IS WAR INEVITABLE?

The following quotation taken from Harvard University's American Foreign Policy Library edition of "The United States and Russia", Russia has provided the food for thought in a time of tension.

"War is never inevitable if by that phrase we mean that war is a natural phenomenon like a tidal wave that no amount of human knowledge and advance preparation can possibly avert. It becomes, or at least comes to appear, inevitable only when we go off the rails of human reason and action. It has been allowed to pass through lack of information, heedlessness, or even for a time, blind arrogance; but at every point it reveals a deficiency in the comprehension of its own gravity.

All of these phenomena characteristic of periods preceding the actual outbreak of war have become tragically evident in a quarter of a century, and are again observable in what we had optimistically anticipated would be a "post-war" period.

The United States and Russia, the two protagonists in any major conflict that may occur, both know little about each other, and such information as each possesses is often distorted by mutual prejudice and fear. Messenger information, in turn, has caused both countries to place sinister interpretations on each other's actions.

Each, in its own way, following the traditional course of its interests, has reached out for greater power as a result of World War II—Russia by seeking to expand its influence over neighboring countries through military force and Communist propaganda, and the United States by trying to acquire new strategic bases on grounds of security and larger markets for its exports on grounds of equality of economic opportunity.

What has seemed like security for both countries is the United States has looked like aggressiveness to Russia. In a speech, the author said of the United States that it had acquired the flag which it had lost during World War I, and the new world that the United States was creating had been the world that had been destroyed by World War II. The author said that the United States was creating a world of its own that was not the world that the United States had destroyed. The author said that the United States was creating a world that was better than the world that had been destroyed by World War II.

The "The United States and Russia" and a companion volume, "The United States and Japan" are both recent additions to the Poly Library.

Block P Elects

Next Year’s Officers

J. T. Moroski, Junior physical education major, has been elected team captain for the second successive year, and was elected team captain for 1949. Don Garman started on the hill for the Blues, and for the first time in many weeks the little hurler showed his effectiveness in a mid-season assignment. For three innings the little hurler held his own, but the loaded bases of the powerful Glove-troduce plus some fielding mistakes sent the game in the seventh frame. During the school year Garman pitched the Mustangs into second place in the CCAA conference and was elected "most valuable player" and served a berth on the All-Conference team.

Another Mustang, Pinky Beber, who captured at short in the Blues, was not in uniform for the game. His service also was honeymooning up in northern California with his bride, the former Shirley Farrar.

Beber, who anchored the 1948 Mustang squad and made the second team of the conference in his position. His heavy stick-work was an important feature in tom and the Mustang victories last season.

Blues Squad 13-1

In Exhibition Tilt

The nationally known Harlem Globetrotters baseball team invaded San Luis Obispo last Wednesday night and bamboozled the Blues nine to one in an exhibition game. The capacity crowd witnessed the first meeting of Alston Hammon of San Marcos, California to whom they defeated the Faculty, 4-2. Jer­

Severe Shortage Brings Plea For Qualified Teachers

A plea for qualified person to teach in San Luis Obispo county schools to help relieve a severe teacher shortage was made this week by the county schools superintendent's office.

Mrs. J. T. Arsenio, working from the county office, is seeking persons preferably with a college degree but no teaching credentials is necessary.

In the past, she said, the department has hired emergency teachers with two years of college work but they must have the personal qualifications and should have had some experience with children such as in a nursery or in camp leadership.

Mrs. Arsenio pointed out that six Cal Poly students wives who have very satisfactory in working for the school department.

Vacancies range through the county from one teacher schools to a city school of 16 or more teachers, grades vary from the kindergarten to the sixth and seventh. In most cases the salaries will be above the $6400 a year level.

Teachers are wanted for the school term starting in September. Those interested are urged to contact the county superintendent's office in the court house.
