTS

The Merchants' Association of San Luis Obispo has again proved itself more than willing to co-operate with Polytechnic in the interests of the school.

The business manager of the school publications has had for some time the approval of the association of the programs and advertising medium, and now consent has been given to athletic committees to place posters in the windows of the business houses of the members of the association.

Action was taken at a special meeting of the merchants after the matter had been presented by Mr. Swerforth, their secretary. The letter received by Mr. Ricciardi reads as follows:

"With a desire to assist in promoting the growth and best interests of the educational institutions of San Luis Obispo, and realizing that the athletic branch of advanced school work is an important factor in determining the activity and interest in such institutions, the request of the president of the California Polytechnic School for the privilege of displaying advertising posters announcing Poly Athletics was referred to our members.

The field deserves special mention also. It was in fine condition as can be seen by the many piles with no injuries. The grader had helped out many ways, it kept the roosters in a group and threw the sound out on the field so that the players could get the full benefit from it. Only one trouble, too many of the seats were empty.

If this spirit is everlastings, which it is by being under leadership of Mr. Anderson, Poly will win the present and a better reputation.

CLASSES VISIT POULTRY FARMS AND DAIRY

The fourth period class in agriculture and Mr. Anderson's animal science class made an interesting trip to Mr. Goeder's poultry farm and Dr. Pohl's dairy farm in October. Mr. Goeder said the original cost of a poultry farm is about $500 a year but that the profit was $20 to $30 per year. A one-man farm can handle his own business here.

Dr. Pohl finds that a farm costs about $300, but more than pays for itself in the increased production of milk made possible throughout the year. One of his cows is giving 25 pounds four times a day.

CONFESION OF A BUNG BIRD

I was .walking up Beale street about 3 o'clock in the morning last Saturday. In the doorway of the Kwane Blue Bird Grill I saw a girl asleep. I walked up to her and said, "Wake up little girl. I wish I knew your troubles." She woke up. I'm all alone in this town and I've got the Virginia Blues." I asked her name and she said she would tell me what she was doing there she replied, "Oh, I hate to go home alone." I took the boy away and took her home. And all through the night I could not sleep thinking of her. I telephoned to her the next day and asked her if she cared to go to a movie and she replied, "I'm a dancing fool." As we were dancing I said, "Happy, I'm drunk over you," and right then and there, even nothing at all, she got propped and said, "Don't try to pull any of your tricks on me. My mammy knows and she warned me about you." All the way home I tried wooing her by singing the Gypsy Love Song till I had lost lips, but still no good. I did not see her again after that for about a month. Believe me nobody lied when he said I was in love.

I finally got up enough courage to say, "Sincerely, some sunny day you and I will walk down the old city streets together," and she consented.

I got her a cool black nothing to help with the work and everything was fine. Yours truly.

THE SOLDIER

Dick Morris—Mr. Agosti claims that the human body contains sulphur.

Honey—I'm over it.

Oh—Oh, in varying amounts.

Hurry—Well, I guess thatsavemoney for some girls making better matches than others.

Marigold—What do you mean by saying little play cards wait!

Dave Harper—Well, yes, but you steal hearts, then you get diamonds; after you wield clubs, but you finally are taken by some one holding a spindle.

Mr. Knott—Do you believe in more than one country?

George Trump—No, it's realistic enough. Why not make it more ad lentable personal?

Puster—There is a girl who aware she's never been kissed.

Romance—That is enough to make anyone swear.

Wood—Linn makes very sure of himself before he does anything.

A. Moll—A safe blower, eh?

NEW BOOK NOTES

Are you earning your way here at Poly, or planning to go to college—"on your own"? "Over 100 Ways to Earn Your Way Through College" (University of Michigan, publisher) is now in the library and contains some good suggestions.

Those who are taking commercial courses will enjoy "Business Employ­ments," by Allen. It contains some helpful ideas about jobs in the busi­ness world and how to get on.

Girls! Two new ones for you. All about new vocations and opportuni­ties for girls of today. "Careers for Women," by Miss Fliem, and "Dressmaking and Millinery," by Edna Bryner, are suggestive of many new roads to success.

"The Printing Trades," "The Building Trades" and "Railroad and Street Transportation" are books of interest to any who may be planning to enter any one of these fields.

"He who sits down and waits for something to turn up is more apt to be turned down." Your opportunity is more along the line of your abilities. Dickens failed as an actor and turned successfully to authorship; Daniel Webster didn't like farming but he succeeded as an orator and statesman; "Seven Secrets of Success," by Madison C. Peters, contains some such dynamic statements which will be useful to any who are interested in blasting out the stumbling stones on the path to success.

"Succeeding With What You Have," by Charles M. Schwab, is very similar, yet quite different. You'll understand when you read it. A fabulous steel magnate reveals his secrets of success and sums up the views of other leaders.

THE FATHERLAND

(Our spirit in the Near-East Relief)

Where is the true man's fatherland? Is it where by chance he is born, or is it where he is brought up by his parents? Where has he lived the most of his life? Where he has spent his adult years? Or is it the land of his birth, the land of his ancestors? Where he feels at home? Where he has the greatest affection? Where he feels most secure? Where he feels he could return in any emergency? Where he feels that he could be of service? Where he feels that he belongs? Where he feels he could be of use? Where he feels that he could help another? Where he feels that he could be of service to others?

Thank God for such a birthplace, brother.

This is your fatherland. This is your home. This is your motherland. This is your world-wide fatherland. You are a true son of the Fatherland.

THE VOYAGE NORTH

We have already been allowed to gaze behind the scenes and get a glimpse of the incidents that took place on our forlorn march up sunny Southern California, the land of balmy seaports, serene skies and real estate brokers. The following epistle is a brief eruption concerning our voyage in the reverse direction. The main difference was about 90 degrees. In the south we perspired; in the north we perspired.

At one o'clock Thursday afternoon we boarded a coach and amid a veritable hurricane of yells, speeches, songs, and other manifestations of nature we set sail for Palo Alto. The less said about this section, the better. This trip the bus was so cold that Mr. Agosti could not tell any of his gang of any of his college alumnis and Annin was so abysmal that he could hold only one glass of Coca Cola at a time. No bad luck, and it is alleged that the party in his car did not know that there were so many superfluous words in the English language until Mr. Figge's new tire went flat.

We had dinner at Salinas where they charged a nickel for grub and ninety-five cents for service and saved war ration stamps for each Annin, and then returned to King City, Gonzales, Salinas and Gilroy, at which place we lost sight of him.

By 10:30 the gang, with the exception of Annin was assembled at the S. P. station at Palo Alto and from here we were shuffing off to the farm house of Mr. and Mrs. Figge, having had any bad luck and it is alleged that the party in his car did not know that there were so many superfluous words in the English language until Mr. Figge's new tire went flat.

Back to Palo Alto and from here we were shuffing off to the farm house of Mr. and Mrs. Figge, having had any bad luck and it is alleged that the party in his car did not know that there were so many superfluous words in the English language until Mr. Figge's new tire went flat.

The dinner was followed by a grand send-off and rally from which the Stanford team emerged strengthened by a little trouble, and Bro. Annin also had a little auto trouble. He started out with a little trouble, and the rest strung along until we got to the University of the West Coast station.

At one o'clock Thursday afternoon we were ready for the hardest game of the year. The Stanford team out-weighed us by twenty pounds and they said they were going to make us fight and fight hard—go, Poly, go.

POLY LOSES TO STANFORD SECOND VARSITY

After a grand send-off and rally by the Stanford Body the football team set sail for Palo Alto and Stanford Thursday, via automobile and highway. They arrived at their destination with no mishaps, and with a little workaday afternoon. Our game with Stanford Second Varsity will probably be our hardest game. Fresno has proved its merit in a recent game with Lemoore High that last year was a contender with the big guns. Mr. Figge had all the stamina of a novice and from here we were shuffled to the 8:30 station at Palo Alto. The Stanford team out-weighed us by twenty pounds and they said they were going to make us fight and fight hard—go, Poly, go.
