Bello Ranch Provides Pasture For Poly Beef

Providing a means of showing the students how a typical beef ranch operates is the objective of the Bello Ranch adjoining the school campus. The ranch will be used for the beef herds of the meat animals department.

Lessee in October by the school, the 500 acre grazing range has been used to pasture the beef herd and was turned over to the project's staff recently. Harry Parker, headstockman, has been busy working out the results obtained on the ranch. Early grass, plentiful feed and a large green hay crop which permitted feeding off of different sections at different times have been available.

Deep swales provide shelter for the cattle in winter cold spells, and high flats will present cool feeding during the summer months. A heavy blanket of variety of grasses covers the hillsides and hollows.

The excitement of the war should have died down enough to get all the gals to the few remaining boys. These boys naturally had a feeling that if more boys had been there, there would have been more accurate picture of the facts. There is no reason to expect that we should now have a more definite idea of how long we will be in such a situation.

For the spring quarter, 1942, let us all resolve to do a better job of learning while here at Cal Poly.

Quintett Instrument Played By Seaton
By Dave Risling
Glockenspiel, an instrument of percussion of definite pitched pitch, is used in the Cal Poly band. The German name means bells, which are struck with a hammer to make music. The type that is used by Beech contains a bar of bar steel and is used according to pitch. These bars are fastened horizontally across two bars of steel set perpendicularly in a steel frame.

Risling, who formerly played the trumpet and now is a very good Glockenspiel player, said he enjoys to play harmony with the Glockenspiel because "it sounds so pretty!" The Glockenspiel usually plays the melody in the band and not the harmony.
The graduates will be commissioned as second lieutenants in the Army Air Corps and will be given the aeronautical rating of pilot. They will be placed on active duty in their new rank with the Army Air Forces.

Before entering the final and advanced course at Stockton Field, Aviation Cadet Schwander completed 10 weeks of primary and basic training at Santa Maria and Moffett Field, California.

Cadet Schwander attended Albion high school before entering California State Polytechnic School. Besides dramatics and music activities, Schwander was captain of the college football team and president of the athletic union—possessive form of the pronoun this.

Personals

It seems that every time the orchestra goes out, members leave. First it was Bill Staud who left, then Eddie Grubb, and now Kenny Hawkins is said to take a job in L. A. His place is taken by Red Sullivan. Red is an excellent drummer, having played with the Wongo quartet last year as well as drummer in a number of orchestras. We all hate to see Kenny go. He was a swell guy, besides being a drummer and guitarist.

We have it, via the grapevine method, that a certain young man who rides the stallion at the thoroughbred horse barn pays little boys to tell him the addresses of their big sisters.

An interesting book recently added to the Cal Poly library is Dale Carnegie's "Little Known Facts About Wall Street People" according to librarian Buck Lash. And the book should give heart to any Poly student. For one thing, it says that Einstein used to be the school drudge. Other cheating facts here presented are: Thomas Alva Edison had such a poor memory that one time after standing in line to pay his income tax he was asked his name. The great inventor just couldn't think of it!

When F. W. Woolworth, the multi-millionaire R. and 10 cent tycoon, was a young man his boss paid him no salary because he was so dumb.

Admiral Byrd was turned down by the Navy because they didn't think he was strong enough physically to make the grade.

"I've stood about enough," said the humorist as they amputated his leg. —Annapolis Log.

It was voted to present keys to student body officials at the last assembly of the new year, so that all might be present to receive theirs. Those who will be awarded keys are the president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, athletic manager, pull leader, and editors of El Mustang and El Rodeo and the Poly Royal superintendent.

The SAC approved the plan of a program to be presented by the welfare organization for blind people, and authorized that the program be presented to the administrative council for approval.
