CTL Develops Professional Learning Communities

A grant program supporting faculty and staff members in the formation of professional learning communities (PLCs) has been developed by the Center for Teaching and Learning. Professional learning communities are small collaborative endeavors of 8-12 people organized around either a cohort or theme. PLCs involve regular meetings with the goal of developing individual and/or group projects.

The CTL has sponsored or co-sponsored six professional learning communities during the 2010-11 academic year. These include: Scholarly Teaching and Learning; Method and Assessment in Curricula for Sustainable, Food, and Environmental Sciences; Critical Thinking; Developing a Sustainable Retention Intervention for Sophomore Students; Building Capacity for Service Learning; and Universal Design for Learning. For more information about the CTL and professional learning communities, visit <http://www.ctl.calpoly.edu/faculty/index.html>.

Application Deadline for Cal State CDIP Program is Feb. 15

Through the Chancellor's Doctoral Incentive Program (CDIP), the California State University (CSU) provides student loans (up to $10,000 per year for a total of $30,000) to a limited number of individuals pursuing doctoral degrees at accredited universities throughout the U.S. The program aims to increase the number of promising doctoral students interested in applying and competing for future CSU instructional faculty positions. After participants earn their doctoral degrees, are hired for a qualifying instructional position in the CSU and meet the CDIP program requirements, 20 percent of the loan will be forgiven for each year of full-time postdoctoral teaching employment in the CSU.

Part-time teaching in the CSU may also be considered for partial loan forgiveness if the participant teaches at least half-time and has successfully completed the doctorate degree.

Campus deadline for CDIP applications has been extended to 4 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 15. Deliver applications to the Center for Teaching & Learning Office, Kennedy Library, Room 209. For more information, contact Bruno Giberti, director of the Center for Teaching & Learning at ext. 6-2036 or bgiberti@calpoly.edu or visit the Cal State CDIP web site.

Statistical Consulting Service Available to Campus Through March 11

The Statistics Department will provide statistical consulting services to the campus community through March 11. The intent is to provide support to faculty, staff and students on projects and research. Consulting is under way.

Karen McGaughey and John Walker serve as the main consultants. They are available to advise on data collection, experimental design and analysis of research projects. They are also available to lead seminars or tutorials on requested topics and offer advice on various computer packages currently available at Cal Poly. Lectures may also be available to groups with special areas of statistical inference. For more information, scheduling or to make an appointment, visit the Consulting Services web site.
