New master's degree in accounting to start fall quarter

A new Master of Science degree program in accounting, with specializations in tax and financial accounting, will begin fall quarter. The program had been approved by Chancellor Reed in February 2001, but was put on inactive status because of budget constraints. Provost Bob Detweiler and Dean Dave Christy, with approval from the Chancellor's Office, decided to implement the program in the fall. The Graduate Studies -- Accounting (GSA) course prefix will become effective, too. 05021 is the reporting code for the degree program, both specializations and the course prefix.

Student ensemble to stage modern-day morality play

The Music Department student production ensemble RSVP will stage productions of "Pulse!" at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 30, and Thursday, June 1, in the Pavilion in the Performing Arts Center. The "transmedia" production begins a trilogy exploring the primeval elements of music itself, said artistic director Antonio Barata. "A blending of sound, visuals and staging, this theatrical concert is based on the medieval genre of a morality play, where characters represent archetypes of virtues and emotions." Tickets are $11 and are on sale at the Performing Arts Ticket Office. For more information, call the Music Department at ext. 6-2406.
