Egan Named to New Post, Dean of Student Welfare

Eugene A. Egan, Assistant Dean in Charge of Admissions, Guidance and Placement, has been named Dean of Student Welfare effective March 11. It was learned here today from Julius McPhie, president.

The Dean of Student Welfare is a new position approved by the State Department of Education and the State Department of Finance for the purpose of placing authority in the hands of one person charged with the responsibility of supervising all student welfare activities.

President McPhie stated:

The general duties of this position will be as set up in the official administration of the State Department of Education and the State Department of Finance.

The position of dean of student welfare involves responsibility for the operation of all student welfare activities at the Institute. If the administrative responsibility involves the coordination of activities of student welfare organizations, groups, and advisory organizations, the adequacy and appropriateness of services provided by the student welfare activities. The position involves the supervision of the entire student activities and services and the immediate coordination of social and campus student activities.

Recently Egan was promoted from position of Residence Dean in Charge of the Students' Building. He had been registrar at the college since 1941. During the period from January 1 to November 1, 1947, he was a member of the Board of Directors of the Student Building. He had been active in the affairs of the school and had been a member of the California State Board of Agriculture and Animal Health.

Prior to coming to California he was a member of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin, where he had served as an instructor in psychology.

Feather Merchants Consume Plenty of Fried Chicken

By Herbert Bundeuse

The huge amount of chicken consumed at the annual Poultry club Chicken Fry was evident from the success of the banquet held at the No. 1 cafeteria on March 9. Well over 200 pounds of chicken were consumed by the members of the Poultry club and their guests which totaled over 100 persons.

President Jay Tucker welcomed the guests and introduced Mr. Egan, who was one of the guests present. He was the keynote speaker for the evening, and many compliments were paid to Mr. Egan for his efforts in behalf of the Poultry club.

He emphasized the importance of the Poultry club and its activities in the development of the student body. The Poultry club is an organization that is completely devoted to the improvement of the Poultry industry and to the education of its members.

The banquet was a success, and the group realized the importance of the Poultry club in the development of the student body.
Do unto Others?

It seems that there is an interesting phenomena that takes place whenever most people climb behind the steering wheel of an automobile. As pedestrians most people are polite. As drivers most people are selfish and boorish. The reason for the change is hard to discover, the effects are, however, ever so apparent. Most accidents are caused by discourtesy.

Whenever drivers as a class decide that they will apply the golden rule to their activities as chauffeurs then the National Safety Council, the law enforcement agencies, the insurance companies, and the country will find that automobile accidents have been reduced to almost nothing.

Until drivers become courteous of others, all the laws and admonitions in existence will not do much to reduce the shocking toll taken by automobiles in this country.

We are college students; we are supposed to have some elements of common sense in our makeups; we are supposed to be able to work out logical solutions to our problems. For all of that, we, as a class, aren't much if any improvement over the general run of drivers.

The persons on this campus have been lucky; at present there is only one student who has been seriously injured on the campus. There are a few more who have been injured off the campus this year. On the whole though we have been luckier than our driving records justify. That luck can't last forever.

If we don't seriously adopt this courteous driving idea immediately, we will find out several things. First the hearing shortage will probably be partially solved. A corpse only takes up about 18 square feet of space. Then too, if the safety campaign now being organized by E. A. Steiner, security officer on the campus, doesn't succeed the State Highway Patrol will expand its program. And that will cost money.

These guys don't have time to fool around; they just scratch a few lines on a piece of paper and the next thing a judge says, please remit; Steiner promised that he wouldn't give up his efforts until we were doing a lot of us convincing the Poly drivers that courtesy is the best policy. So, if you won't heed these warnings don't say we didn't warn you that the state police aren't the only people who can write tickets that cost money.

Is it worth the extra worry? Why not slow down and give the other guy a break? That will remove one more hazard in the way of your diploma.

Ed. Note: President Garvan almost missed the big hit of this week. If he had gone to the deadline so closely, he might have to feed his car pigeon food instead.

The most controversial lead for this week's column, and the lead that brings us the greatest pleasure, is to welcome the many new students to our fold here at Poly. Cal Poly.

We are glad to have you here and we hope that your college life at Poly reaches beyond your expectations.

There are many ways in which you can take an active part in your student body activities. Participation in the minor sports, relatively few at Poly, offers great opportunities for those interested in running and wrestling, track and basketball. The baseball season is now underway, and all men will be welcomed to the squad.

The music department, under "Davey" Davidson, has many fields of music open for those interested in this field. Publications, with Bob Kennedy advisor, have several openings for writers. It is hoped that many talented students will be attracted to these opportunities already financed with student body funds.

Ed. Note: We forgot to say for being late. We need help lots in room 101. We are summarizing the opportunities for all Poly students in student body activities, one foe each seems outstanding. The idea, "no group is any better than the individual" applies well to our student body. What you receive in ways of benefits and enjoyment from the student body will be the result of the collective efforts of the student body members.

Bill Walls, chairman of the constitution revision committee, will have a finished product in the way of a new student body constitution in a short time. Members of this committee are Leo Roger, Art Glitsky and Al Quinn. Pete Beck and Bill Trousdale are advisors to the group.

Attempting to overcome the many ambiguities appearing in the present constitution, the group has done a thorough task. A new pre-production in the yearbook.

AC Dept. Slates Field Trip to S.F.

By Robert F. King

Over forty members of the Air Conditioning department will leave tomorrow on a field trip to San Francisco, where they will attend an exhibition of processing and storing frozen foods. In addition they also plan to visit the Sutter-Sacramento Steel plant and the Swift packing plant in San Francisco. If conducted tours are available through these two plants, the present tour is to visit them. It will be held in room B of the engineering building today at 4 p.m.

EGAN NAMED TO NEW POST

Public Schools, Cascade Public Schools, and Fergus County High School, all in Montana. He also served as Director of Agriculture at Tracy Union High School, Calif. He received his Bachelor of Science degree from Montana State College in 1932, and his Master of Science degree from the same institution in 1940. While doing his graduate work, he was a teaching fellow at Montana State from 1939-40.

Walders To Get Last Word On Field Trip

All students who are going on the welding field trip March 26-28 to the San Francisco Bay World will meet on Friday at 12:30 at the welding shop to receive instructions for the trip. Tickets for the Western Metal Congress will be issued at this time according to R. C. Wiley, welding instructor.

STUDENTS’ WIVES

The Students’ Wives club held its last meeting of the winter quarter on Thursday, March 6, at the Anderson Hotel Bldg. The meeting was presided over by the President, Jo Ronoy.

The main portion of the meeting was taken up by the election of officers for the spring quarter. Those elected were: Pat Grubs, president; Marcia Grace, vice-president; Lillian Stump, secretary; and Doris Gregowski, treasurer.

LIBRARY PLANS FOR POLY ROYAL

The Cal Poly Library is planning to hold "open house" during Poly Royal. In addition there will be an attractive display of "Books of the West." The exhibition will feature books about early California history, the Santa Fe Trail, the Pony Express and Western History. Another exhibit will include periodical and special volumes of books done by June Glenn, a member of the Library staff.

Editor's Note:

The following contribution was found in one of the little used typewriters in the office one morning. It's strictly a foundling. I don't know who is responsible, or why. Will the author please note in and claim it? We don't want it and we feel that it needs the tender care of its creator.

The other morning I was in an exceptionally good mood when I awoke with the sun shining in my window. As I looked about the room I saw my roommate picking at the nails from my wrist with the tool shining in his window. As I looked about the room I saw my roommate picking at the nails from the remainder of last night’s dinnerroom sandwich. What is today, I asked him rather intelligently. He mumbles something about it being none of my damned business what he did the night before and rolls over and goes back to sleep. I look at my watch and it says that it is Monday, so I decide to clean up what is coming off here. After all even if clocks can’t tell what day it is, I begin my daily ritual that begins twice a week — first I read two pages of my Boy Scout Manual, then I read fourteen pages of Peake and Peake (which turns out to be written by Thaddeus Smith), then I consult the 1918 weather map, proceed to read a few pages of the Peake, Illinois, telephone directory, and finally read all my daily letters for the last few years. I find out that eight out of ten of my De Sole again, I don’t come once a year, that beer is best when diluted with whiskey and that it is eleven o’clock Sunday afternoon. So — I go back to bed. It’s raining any way.
