Homecoming applause better late than never

The coronation was attended by a very large number of people, many of whom were unable to attend the coronation because of the rain and the fact that the Poly Student Union was already filled. The time is coming closer and closer when that old "Valentine" sign will hang over the door of several student body offices about the campus. Soon Bill Himmelmaker will make the trip for him to a student address to his union, the Students of the Journalism Class of California Polytechnic College.

The past week has seen many bits of purple and white paper being laid about the campus by some prospective candidate or his campaign manager. One thing there is quantity this year, and it's up to you, the individual student body member and the Associated Student Body, to select the one that you feel most has installed in the various positions. By the way are you putting in those offices?

I believe this year's Poly Royal will be a great success, but it didn't have enough public in San Luis Obispo, I'm not sure that there wasn't enough enthusiasm or spirit on the part of the students. - Lowen Cruse.

Bill and the rest of the student body offices have done a relatively good job this year and have earned the freedom they will obtain when they officially turn over their positions over to you the latter part of this month. All of the offices that comprise the California Poly Student body are absolutely essential with the possible students of the Journalism Class of California Polytechnic College.

Cal Poly times Bakersfield J.C. at Poly Royal

For four innings last Friday afternoon it looked as though Poly royal visitors would see the State Tech team take a talking from the Bakersfield nine, but the Mustangs couldn't let all those witnesses see them take a drubbing as they called forth the necessary sweat and eventually trimmed the Gulls, 11-3.

GOT RANGE

Flecher Durcans of Bakersfield had the local collegiate pitchers baffled in the early innings but once the Mustangs found their range they began driving markers across the plate.

Nortie of these visitors had a perfect day at the plate, getting four for four. Anson Perkins, Poly outfielder, got three bingles in four trips, one being a homer.

C.J. C. Davis, Poly baseball mentor, used Forbes and Crow and utility men, in the last two frames and seemed to be satisfied that the boys would develop into regulars by next season.

S.L.O.J.C. nine to meet Poly next Saturday

The San Luis Obispo junior college will again attempt to defeat the Cal Poly Mustangs tomorrow afternoon on the Poly field. The Mustangs, C.J.C. recently defeated Cal Poly 12 to 1 last Tuesday afternoon.

The Mustangs know that they can hold the hard hitting Mustangs of Cal Poly with their own slugger, Mike Mennitt, on the field. The other hand our squad is confident that they can handle their boys. The only question in the minds of the Mustangs is who will carry the ball for Poly.

Sammy Castro, Wally Davis, and Sammy Casper are the best players on the Poly nine. Sammy Castro can whip the hell out of every ball field a new discovery was made. Donald Crawford, a huge weight boxer, has recently won some of his fights with a tremendous and fast breaking curve. This department expert a lot from this left handed.

Looking over the swimming results of this last recorded Poly had one of the best swimming teams on the coast. The swimming marks that the boys set in their meets compares favorably with any mark set in California and Stanford.

The buck of practices due to the unusual rain season is what prevented Poly from making the All-Stars teams are by no means for winning any meets. After all a fellow can’t be at his best if he doesn’t train consistently. I think they did very well after taking this into consideration.

Les Varietici, Poly’s baseball star, has done a wonderful job in managing the Mustang All-Stars. He took them to Antwerp where they soundly whipped the Antwerp Packers 8-2. Then at the Mission field the All-Stars paraded the box with no batters first and the San Luis Obispo Merchants who were Poly’s box nine downs Poly nine.

L. S. is just a ball game for three innings. In the fourth the All-Stars went to work and hurled two innings of straight shutout ball. Poly nine downs local Jr. College team by 15-1

The State Tech ball club downed their cross-town rivals, San Luis Obispo Junior College, 15-1 Tuesday afternoon on the Poly diamond. Three Cal Poly pitchers limited the J.C. players to a pair of hits, while the Mustangs langled out 14 safeties in seven innings.

Joe Siskara started for the Poly team and hurled two innings of no-hit ball. Crawford and Mallory pitched the final inning and allowed a hit apiece.

Amos Perkins, hard hitting bat for Poly, hit safely four times in six appearances at the plate in spur batting honors in Poly.

Where's local grid talent? Must be spring fever

Hoci O'Daniel, when asked how the material looked for spring practice, seemed to be very satisfied. Wednesday evening was the occasion when the boys, who were just about nine fellows out on the field or uniform.

LOCAL TALENT

There has been considerable commotion in the local amateur ranks of the sport with the fellows of Poly a chance to show what they can.

It appears that if some of these local high school and football fellows could get the lead out of their system, the Mustangs with howie O’Daenil in the way, would give them the opportunity to try their hand at the sport.

ONLY NINE OUT

With only three weeks of spring practice left, why can't some of the star material around the county get out and kick the old pers around from 2 to 4 every evening.

The question has been asked, why doesHOWIE bring fellows into our institution to play football? Wednesday evening was a very good example. Nine fellows out of a student body of 1100 can't make a football team.

Any time this student body goes to a football game and the team begins to slip, boss and joes criticise from the stands. For that any of that audience do anything to help the Mustangs, their voices can whip the boys out of every football game.

How about it fellows, let's get out and show them that we have plenty of material here that will make a team for the Mustangs.

Final Prepping Up

THOROUGH TRAINING

These student aviators entered the South Texas basic training school early in February after having completed ten weeks of elementary flight training and having learned the fundamentals of pilotage in one of the Army Air Corps' home-brewed p.m. classes. About 65 hours were logged, half of it solo and all aerial instruments from takeoffs to snap rolls were mastered.

Establishing the primary phases of their training, these future pilots moved on to Randolph Field where powerful and highly trained instructors awaited them. An additional 35 hours of work completed flying this school was followed by the capturing of a cruise speed of more than 140 miles per hour.

They get their first taste of night flying, making takeoffs and landings only by the glare of flood-lighted fields and gliding only by their wing-top lights.

Aerial refueling, cross-country, instrument and formation flying have been important parts of the secondary phase of their training.

VITAL PREPPING UP

On April 5 this class was transferred to an advanced flight training school where they will learn to fly a single-engine plane for a final ten weeks of preparatory training before receiving the wings of an Army Air Corps officer. 30,000 Training Squadrons is a year. That's the goal of the Army Air Corps. Air Corps under newly announced War Department plans. Applications have been received from essential Flying Cadets either at Randolph Field or any recruiting station.

During the thirty week training period, Flying Cadets are paid 150 monthly at any recruiting station.

Upon completion of the course, flying cadets have the opportunity of entering the expanding Air Force.

Second Lieutenants and flying officers will receive $205 per month in addition to food, uniforms, quarters and pay jumps to $205 in three mongos at Randolph Field or any recruiting station.

Merchandisers contributing prizes for these contests were: Levi and Cowan; (3) J. W. Randul, San Luis Obispo; (4) B. P. Berman, San Luis Obispo; (5) Ray Reynolds Longview, Santa Maria; (6) Betty Middlebrooke Santa Maria; (7) God F. Kuesman, San Juan Capistrano; (8) Vernon Hornestack, Santa Maria, Stuck aviator; (9) Allen St. Anthony; (10) Harvey Wilson.

These former California Polytechnic youths were among the proudest youths in the United States today, having completed the basic training program at Randolph Field, Texas, that was called "West Point in the Air." Just four and a half months ago these American G.I. citizens, but now they're only ten weeks away from commission as Second Lieutenants and flying officers in Uncle Sam's rapidly expanding Air Force.
