Homecoming Day Set For November 16

ExcursionsImporter Welcomed By Bay City Station

By Bob Black

The joint Cal Poly-San Francisco State rally was what might be called a super-duper homecoming. The San Francisco State Administration at the last moment had brought over to Cal Poly the real life leading man, Bill Himmelman, to act as guest speaker. This was the first time in the history of Cal Poly that the Poly Poultry Producers have brought in a guest speaker, and they were very happy with the result.

The Poly boys and girls were met at the Bay City Station by a special committee, and were driven in a special car to the Poly grounds. The Poly Poultry Producers arrived at the station and were met by a special committee from the San Francisco State Administration. The Poly Poultry Producers and the San Francisco State Administration were very pleased to see each other. The Poly Poultry Producers were given a special welcome at the station and were driven to the Poly grounds in a special car. The Poly Poultry Producers were very happy to be at Cal Poly.

Graduates To Return For Polytechnic-Aggie Show

The Polytechnic-Aggie Show will be held at the Polytechnic Auditorium on November 16. The Polytechnic Auditorium is located on the Cal Poly campus.

The Polytechnic-Aggie Show will feature performances by the Polytechnic and Aggie bands, as well as guest speakers from both schools. The Polytechnic and Aggie bands will perform a variety of songs and dances, and the guest speakers will discuss the history and traditions of each school.

The Polytechnic-Aggie Show is a popular event that draws participants from both schools. The Polytechnic and Aggie bands will perform a variety of songs and dances, and the guest speakers will discuss the history and traditions of each school.

Chico-Mustang Tilt Promises Thrills

Mustangs Are Underdogs Tonight Against State

By Les Vanoncini

The students that went to the game at San Francisco last weekend were stunned to find that Mustangs had won it, 12 to 7. In fact, the score had been 12 to 7 all the way through the game except for the last minute when the Mustangs came to the line of scrimmage to block a kick. The team that had been favored was the other team. The Mustangs had been predicted to win, but no one expected it to be as close as it was.

The Mustangs started off well in the first quarter with a field goal, and added another in the second. They kept up the pace in the third and fourth quarters, but the other team fought back and ultimately caught up. The final score was 12 to 7, with the Mustangs winning by a narrow margin.

The game was well-played by both teams, with some brilliant moments from the Mustangs. However, the other team was not to be underestimated, and their efforts were praised by many. The game was a testament to the quality of college football, and showed that anything can happen on the field.

The Mustangs' victory was a great moment for the team and their fans, and they will be looking forward to their next game with even more determination. The other team, while disappointed with the loss, also took pride in their performance and looked forward to the next opportunity to compete.

The Mustangs' upset victory against the team that was predicted to win was a highlight of the season and will be remembered by fans of the team. It was a true testament to the power of underdogs in college football.

Library Receives New Types Of Literature

By Ralph Banko

Among the new books appearing in the Cal Poly library are a few outstanding popular publications of recent date. The following three new eye-catchers are "Big Leagues" by David Arnold and John F. Hart, "Handle of Radio Writing" by Erik Hornbeck; and "Tennis as a Hobby" by Henry L. Cummings.

"Big Leagues," a story of American radio talents with all the hoopla and mстанавлиng behind them, will attract anyone's interest in radio with a hobby of collecting传输s and their interesting stories and scripts. "Handle of Radio Writing" contains a vast amount of information on radio terms and programs. It's author, Erik Hornbeck, former script writer and radio producer, from various radio stations in various parts of the country.

"Tennis as a Hobby," by Henry L. Cummings, is a new line on tennis. To keep up with the current wave of tennis offers, Mr. Lashington reflects the magazine. Arranged in alphabetical order is a collection of a complete variety of tennis progresses for the "Harter" are the "high-flown" and the best on national and local lines. Other top authors are: "New York Times" tennis writer, "The American" and "The New York Times." Special request is made to the people of the N.Y. area from the exciting project using the Cal Poly library. Like any other popular publication, it offers a variety of tennis progresses. The library lends its support to the tennis progresses in a number of cases.

From east to west, California is the state of "The American" and "The New York Times." Special request is made to the people of the N.Y. area from the exciting project using the Cal Poly library.
