Aztec Coed to Reign
As Poly Royal Queen

By Paul Sclater

Milton Brown, general superintendent of the 15th Annual Poly Royal, announced today that San Diego State College Student Body President John Coffey has selected Cal Poly's invitation to select one of its coeds to be Poly Royal Queen for 1947.

As the selection of Poly Royal Queen is one of the most important features of the "country fair on a college campus," some discussion of the acceptance of offer marks the be­ginning of preparations which will culminate in the Con­vention in San Luis Obispo May 5. A final and outstanding part of the "show window" of the educational prog­ress of this college.

The decision to invite San Diego State College to select one of its coeds to be Poly Royal Queen for 1947 was made several weeks ago after the meeting of the Poly Royal Executive Committee. Letters were sent to President Walter H. Hepner, to George F. Goehr of the San Diego student body, to Dean of Women Mendenhall, and to Public Relations Director Charles Byrne.

Charley Byrne, in a letter to Robert Kennedy, Poly's public relations director, says, "It is our hope that any one here is pleased and enthused about the entire matter and I can report that the invitation of your student body has been ac­cepted. The matter was put before the student senate, it was accepted, and one member was appointed to act as advisor of the queen. He is contacting various organizations to put up a candidate, and the contest will soon be under way."

As Cal Poly is non-coeducational the students "borrow" a queen from a neighboring college. San Diego State has been selected because of the college's alphabetical location in the Los Angeles section. Other colleges, Fresno State, Fresno City College, San Jose State and San Buenaventura have furnished one each in the past.

STUDENT OPINION ASKED AT BULL SESSION

By Jack Patterson

What should be held last Tuesday night the spe­cial committee appointed by President McPhee to discuss a bond referendum for the future improvements of the College?

The students present at the meeting were asked the question, "Why do we need a new bond referendum?" and were to discuss the problem of the problem in the columns of "Dear John."

THE STAFF

Playing the Ponies

The middle-term exams are over. Their consequences hove into view with a serious problem that is to then dominate the student's thinking: examinations.

Certainly this isn't a problem at Poly alone. Practically every college student in the country has had it in the last few days. The exigencies of examination time, and the necessity for good work, are so manifest in this week's issue, as it also mentions the problem in its educational section. No one has the right to say, "I don't have a satisfactory mind..."

We are certainly faced with the problem here on our campus. We don't think that the situation will ever be as bad in a college such as Poly as in some other types of schools because practically everyone here is interested in getting a good traffic type of training. Nevertheless, the urge or the temptation to cheat is and always will be present. In some cases it is well nigh irresistible. No one knows that better than that editor.

So what? At this school we have had several methods of trying to enforce fair play. We have had a "check system" and we have had proctors. No system seems to work very well in our school. We certainly need strong cooperation from the students in the laps of the individual instructors.

One thing we do know. A person who doesn't cheat has a hard time competing with those who do. The best study in competition is the one who has a worldiside good equivalent to a good set of ponies. While the man who cheats is not getting anything out of the course, he is still making the competition unfair for the "sucker" who does honest work. This is particularly true in the curve system of grading.

We have made some study of grading systems and we feel that the curve is a manifestly unfair way to base grades, unduly punishes the best students, and is particularly evident when cheating occurs. To make the system work at all, either no one may cheat or everyone must cheat. The system is unfair in both cases.

I am writing to the editor of The Mustang, in the capacity of field representative for columns on the malicious effects of cheating.

The fact remains that the problem is up to you.

Dear John... Dear John...

DEAR JOHN...

Dear John,

Dear John,

Being one of the proud spectators of your "Karate" Rich basketball game last Thursday, I feel like asking you others, who would like to question the Associated Students' representative on the subject of "Lookin' On" in El Mustang. How thrilling it is to see the sport in action, and especially to see that these boys are getting a few deserved cheers.

I am pleased to say that the boys are getting the cheers they deserve. The team is fine and with the help of a few more good players, we should have a really good team next year. The first time I saw this year's team, I thought it was just as good as the team that played against the "City" last year.

The team is fine and I think that with the help of a few more good players next year, we should have a really good team.

Ed. Note: The author of "Lookin' On" is a former Mustang staff member.

Last Thursday night, I am sitting in my old office chair in the main lobby. I am looking at the sign on the door and I am half of the time thinking of what I have to do. I am half of the time thinking of what I have to do. I am half of the time thinking of what I have to do.

The staff of this rag would like to know what you are doing now, John. We are wondering where you are and what you have been doing. We are wondering where you are and what you have been doing. We are wondering where you are and what you have been doing.

The staff of this rag would like to know what you are doing now, John.

Dear John,

Dear John,

My hat's off to the publications staff that put out this issue. It has been planned for a long time but the necessary equipment could not be obtained. The staff has worked until the last minute to put this issue together. It is a four-page job. There is something in it now besides ads and editorials. I hope that the Associated Students will fill the remaining six pages of this job so that they are not crowded out.

I hate to harp on things but the "I" is really a mess. All this good weather hasn't done anything to help us. The runs will come and then it will be impossible to get up to par. A few boys with brooms could sweep up some dirt. The annual spring white-washing will probably take place sometime just before Poly Rebell. Until then something should be done to clean off some of the stains. The way the "I" stands certainly doesn't help the prestige of Poly. It is up to the Fresh. * * *

Dear John, as an ex-doughfoot: Please tell me more about that $500 you are being stripped of according to your letter to Dear John of last week. As I see it, you had better go back to a school that the tuition is higher, looks more expensive, and has fees everywhere. If you want to get up to $500 you must be a student. The school is touting itself to the student government. You have to be a student to get the money. Some institutions are making the most of "what's up?" Bill to help their financial status. After reading your letter, Joe, I realize that you had better get your money before you lose your mind. So I sahmahed to cash my $65 check. You earned that $500, so you better get it while your luck is in, Joe. * * *

The staff of this rag would like to know what you students think of how it is being run and also get some suggestions for improvement. There are minutes of all survey committees with a lot of questions about everything. We have been publishing this rag being distributed by staff members. If your students are really interested in a good paper, fill out one of these sheets and turn it in to Room 16. Instead of individual complaints, this questionnaire will consolidate all opinions both pro and con.

This "borrowing" that I mentioned last week of towels and utensils from the cafe has spread to the clothes lines at the upper units. Such items as T-shirts, shorts, and even pajamas have been "borrowed" in the past couple of weeks. All I can say is that I hope the "borrowers" chokes on his coffee and strangles on his soup.

Dear Lee Gareau: Just one open note to you that I am thinking of you. I was looking over your election platform form of last year. You carried on splendidly last year, but things have been slipping badly of late. Why don't you check your platform and see what you can do about Articles IV, VIII, and X.

I was down looking over the new track and baseball fields and was glad to see that this year's program was going to be a fine athletic set-up. It is to bad somebody goofed off some- thing and tore walls down and tore lines along the line. If they want to go too far or there might be turf starting out there now. That 220 straightaway and track 400 oval will mean we can really have Poly Trackers.

'Earn While Learning'   No Idle Motto in Crops

Members of the crops department are now engaged in numerous projects, varying from two to 100 acres, according to Paul Dougall.

Stuart Fowler and Finley Nissen also are engaged in two acres of corn, peas, asparagus, radish and carrots and other vegetables. Paul Dougall also was engaged in building a field crop project of 90 acres of dryland peas and Irish potato.

The largest project is one hundred acres of oats, peas, soybeans, and barley, being handled by Floyd Loomis and Ray Crann.

As soon as more land becomes available other members, now on the waiting list, will undertake projects.

Pack ing Plant, Farm Methods
by John Colonial

The second portion of the truck and audience trip was spent at Santa Maria, several of the members, including Earl Lomm, went on an all-day field trip to the Santa Maria Valley last week.

With the help of A. S. B. Genoher, which farm has proper ties in Santa Maria, United States, with main offices in California, Genoher was able to show the members Santa Maria consists of 1500 acres and raised almost every type of vegetable grown in the district. Vegetables were harvested at the time, and the members were able to look over the different crops raised there.

Another interesting process seen was a new machine, which is called the "cow-diver." This machine is in a form of cultivation which removes the weeds in the early life of a crop. This process leaves very little host to the weed, therefore, helps in labor costs.

Aero Students
Build Turbo Jet Engine
Aerostudents at Cal Poly are now learning some of the more intricate principles of the modern turbo and jet engines. True to the Cal Poly policy of "learn by doing" the students are actually designing a turbo jet engine.

This belief in "learn by doing" is being supervised by David Mesh­ akey, head of the Aero department faculty. To facilitate the teaching of the students, a fully equipped turbo supercharger and pump has been added to the use of the engine lab for a series of tests when the jet engine is completed.

This project will give the students an opportunity to operate a jet engine on the ground and to measure and plot the various performance curves.

Many new boards consist of Crispin Wong, president, and Elton Turner, Ken Taylor, as members of the new board.

Pimentel vs. Rosen, Main Event on Fun Nite Card

Sports fans will want to be on hand this evening at 8 p.m., when the Boxing and Wrestling on Tap will present the annual spring night of the current boxing and wrestling season in the Poly gym.

Flaring the fun night event will be hard-hitting Gene Pimentel at 170 pounds, and Howard "Hot" Rosen, of Cleveland, Ohio, 165 pounds. The first organized meeting of those going out for baseball will be held Thursday, February 15, in the Engineering Auditorium. At this time, the American National League 1951 world series pictures will be shown. Pitchers and catchers will start practice on February 21st.

Mike Meola, who is the baseball coach as well as the basketball coach has stated that a long, hard, interesting schedule has been arranged and that it will depend on your physical condition in how fast you will be able to progress in making the varsity club. All men that plan to go out for baseball should spend their time getting in condition. Meola says your time should be spent in running, jumping, pushing, throwing, and light throwing.

Although there are still a few more weeks before baseball practice actually begins, candidates for the Poly nine will be interested to know that the first baseball field which is now under construction will be ready for use in approximately ten days. If the weather continues to be an ongoing affair, construction should prom-

Aztecs and Gauchos to Be Hosts for Mustangs

Cal Poly's cagers take to the road for their next four games. On Thursday, February 6, the Mottmen play their cousins from the Voorhis Unit at the Bonita High Gym in San Dimas. The Mustangs will be meeting a team of unknown quality when they play the men from San Dimas.

However, in all fairness a victory or loss is the outcome for the Mustangs. The Mustangs then will travel to the border city of San Diego to battle the Azters who are definitely EGCA champs. Friday night will be a conclusion to an unforgettable season loss of 50-47.

Mott has indicated that he will be adding a new face to the Gaucho pavilion. Coach Hob Mott, a 6 ft. 2 inch freshman, is the team's leading scorer. Another outstanding performance will be that of Bob Hooks, 6 ft. 4 inch center. Hooks is National A.A.D. broad jump champ. Barney Newsom is also one of the Mustang's high point performers.

Cal Poly will return home for two days and then play Santa Barbara College in a return engagement, February 17th, in the Gauchos pavilion. Coach Bob Mott and his fighting band of hoolies will be out to average an even season loss of 50-47.

Inside San Diego, Poly will have to stop the Gauchos Aces Heller in one come-out on top.

For all of these contests, Coach Mott has stated that he will stand by his starting five of Noss, Leiter, Ball, Mottmen, and Hunting.

Everything Good to Eat

The fire has died and the troubled waters have been calmed in the little controversy between this writer and the people from up north around hooker Joe. I had written a letter to Bill Hubbard, San Jose football coach, asking for his views on the way certain people were kicking Cal Poly's good name around. I received a reply after press time last week. In it, Mr. Hubbard and his associates here state in his letter in its entirety.

"Dear Mr. Griffin,

"Thank you for your letter regarding the article in Louis Dulo's column. I appreciate your checking with me for I had not seen the article and I would like to pass on the facts as I know them. However, before I go any further I would like to assure you that I have not dis­cussed Cal Poly with Dulo, and if he has quoted me I'm certain he is in error. The true facts are these and I'm sure you can verify them with Howie O'Danielle or Mr. Meacham."

"San Jose was the only college in the C.C.A. that opposed Cal Poly's entrance into the conference, but our objection was purely for financial reasons. We felt the arrangement was a poor one because the population of San Luis Obispo and the surrounding territory makes impossible a suitable financial return. Our average gate for football games runs between eight and ten thousand dollars, and our letter games higher than that.

"Cal Poly can only afford to give a guarantee of $500.00 this year to play in San Luis Obispo. We will have to cut our traveling squad to make the trip without losing money so, it just doesn't make sense, because our football pro­gram must support itself."

"When the vote was taken and Cal Poly was entered into the conference, San Jose accepted entry in good faith, and, as evidence of our good faith, I would like to point out that we were Poly's main supporter in the ensuing controversy over Poly's share of the gate when traveling. As a result of this support, Poly can now share the same rights as any other school.

"Finally, please be assured of this. We have plenty of respect for all coaching staff, and I hope you realize that we are aware of the high quality of your teams. While some Bay area newspapers have been having us sched­uling your team I'm certain they will change their tune when they learn more of your capabilities. I'm not ex­pecting a win this week and Mr. Mallory and his players feel the same way. If we can win by one point, we will be pleased."

"I hope this will straighten out once and for all the griping that has been going on by the less informed persons."

Best regards,

Wilton Hubbard

San Jose Heads Football Coach"

Mr. Dulo seems to have been left in the cold somewhere along the line, but we expect to hear from him soon.

George Baker, the Sports Editor for the San Luis Telegram-Tribune, received a similar letter from Chuck Mallory. Some people feel that things Mallory had to say was: "No, George, there are no hard feelings towards you whatsoever. When I spoke to the San Luis Obispo I would defend Cal Poly as strongly as you are against any and all opposition." Well, Mr. Mallory, as far as your staff and I are concerned, we have that in common with Mr. Baker.

Coach Bob Mott's boys put on an exceptional show Saturday night when they came through with the win over the Kansas City Stars. Everybody left the gym well-satisfied. Most com­ments heard concerned Poly's lack of height and the possibilities if we had it. The boys make a good job of it in other de­partments and have earned the respect of opposing players and coaches. A team with all the drive this squad has and as well coached as it is will never lack student support.

Enterprising Vets Open Market

Mobile Mustang Market Serves Vet Village

When well-wishers ask Cal Poly Veterans Brad Arrington and Paul Bowman how their new business enterprise is doing, their stock answer is "It's rolling along." And they really mean that it is "rolling" for these ambitious students are now operating a complete, super food mart on wheels serving the 150 non-campus vet family units, and the new faculty family housing of 20 units.

Appropriately named "Mustang Market," the mobile food store began operations last Tuesday with Mrs. Elizabeth Case, wife of student Jim Case, in charge of sales. The mobile market was remodeled from an old Los Angeles Transit company bus with a seating capacity of 50.

Clover planning on the part of Merchants Arrington and Bowman is evident in the well-constructed compartments, antique white interior, and well-arranged shelves. Prospective customers enter the market through the rear door, pick up a shopping basket, and proceed forward toward the front of the bus where the cash register is located near the driver's seat.

The market was Bowman's idea, and with friend Arrington they began working on details last April. They received permission from the administration to operate on the campus, but were delayed by difficulties in obtaining a bus.

They finally located the bus in Burbank around Thanksgiving, and have since been remodeling it. Painted green with the name "Mus­tang Market" spray-painted on the side, the bus is now a far-cry from its former dilapidated appearance.

Arrington and Arrington help out between classes and one or the other of them drives the bus to another. At present they are parking it at veteran villages from 9 to noon each day and at the trailer units from 1 to 4 p.m.

Ag Inspection Club Meets

Sixteen students, representing the San Luis Obispo Ag Inspection Club, held a recent meeting to formulate plans for the Winter Quarter and to discuss plans for the club's participation in Poly Royal.

Mr. Kerig, club adviser, opened the meeting with the announcement that a club reporter was needed for El Mustang. The members thereupon unanimously elected Lawrence Brant as their club reporter.

After a discussion of the coming Poly Royal, the members voted to again sponsor the inspection station at the entrance to the campus. A copy of the school paper and a complete Poly Royal schedule is distributed to each automo­bile entering the campus during Poly Royal.

Willard Mayhew, senior inspection student, was elected club re­presentative to El Rodeo, Cal Poly's yearbook.

Due to the fact that the Ag Inspection department is located at San Luis Obispo, only those students working for a degree are attending San Luis Obispo. The SLO Ag Inspection Club is composed almost entirely of those students who had their education interrupted because of the war.

Navy Buzzes Campus

Lie. J. L. Carlson, naval flyer at­tached to the U. S. S. Atlantis, now at San Pedro, visited the campus January 16th at the county airport. Lie. Carlson was a mem­ber of Midshipmen 12 at Cal Poly's Naval Flight Prep school and was graduated December, 1945. He hopes to return here to school as soon as he gets out of the Navy.

WIVES BENEFIT . . . When the "Mustang Market" opened officially last Tuesday, Mrs. Brad Arrington (left) and Mrs. Paul Bow­man (right) were there with bells on to buy their week's supply of groceries on the cuff at their highest expense. They are shown here with Brad and Paul and an unidentified customer.

MOBILE CREW . . . Merchants Bowman and Arrington are pictured here with Mrs. Elizabeth Case, clerk, and their new "MUSTANG MARKET" which will serve the married families living on the cam­pus. The mobile food mart carries a complete line of groceries, fruit, vegetables, frozen foods, bakery goods, and specialty items.
