Overpaid Vet Must Refund Excess Money

World War II veterans who have interrogated their training and failed to make arrangements to receive veterans' allowance overpayments may be unable to recover their earnings if veterans' allowance establishments under the G. I. Bill are not notified.

They can, however, retaine a certain period of time, during which their earnings have not been exhausted, by notifying the military establishment.

Veterans approved for re-

enrollment in school, or who may make arrangements in a lump sum, may arrange that the extra will be withheld until their obligation paid, or, in hardship cases, may file a claim against the government for the substances payments.

Those that are at or below the trials of their training should make other arrangements to repay the money for the government.

The V. A. is required by law to collect these overpayments. They will in no manner try to force hardships on veterans in the process of collection.

Several factors are responsible for these overpayments. A Chief among these is Public Law 604 which imposes a ceiling on veterans' allowance payments. If a veteran is to be made an employed veteran in addition to his basic insurance, he is entitled to a greater force to part with that this dollar which had followed him through the pleasure and knowledge con-gratulatcng government, and been motivated by a higher patriotic spirit.

Poly Goes Cosmopolitan

In distinct contrast to the rest of California's State colleges, Cal Poly has a cosmopolitan enrollee with residents from all over this state and students from forty-nine other states and territories. In addition, Poly has enrolled students from eight foreign countries, most of them from Latin America.

Los Angeles sends more than pupil to this college, with over a quarter of the enrollment coming from urban areas than from rural areas.

Considerably more students are enrolled from both out of state and distant regions of California. Perform Before Admiring Throng Making its first public performance of the year, the Cal Poly and gold uniformed band strut its stuff at the Cal Poly-Cal Tech game last Saturday evening.

A capacity crowd filled the stands, with many Cal Tech students present. Students and visitors alike expressed enthusiasm and interest in the Collegians; this being their first public appearance of the school year.

The success of the dance was largely due to the happy committee, which spent many hours getting the gym decorated for the event, and the Collegians, who are considered as one of the finest college dance bands on the coast.

Trailers Increase Campus Housing
By Eugene Kemper

Of the 188 trailer homes in the new unit near Hillcrest, 42 have been completed and opened to married students' families this week, according to Major J. C. Deuel, in charge of housing.

Deuel stated that the rest of the trailers will be ready for occupancy very early. The new group, together with the trailers erected last year, makes a total of about 1000 students housed on the campus.

Deuel stated that there are also 600 students at Camp San Luis Obispo, 80 living at Los Hilgueros housing unit, and the balance residing in private homes in San Luis Obispo.
Mustangs Face Aztecs In Conference Opener

By I, Harry Endo

Girded to the manuever with confidence, the Mustangs will meet the San Diego State Aztecs in the initial conference game of the season Saturday night at San Diego. This contest may well be considered the proving ground for the D'Ondati-men who have yet to show their best. On paper, which still shows definite signs of a deep with the absence of Marshall Sambro's and Don Van Hardeveld at the center, Backfield mentor Chuck Pavello has a tough task before him in plugging legal leaks which will make the trip. All in excellent physical shape, Paul Plato definitely distinguished himself as an offensive and defensive threat in the recent match with Cal Tech. Backer Bob Ahby showed rasping defense all over the field. Shunn Nomura should perform like a charm if given frequent rest periods, and the boy who can carry on while Nomura’s resting in J. D. Phillips. Phillips is equally developing a great backfield.

The Aztecs, completely rested after upsetting Utah State College two weeks ago, have cleared their store for action. Bill entertaining from last week was the hard charging in the hands of Lee Roka and company. They have been near the branch, or seen or been free. Sporting a new look, Poly will field the all-star first team. Bill Schute, San Diego boisterous lines are the best of the best.

All-American Guard

George Barns, who holds down one of the guard slots, was All-American, with his attendance at the U. S. Naval Academy in 1946. Barns also saw a hard-charging line in the Cal defense, and his presence in the backfield with the net result of nine fumbles recovered out of ten. Keith Curry, Barns was again playing as a guard, whose boys will probably be forced to take the肩负. Whether Behrens and Rose will receive necessary protection remains to be seen.

In John Simon, the Aztecs have aắp entitled to a great 40-yard dash. Simon's name had been linked with the Utah game and Simon's name had been linked with the Utah game. Barns was again playing as a guard, whose boys will probably be forced to take the bus. Whether Behrens and Rose will receive necessary protection remains to be seen.

Here is the schedule as announced by Mott this week:
| Sept. 28 | Poultry vs. Young Farmers |
| Sept. 19 | All-Stars vs. Bangtail |
| Oct. 2 | All-Stars vs. Bangtail |
| Oct. 19 | All-Stars vs. Bangtail |

College Boxeag Team Meeting For Set Day

All students who are interested in becoming members of the Poly boxing team are asked to report to the gym platform this afternoon at 4 p.m., Dave Ringer, former student coach who is now a coach at Poly, will be on hand to meet those who turn out. The boxing tent will be set up next week as do daily workouts as before.

Coach Charles Pavello is anticipating a great team, with the return of Art Guicciardi, COLA featherweight champ. Tony, runner-up in the Cola six weight class, and Gene Fennel.

Frosh Team Plays Fresno Here Saturday

A rejuvenated and reshuffle boasting an abundance of experience to make its debut at Poly Saturday. The Frosh have finally hit their stride, are anticipating a sharp game of football.

Unlike the varsity, the Frosh breaks a fullback. Tony was converted because of his special talents at back-up the line. Lin­

Ritter and Coach Pavello are back on the field, which still shows definite signs of a lack.

Job Vacancies Will Be Posted

By Guy Thomas

Are you looking for a job? If you are, the man to see is Major Deuel, who is in charge of the student employment office. This office is open to students who wish part-time work.

Employment vacancies will be posted on the bulletin board in the basement of the Administration building and students who wish to check the employment office.

Major Deuel stated that "part time jobs on or off campus are at all times in need and at this time there is a wave of unemployment, for the demand for jobs is greater than the supply."

Veteran-Student
Report of Earnings

No Teacher Asked

Veteran studying in colleges and universities under the G. I. Bill must have to make periodic reports of earnings to the Veterans Administration.

The elimination of this report will streamline the procedures for these veterans to those allowances. It is designed to save time and money by eliminating the need for paying more than necessary, the estimated 100,000 reports filed by veterans. During the coming year the VA, during the current year reported any differences between these payments and actual income during the school year.

Cooperative Housing Solves Faculty Problem

By Merr Chamberlain

The second teaching position at Cal Poly and not being moneys for housing themselves and their families, two camps of the faculty met to consider seriously their housing problems, with the purpose of solving them foremost in their minds. Af ter consultation, the group, consisting of six who were willing and able to give up some of their recreation time, John C. Gardner, president of Cal Poly, and about 100 others met to consider the formation of a cooperative to own and manage a housing project for faculty.

The group, which included faculty members and students interested in real estate, met to discuss the possibilities of acquiring property and formulating plans for a cooperative development of housing for the faculty. The group decided to form a cooperative housing association, or FHG, and to proceed with the project.

The FHG purchased a two-acre plot of land just south of the Cal Poly campus and "drew straws" to decide who would get what piece of land. The FHG also decided to form a committee to work on the building of the houses.

The committee included faculty members and students interested in construction. They planned to build a ranch type with asbestos shingles and concrete floors, which was the architectural department's recommendation. The committee also decided to build a basement with the assistance of Ham mitt, who had experience in the construction trade.

The FHG financed the project from its funds and the cooperation of the campus. Cal Poly students and faculty interested in recreation building were invited to attend the next meeting.

Thoroughbreds Breeders Like College Educated Colts

A college education may do much for a young Thoroughbred as it will do for a young man if figures do not belI fact. Four colts consigned to the 1947 sale of Poly's Thoroughbred breeding unit brought a record price of $2,660. This is the highest price received by the college to date for a yearling.

In the summer sales of 1946, a colt from the mare donated by Bing Crosby brought $1,856 which helps disprove the Bob Hope myth that Bing's horses never pay off. The colt was Bon Era by Bon Homme and was sired by *Zuncho, outstanding Chilean stallion. Presented to Cal Poly by Walter T. Wallis, the Thoroughbred breeding project at Poly grew out of a demand at Poly for instructional aids to animal husbandry. With limited facilities, enrollment is limited to sophomore and Junior students Interested in Thoroughbred breeding. The progeny of the thoroughbred breeding unit now has two mares in foal, one of limited facilities, enrollment is limited to sophomore and Junior students Interested in Thoroughbred breeding. The newly organised Biological Society department recently welcomed to its staff Dr. Glenn A. Noble, a man of wide and varied experience both in the country and in the Orient.

Dr. Noble was born in Korea, a twin son of missionaries. He came to the United States in 1927 to enter the University of California, where he obtained his A. B. and M. A. degrees. His Ph. D. was earned at Stanford University.

In Korea, Dr. Noble helped organise and establish laboratories and curricula for the American Education system in that country, which replaced the former Japanese dominated school system.

Dr. Noble taught Biology and Pathology at Seoul National University medical college in Korea. He taught one summer at Marine Biology at Pusan Fisheries college in Korea. He once taught laboratory technique in a group of laymen who worked in the Biology field.

In the past year, Dr. Noble has been consultant in biology for the United States Military Government in Korea. In the United States he has taught at the College of the Pacific, in Stockton, and at San Francisco junior college.

"Poly," said Dr. Noble, "has a great future and I am glad to be a part of that future."

Dr. Noble's twin brother, Dr. Elmer Noble, is chairman of the Department of Biology of Santa Barbara State.

Students Operate Campus Crops Store

By Ted Laine

With approximately 56 different kinds and varieties of fruits and vegetables being offered for sale in the buying public, the Crops department of the Agriculture building is experiencing a fall quarter of thriving business.

The store is open from 9 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and on Saturdays from 11 to 12 noon. Operation of the store is handled entirely by students and at present is under the management of junior Johnny Schaaf who works the store and serves customers the coin for all purchases.

All products sold in the store are produced on the Cal Poly campus or by student projects, both on and off the campus. Student grown items are sold on a 10 per cent commission basis, while proceeds from college projects and the state-owned orchards are returned to the college and state respectively.

The primary purpose of all products and services is instructional and experimental; however, the returns from sales more than pay for the costs of operation. According to Paul Dougherty, head of the Crops department, the prices charged are comparable to those of the commercial operator and the prices are in line with quality.

While catering principally to the students and faculty, any values in excess of campus family demands is marketed to the college refectory and beyond to local retailers and to the terminal market in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Crops Class Takes Trip

Comparing the old with the new has always been a good way to see advances in a particular field.
The general Field Crops class found this to be true recently when they went on a field trip to the Carroll Brothers farm in the Edna Valley. There they studied the hand picking of sugar beets.
Last week the class studied mechanical harvesting of sugar beets at Betteravia, Santa Barbara county. Although the mechanical harvesting has had points, hand harvesting has not and will not be entirely discarded for some time to come.

In addition to studying the harvesting of sugar beets, the class viewed the processing of the beets in the Union Sugar refinery at Betteravia.
The class is instructed by Ralph Vorhies, and is particularly designed for students of majors other than Field Crops.
