In the nine months since it was named California Polytechnic State College, the campus has been filled with students, faculty and friends. The college now has a permanent home and is ready to set out on its future. This is the story of how a dream became a reality.

PE Workshop Begins Monday

Baseball, basketball and spotlight headline the opening of Poly's fourth annual PE workshop Monday, August 6. The annual athletic conclave gets underway at 10 a.m. when John Wooden, UCLA basketball coach, begins explaining the do's and don'ts of the hardwood game. If anyone should be able to explain the game's finer points it's Wooden. The former Purdus All-American has established himself as one of the coaching greats of the present era and his Brute squad have acquitted themselves in the most fashion against all comers.

The athletic conclave was opened by Wooden himself, who played by his rule book has made a handful of old UCLA scoring records and has brought the school three conference titles and one Pacific coast crown.

All-Time Great Wooden, one of the few players ever to be named All-American for three straight seasons, 1939, 40 and 41, was considered the finest player of his time. With low-scoring games being the vogue these days and a center jump fouling every score, a player had to be equally adept on defense as well as offense.

UCLA, for a years conference doomsday in basketball, has progressed during the last few years to such an extent that the old idea of "Break-up the Tobacco" has been applied to the Westwood school in something more than a humorous vein.

Baseball will also share the spotlight with basketball during the first week of instruction. Poly's Bob Motz and Art Radel, bruins benchmark, will present a program designed to show the in-and-out of the game. The course is more than ably assisted by three veterans of the famous Ocean League "Babe" Harmon, Howie Hask (proclaimed Hanks) and Bob Deubler.

Meet The Babe Harmon was for years a star player with the Brooklyn Dodgers during an era when the run with any other player in the major leagues. He was better known, Is from Imperial, Calif., and has his education at Cal Poly.

The racehorse style of play emblazoned by Harmon, a 5-foot 11-inch, 180-pound, 30-year-old, is common knowledge to almost everyone who has been to California for the past few years.

Harmon's talents were turned to the campus for the first time in 1965 while visiting Figueroa high school. His clear affection for the field led him to be named All-American for three straight seasons, 1930, '30 and '31, while attending UCLA.

Figueroa students were divided into two teams; the Harbor side of the game. They will be measured against the Westwood school with every point as significant as any that have gone the same in the regular season. The results of the game will be scored as part of the final season standings.

Construction Work Viewed

By Harry Kowler

Contrary to rumor, the Seabees, which takes over the campus even though the rush of building activities is numbing news for the famous naval construction battalions.

Daily progress on the new dormitory, sciences, knowledge as to how the plant, each moving operations and the plant, and the men involved in this project, and carrying out their duties in the field of science, medicine, and engineering.

Other projects are not so conspicuous, being carried out in a more secluded part of the campus. These include a new library, saving money for the future, and preparing concrete forms, for the new meat lab and slaughter house.

1928 Graduate Absent 15 Years

Former Cal Poly graduate Charles O. Swope took over the campus in the first time in 15 years while visiting John Figueroa, chief engineer. The man who is the father of the class of 1928, was much impressed by the changes he saw, and has since been installed as the new chief design engineer for the shipbuilding industries, Inc., Los Angeles.

Elliot Waite Installed As New Grant Master

Recent Grange Installation

The first college campus Grange on the west coast was duly installed here Tuesday night amid throngs of people of all ages through eighty years of Grange history.

Student Elliot Waite, newly elected Master, presented his gavel from Mrs. Ruby Ruble, president of the Women's Grange Master, early in the evening. The installation of the Master completed, Mrs. Ruble installed the Miss Polly State College Grange Tuesday night.

Garages And Porches May Stop Fall Room Shortage

With a survey of available housing on campus, both that already in use and that which has never before been used for housing, the Dean of Students offers this is tackling the biggest problem it has had for quite a spell.

Figuring every possibility from using Poly View trailers to putting people in vacant Lebanon, Dean Chandler is fairly certain the larger part of some 250 students who will arrive this fall.

There will be a couple hundred left, he feels.

This will be just about 200 more than there were in the Associated Students' facilities during the last school year.

Which means the college will now have to provide a place that will make available more rooms to judge students.

Many college students, and many faculty members also, who own or rent homes nearby will find this an opportunity to help pay their bills.

Summer Brings Joys To Poly View Trailer

By Joyce Golden

Sir Bus, the company that operates the trailer in Poly View, has been asked by the Associated Students to provide it for the remainder of the school year.

We will see Sir Bus in the parking lot near the school, after the trailer has been moved to its permanent location.

Sir Bus has been used to hold a place of affection in the hearts of many Poly Viewers, and has probably made more money for Poly View in the past year than the Associated Students have made.

Summer arrivals, Doug and Deb, who have found that Poly View is not quite as crowded as they had expected it to be.

This is due to the lack of sleep that follows the trailer.

Sir Bus has become the subject of a number of jokes, but it is not quite as amusing as it used to be.

The front passenger seat is often occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Barnum, who are always ready to tell you about their latest trip to the beach.

Sir Bus is also a favorite of the Associated Students, who often use it for their meetings and social events.

The trailer is a welcome addition to the Poly View community, and is loved by all who use it.

Leon, although having various scholarships failure him elsewhere, came to Cal Poly because many friends were attending there. Enrolling in Cal Poly in 1949 he was chosen captain of the freshman football team. He also was selected on the all-opponent team for Fresno and San Francisco city colleges.

Also a Boxer

He began boxing at Cal Poly in 1949 where he made first string at the weight of 175 pounds. Besides placing second in the inter-conference tournament he also claimed a very close third in the state tournament with Los Angeles as one of the stiffest competition on the Pacific Coast.

Great things were expected of Leon in the 1950-51 season. However, his season was cut short after two fights in which he had an old shoulder injury acquired in football. However, Leon has since begun his good training and should turn out for fall practice in good shape.

Keeler Up For San Jose Main Event

Harry Keeler will for the third time this summer compete for another crowning moment when he rides the San Luis Obispo's 44-mile handicap program on the one mile San Jose fairground track.

Harry, proclaimed by many as the "Magic Man," recently swept three first places in the amateur-novice California State Championship on the Santa Barbara County fairground track in Santa Maria.

Grange Installation

A crowd of more than 500 watched as the grange breekers seated as the rituals were performed on the basketball floor. As each of the new officers was installed, he took his place at salute positions about the outer edge of the floor according to Grange procedure.

Visitors from all over the state attended the meeting, including the state senator from this district, A. A. Sherard, and his wife.

Following the installation of officers, making Carl Poly State College Grange number 778 an official body, Master Elliot Walker took over the meeting. He introduced suitable guests and presented the evening's speakers.

Elizabeth F. Chandler, national farm week chairman, welcomed the young organization into the Grange fold and wished them success in their work.

President McPhie told how glad he was to see a Grange on campus. He spoke of his earlier contacts with the Grange and how he has sponsored the campus group to be one of the most active organizations in this area.

George Schmitter, state Grange Master, gave some history of the Grange. He said one reason the order has lasted for eighty years while other groups died out was the opportunity for husband-wife participation.

Last year's baseball team won 22 games while losing seven, finishing a strong third in CCAA play.

The 1760 square foot building will be available for student instruction in slaughtering, meat processing and cold storage.

Studv of animal anatomy and physiology will also feature in the 8th of the completed unit. The beef feeding unit, located near the feed mill, is on its way to completion. Yard Boyd, chief of agriculture, reports that the unit will have a capacity of 150 to 175 of the school's herd of Shorthorns, Angus, and Herefords.

The livestock judging pavilion, the large greenhouse and meat processing equipment will be complete by the fall term, along with slaughter houses and feed mill. The slaughtering unit will provide the missing link in the cycle of meat production from self-feeding through pasture feeding, feed lot, selection, slaughtering, processing and storage, says Luneman, animal husbandry chief.

Preparation of the dairy unit is in full swing as evidenced by the large scale earth moving operations on the site on the back road.

Vehie1 Registration

"It is important that every vehicle on the campus be registered," said Ernest Stayer, security chief. "It is also important to have the correct sticker on the windshield. The B-B sticker is no longer valid," he said.
