RALLY-ASSEMBLY
October 11

The Assembly of Thursday, October 11, was opened by Mr. Ricciardi. No class announcements were made. Mr. Ricciardi gave the team a great send-off in which he brought forward the clean fighting spirit and fair play of the team. He stated that although not many rosettes would be able to go to San Mateo—the fellows at home were among the team all they could. Fifteen running cheers were then given to the team and Bert H. Vanier introduced his new comical act. He also gave a solo on his harmonium, a great novelty.

Next came a surprise—Ursula and "Biff" arrived as a travelling musical act. The audience was certainly entertained with the "Midnight Banana," a howling screams. It had a serious effect on his wife, so that she went straight through the audience. The audience was then shocked and all apprehension.

Ursula's wife produced some vegetables upon which she was given a large ovation. She then gave a speech and a larger ticket sale was urged. A prize was offered for the most tickets a person could put over, a successful ticket sale. No class announcements were made.

Among the speakers were Miss Chase, Mr. Peteler and Mr. Davis. An announcement was made. All of the above could be purchased for a quarter. The audience was entertained by Mr. Murphy's articles are convincing as well as educational, as he has made a study of his subject and knows whereof he speaks.

TICKET SELLING

"Got your ticket for the football game tomorrow? No? Well, better take one; you don't want to miss a good game like this one going to be.

"Whose playing? Why, Gee Whiz! Haven't you heard? College of the Pacific and Polytechnic, of course."

"You can, you know! I blame you for wanting to take your wife. It's going to be a good game.

Thus said the line handed the citizens of San Luis Obispo Friday afternoon by Poly students, each bent on selling more than any other student."

The game being the last home game, every effort was made to make it the best game ever played on the home field. In order to accomplish this and assure a good crowd at the game, President Ricciardi dismissed school for the afternoon so that the students could put over a successful ticket sale.

The town was divided, their jolly and each squad headed by its cor- poral was assigned to cover that zone with instructions to do up brown.

And from the glowing reports received, the students did it up brown, too. For there was a good crowd out, and the financial side of the game looks pretty favorable to all.

AMAPOLA OUTING

"Two bodies cannot occupy the same space at the same time." This is an old statement which everyone will remember. Coming of the Polygamists is an old practice not so numerous. More spectra and a larger ticket sale was urged. A prize was offered for the most selling the most tickets.

RALLY-ASSEMBLY
October 19

The rally of October 19 for the College of Pacific game was opened by George Coward, assistant cheerleader. Captain Ted appointed four teams for the game.

Speakers were given by William Corbin, Burton Huntley, Hubert Peteler and Mr. Knott. A piano duet was played by Fred Johnson, another old Dorm resident.

Mr. Ricciardi then addressed the assembly on the school spirit and foot. Another piece of music by Earle and Friends completed the program.

Earle: "Do you like the Miss Walters the orchestra is playing?"

Walter: "I like it, on the mellion beat.

IN OUR NEXT ISSUE

Mr. Frank T. Murphy, a former Poly student who is now farm adviser for San Luis Obispo County, has agreed to write several articles for this publication. For his subject Mr. Murphy has chosen one of the greatest industries in the world—agriculture.

He will write these articles under the title "American Resources of San Luis County," "How Best to Develop These Resources," and last, "The Opportunity of the Agriculturally Trained Boy."

These topics are very broad and are a great deal of discussion. In our next issue will be the first of his series of chats.

Mr. Murphy's articles are convincing as well as educational, as he has made a study of his subject and knows whereof he speaks.

Watch for his article in our next issue.

SOPHOMORE DANCE

The Sophomore Dance was put on Saturday evening after the football game with the College of the Pacific. The music was furnished by Carlson's orchestra and it certainly rendered service.

The dance started at 8 o'clock and at first things looked anything but encouraging. There were few girls around and not a few of the dancing team members were about to leave. However things soon began to brighten up and by 10 o'clock a half was excellent. The punch gave out rather quickly as everyone had to drink water. At 11 o'clock Home Sweet Home was played and every one was declaring they had had a good time.

SOPHOMORE MEETING

A Sophomore meeting was called the October 20 at 12:10 and now called to order by President Langebeck. Arrangements for the dance were discussed. All classroom were asked to pay their dues immediately. It was also asked that the town fellows give their aide in cleaning up the dining hall after the dance.

Dorm Doings

Willis West, a former member of the Dorm Club, just us a visit last week-end. Willis attended Poly for two years and was a member of the Poly dorm and school activities. He expects to remain in San Luis Obispo for his junior year.

Fred Johnson, another old Dorm resident, was with us for a couple of days. Fred came down from Oakland to witness the game Saturday, and was given a glad welcome by many old acquaintances.

The latest addition to the collection of rolling stock that disgrace the back yard of the dorm is George Crowell's "Yellow Peril." The old has seemed unable to stand the shock of the scoring coat of yellow paint, however, and is now in the garage undergoing repairs.

A special meeting of the Dorm Club was held last week. Mr. Ricciardi introduced Mr. Hostetter, the local executive for the Boy Scouts of America. Mr. Hostetter gave an informal talk on the Boy Scout movement in this vicinity.

Among the students and dignified friend, Kristo Hodges, seems to have lost much sleep of late, and the expression on his face is one of Yikes. We hear that the source of Pat's irritation is "blonds." We suggest that you get off it at once.

The Dorm boys displayed their usual spirit and enthusiasm by turning out for football and really being the football field.
It is understood that many Polytechnes do not believe in signs, therefore they do not see many on the school grounds. However, there is one thing that we should look out for, and that is to keep off the grass in front of the Administration Building. There is a cement walk across that plot, so why not use it and save the results of the labors of our school gardener? It took some time to make the lawns look like they do now, so let’s show our appreciation to him and keep the lawns fresh and green.

Although this article is intended for the Freshmen, it would pay the older students to give it the once-over also. The new members of our student body watch us more than we think, so let us get them started off right—by doing the right thing ourselves.

 Didn’t Poly look beautiful the first day you returned? (Of course, this is meant from a scenic standpoint.) It can easily be seen that this beauty was gained by the absence of the students and the work of the maintenance people. Some of the paths have been bordered with flowers or shrubs and this all adds to the artistic appearance of the school. However, it can be noticed that some of these plants have been trampled. Of course, this is done unintentionally, but watch where you are going and have respect for the work that is being done for your benefit.

As so many of us do not believe in signs, let’s adopt the familiar slogan, “Keep Off the Grass,” and be ready to warn any one who so forgets it and makes a dash across the lawn. In this way, and by watching our own selves, we can keep the school looking like it did the first day.

ELECTRIC SHOP

Activities in the electric shop this year are quite interesting. The members of the Junior class are studying advanced alternating current in their class room and learning power-house operation during their shop periods. Under the able guidance of Mr. Broughton, the day operator, and Mr. Marvin, the night operator, the class is learning by work regular and makes a dash across the lawn. In this way, and by watching our own selves, we can keep the school looking like it did the first day.

On October 13 Poly had her first taste of victory. She liked it so well that she asked for more.

On that day we took on the San Mateo Junior College team at San Mateo and came off with the long end of the score.

The San Mateo team was considered a crack team in San Mateo and thereabouts, but it was no match for Poly's well balanced eleven.

If we look at it from the angle of ground-gaining, we would say that Lumley and Patchett starred for Poly. These two lads were not only large, but they were sure runners. Marty, our captain, was a fine holder for Poly.

Marty and Reich, our two scrappy lads, played a noble game. The tackle playing opposite them was a halfback and was too quick for Marty. Marty and Reich were after him in a very business-like way and actually had him so helpless that he was frustrated.

Marty was a fine passer. He would throw the ball to his feet and he was the ball carrier. Marty and Reich had the ball on bad breaks. When the ball was cleared out of his territory across the field to Poly's end runs.

Another thing that Poly can congratulate herself on is her rooting section. Polyites turned out 100 per cent in numbers and enthusiasm and they stuck until the final whistle-blow. As one of the players I want to say that we certainly appreciate the support that we got from the student body of Poly.

The College of the Pacific was shown by the fact that the only game when the whistle stopped was Poly's 23-0 score. Poly is not a state school, but one of the minor colleges of the Pacific Coast and when we consider the support that we got from the student body and friends of the school, as we did last Saturday, it makes us feel that there is something worth fighting for in our school. It gives school spirit a warmth and a reality that makes it living.

That was the best that was ever played on Poly's field was the opinion voiced by a majority of the spectators. Of course, when we consider the fact that Poly's fighting spirit had made its impression came out when the College Coach made special efforts to find out who among the graduating class of this year were intending to go on to college and to whom he made some tentative offers if they would enter the University of the Pacific. But, as we said before, Poly is not downhearted in the least and is not out to win from San Jose next Saturday.
