Paul Orfalea to Speak on Campus Jan. 28

Entrepreneur and philanthropist Paul Orfalea will speak from 2:10 to 3 p.m., Monday, Jan. 28, as part of the Orfalea College of Business Distinguished Speaker Series. “A Conversation with Paul Orfalea” will be in Spanos Theatre. Orfalea will be joined by Jon York, professor of entrepreneurship and co-founder of the Cal Poly Center for Innovation & Entrepreneurship. The event is free and open to the public.

Orfalea founded Kinko’s (now FedEx Office) in 1970 and built it into the world’s leading business supply services chain with more than 1,700 branches worldwide. In 2001, Orfalea and the Orfalea Family Foundation provided an endowment to further the strategic plan of Cal Poly’s College of Business to become one of the nation’s premier undergraduate and graduate programs. The foundation also generously endowed Cal Poly’s Orfalea Family and ASI Children’s Center, which provides quality early childcare and education to local children. More information on Orfalea’s Jan. 28 talk is available online.

Open Forums on Semester Review Task Force Report Continue

As part of the process of exploring whether Cal Poly should convert to semesters, the Semester Review Task Force submitted its recommendations to President Armstrong in December. The full report can be read online.

Next in this process, the Academic Senate and the ASI Board of Directors all have been reviewing the report at their respective January meetings. In addition, President Armstrong announced two open forums for the campus. A staff-focused forum took place Jan. 16. A General Campus Open Forum will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 30, in the Pavilion of the Performing Arts Center.

The task force’s report and these campus discussions will assist Armstrong with Cal Poly’s ongoing involvement in the CSU’s systemwide deliberations on semester conversion. In a note to the campus last month, Armstrong said he will continue to keep
Second Annual Cal Poly Diversity and Inclusiveness Colloquium Set for Feb. 5

The second annual Cal Poly Diversity and Inclusiveness Colloquium will take place from 5:30 to 7:15 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 5, in Harrman Hall in the Performing Arts Center. A reception with exhibits will follow in the Rossi Main Lobby. Attendance is free and open to all. This year’s colloquium focuses on diversity and inclusiveness. In planning, the university has consulted with the San Luis Obispo Chamber of Commerce’s Diversity Committee to involve the local business community in a discussion on how Cal Poly and the city can develop inviting climates for people of all backgrounds, including race, ethnicity, religion, sexual orientation, class and ability. Find out more on the upcoming colloquium online.

Faculty and Staff
Student Life and Leadership Announces New Staff Members, Invites Campus to Feb. 5 Open House Event

Student Life and Leadership has announced four new assistant coordinators: Tammie Velasquez, Melissa Wittmayer, Que Dang and Adam Serafin.

Velasquez is from Los Angeles and comes to Cal Poly after working at Cal Poly Pomona’s Office of Student Life and Cultural Centers, focusing on student involvement and engagement. She earned her bachelor’s degree in gender, ethnicity and multicultural studies (with an emphasis in women’s studies) from Cal Poly Pomona. She also has worked as a resident coordinator at USC, where she earned a master’s in post-secondary administration and student affairs.

Wittmayer comes to Cal Poly from the Houston Area Women’s Center in Houston, Texas. She trained police officers, doctors, lawyers, teachers and other professionals how to respond to disclosures of domestic and sexual violence. She graduated from Rice University with a bachelor’s in kinesiology, with a focus in health sciences and policy studies.

Dang comes to Cal Poly from Los Angeles, where she was executive director of a young women’s empowerment organization called Khmer Girls in Action, advocating for immigrant rights and social justice. As a longtime organizer for communities of color, she has worked primarily in the field of reproductive rights, HIV/AIDS prevention, and youth development. She has a master’s in public health from UCLA and a bachelor’s in Asian American studies and psychology from UC Santa Barbara.

Serafin earned a Master of Education in student development administration from Seattle University while serving as a graduate assistant with Leadership Development. Most recently, he served as the Jumpstart site manager at Loyola University Chicago, coordinating a volunteer language and literacy program supporting preschool children and their families. He earned a bachelor’s in business administration with a concentration in marketing and a minor in ethnic studies from Cal Poly and later served for two years as an AmeriCorps member with Student Life & Leadership, coordinating service learning courses and advising student led volunteer programs.

The campus community is invited to join the staff and students of Student Life & Leadership for an open house from 2 to 4 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 5. The event will feature opportunities to meet staff, engage in discussion, and enjoy food in the MultiCultural Center, Pride Center, Gender Equity Center, Center for Civic Engagement, and Orientation Programs. Attendees also learn about upcoming programs and events, discover new ways to become involved, and meet the new staff members. Student Life and Leadership is located on the second floor of the UU. For more information, visit the department's web page.

University Art Gallery Exhibiting Jay Vigon’s ‘Swimming Upstream’

Cal Poly’s University Art Gallery is exhibiting “Swimming Upstream,” showcasing the cultural collisions, commerce and interplay of 30 years of graphic design, illustration, photography and creativity by Jay Vigon. The collection explores Vigon’s academic foundation and the artistic challenges of “swimming upstream” to remain uncompromising, unique and in-demand on a global scale for more than three decades. Loosely divided into three segments – Then, Now and Next – the gallery installation will highlight the concepts and interplay of techniques by hand and by technology to achieve and maintain a world class roster of clients and commissions. The public is invited to a lecture and reception for the artist at 5 p.m. Friday, Jan. 18, at the University Art Gallery, in the Dexter Building, Room 171. The exhibit is open Tuesday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. The exhibit is open to the public and admission is free. For more information, contact Jeff Van Kleeck, University Art Gallery coordinator, at ext. 6-1571 or jvankleeck@calpoly.edu. Visit the gallery online at www.artgallery.calpoly.edu for more information.

The Data Studio Presents Military Applications of GIS with Mark Belrose on Jan. 24

The Data Studio in the Kennedy Library will feature Mark Belrose discussing military applications of GIS on Thursday, Jan. 24. Belrose is chief of the Western Range National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency (NGA) Support Branch at Vandenberg Air Force Base. The NGA is the nation’s primary source of geospatial intelligence, or GEOINT. As a Department of Defense combat support agency and a member of the U.S. Intelligence Community, the National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency collects remotely sensed data, physical geography, land cover and cultural data around the world. This data helps its mission partners visualize the world, support the safe navigation of land, air and sea, and provide timely, relevant and accurate geospatial intelligence to support the U.S. in national defense and during natural disasters. The Jan. 24 event will run 11 a.m. to noon in the Data Studio (Room 111C). Faculty, students and community members are welcome. More information is available online.

Cal Poly Arts to Present Herndon Spillman on the Forbes Pipe Organ Jan. 25

American concert organist Herndon Spillman will perform an expansive program spanning 300 years of French glory on the Forbes Pipe Organ on Friday, Jan. 25, at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center’s Cohan Center. The event is presented by Cal Poly Arts. In demand as a recitalist both here and abroad, Spillman has earned an international reputation for his interpretations of the works of French composers. The Forbes recital will include "Postlude pour l’Office de complies" by Jehan Alain; “Choral-Improvisation sur le ‘Victima Paschalt’” by Charles Tournemire, reconstructed by Maurice Duruflé; Nicolas de Grigny’s “Pange Lingua in taille à 4;” César Franck’s “Choral en la mineur;” and Duruflé’s “Suite, Op. 5.” Spillman is coordinator of the organ program in the School of Music at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge. He records on the Titanic label. Tickets range from $17 to $33 and may be purchased in advance at the Performing Arts Center Ticket Office on Grand Avenue from noon to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. The Ticket Office is also open at noon on performance days. For more ticket information, call ext. 6-4849 or order online.

Cal Poly Author to Discuss Book on Music and the California Missions Jan. 25

Cal Poly music professor and author Craig Russell will discuss his new book, “From Serra to Sancho: Music and Pageantry in the California Missions,” from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Friday, Jan. 25, in the Kennedy Library, Room 111H. The event is a part of the library’s Conversations with Cal Poly Authors series. Russell’s book explores the historical, cultural and stylistic aspects of California mission music during the late 18th and early 19th centuries. His talk will be followed by a question-and-answer session moderated by history Professor Emeritus Dan Krieger.

Conversations with Cal Poly Authors is an ongoing series of informal talks hosted by the Kennedy Library and inspired by recent Cal Poly authors' work. The event is free and open to the public. More information is available online.

Early Music Ensemble, Faculty, Professionals To Present ‘Bach in the Mission III’ Jan. 26

The Cal Poly Early Music Ensemble and some members of the Cal Poly Symphony will present “Bach in the Mission III” at 8 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 26, in Mission San Luis Obispo de Tolosa. The student ensemble will be joined by members of the Cal Poly music faculty and professional musicians from Southern California. The program, featuring works by J. S. Bach, includes Cantata No. 84, “Ich bin vergnügt mit meinem Glücke” (“I am content with my fortune”) for solo soprano; Oboe Concerto in D minor, BWV 1059R; “Brandenburg” Concerto No. 3 in G major, BWV 1048; and Motet No. 3, “Jesu, meine Freude” (“Jesus, my joy”), BWV 227. Tickets to the concert are $14 for the public, $12 for senior citizens, and $9 for students. For more information, call the Music Department at ext. 6-2406.

The Data Studio Presents Navigating OpenStreetMap with Joe Larson on Jan. 31

The Kennedy Library’s Data Studio will present a Jan. 31 talk with Joe Larson on Navigating OpenStreetMap. Larson is a GIS specialist with Cal Fire. He will explain how the agency uses OpenStreetMap (OSM), an open access geographic information system (GIS) resource, to create detailed maps of the local community that include various assets and structures. OSM also includes mobile applications that allow users to contribute data, and both have wide teaching applications. The Jan. 31 event will run 11 a.m. to noon in the Data Studio (Room 111C). Faculty, students and community members are welcome. More information is available online.

Athletics Takes on Heart Disease Jan. 31

Thursday, Jan. 31 is National Wear Red Day at Cal Poly. Cal Poly Athletics encourages all faculty and staff to wear red and to encourage students to wear red for this all-day event. Athletics’s staff and students are committed to Cal Poly’s health and well being and wants everyone to know more about heart health. To celebrate the 10th anniversary of the American Heart Association efforts, Athletics also will host a RED OUT women’s basketball game at 7 p.m. on Jan. 31. In 2003, the American Heart Association and the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute took action against heart disease, which claims the lives of hundreds of thousands of American women each year. Heart disease remains the No. 1 killer of women each year. For more information about the AHA, visit http://www.goredforwomen.org/. To purchase T-shirts for the RED OUT, contact Stacia Momburg at ext. 6-0280 or smomburg@calpoly.edu. All proceeds benefit the American Heart Association.
Cal Poly Instructor Gabrielle Castriotta to Present Oboe Master Class Jan. 31

Cal Poly oboe instructor Gabrielle Castriotta will present an oboe master class at 7 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 31, in Room 218 of the Davidson Music Center (Building 45) on campus. Several oboe students who participate in Cal Poly Music Department ensembles will perform and be critiqued. The public is welcome to attend. Castriotta plays second oboe and English horn for the Tucson Symphony, in addition to working as a teaching artist for the Los Angeles Philharmonic. She has held the English horn positions of the Debut Orchestra and the American Youth Symphony in Los Angeles. The free master class is sponsored by the College of Liberal Arts, Music Department, and Instructionally Related Activities program. For more information on the class, call the Music Department at ext. 6-2406.

Ethnic Studies Presents Regents' Professor Ted Jojola on Jan. 31

Cal Poly Science Café presents Pyroprints! Fingerprinting Bacteria on Feb. 7

Hear stories from Professor Chris Kitts and third-year biology student Maria Zuleta Alvarado about their adventures collecting local E. coli data for the Cal Poly Library of Pyroprints (CPLOP) at the next Cal Poly Science Café, from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 7, in the Kennedy Library’s second floor lounge. The database is intended to be a searchable, online library and lower-cost resource for tracking E. coli to help researchers understand who or what is polluting the water. One of the greatest challenges researchers face is finding ways to collect wildlife samples that include origin confirmation. Kitts and Zuleta will ask for participants’ ideas on how to solve this problem. For more information see the Kennedy Library website.

Music Ensembles to Perform Benefit Concert at Old Mission Church Feb. 9

Several of Cal Poly’s finest student music ensembles will perform traditional and contemporary chamber music at 8 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 9, in the Old Mission Church in San Luis Obispo. "A Night at the Mission" will feature performances by a saxophone quartet, saxophone ensemble, flute quartet, clarinet ensemble, trumpet ensemble, trombone choir, brass choir, brass quintet and woodwind quintet. The event is a fundraiser for the Cal Poly Band Program, whose members will travel to England, Ireland and Scotland for 12 days in June. Tickets to the Feb. 9 performance are $9 for students and senior citizens and $12 for the public. Pricing includes all Performing Arts Center fees. Tickets are sold at the Performing Arts Ticket Office between noon and 6 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. To order by phone, call SLO-4TIX (756-4849).
