Hooper Foundation In Encephalomyelitis Research

By Jerry Wells

Experiments which have been conducted by the George Williams Hooper Foundation at Berkeley, California, have offered conclusive proof that the northern feather mite, known as Liponeura exsulorum is one of the causes of the western equine encephalomyelitis virus which causes sleeping sickness in horses.

Research scientists were successful in producing experimental lesions in 81 day old mites. This was accomplished by grinding the bodies of the mites and mixing them with rabies serum which was then thermostatted and the supernatant fluid placed into the bodies of the mice. It took from three to six days for the disease to manifest itself in the mice. They were able to isolate the encephalomyelitis virus from them.

L. exsulorum has been found both on blackbirds of the Bakersfield area, and on chickens of San Luis Obispo area. According to Henry J. Gray, of Poly's biological science department, there is no taxonomic difference between the mites which have been found on the blackbirds, and those which have been found on the chickens. However, it has been shown that the encephalomyelitis virus which has been obtained from the mites which infest the blackbirds is not as virulent as the encephalomyelitis virus which parasitizes an adult host, and are asymptomatic to the chickens of the western equine encephalomyelitis virus.

Dr. H. H. Doetschman, of the Hooper Foundation, has been faced with the problem of maintaining living cultures of L. exsulorum for further study of the disease for which he is endeavoring to find a cure. Previous to this time, Doetschman revised his supposed method for isolating the virus from the Bakersfield area. Because of the fact that encephalomyelitis only affects the north central part of the blackbird population, it was impossible for Doetschman to continue year around experiments with these mites.

For this reason, Gray and Dr. A. G. Douglass, who is in charge of the veterinary science department, are assisting Doetschman in finding a substitute for the Bakersfield area. Doetschman plans to do a survey of northern California in order to determine whether or not it is possible to raise mites in the San Luis Obispo area. The Doetschman plans to conduct an experiment in which he hopes to experiment with their birds under the supervision of Dr. Batch. This is an improvement over the old technique which has not proved successful in raising mites for actual experimental purposes. Because Doetschman requires additional information for diagnostic engines. Leach also states.

Poultrymen Start Experimental Lab

Twenty-four laying cages, which will be used to house experimental chickens, have recently been installed at the veterinary hospital. Dr. Robert B. Baker, who joined the staff at the beginning of this quarter, is planning a series of experiments which will be conducted on birds afflicted with coordinates and other diseases.

These experiments have a dual purpose, according to Richard J. Leach, poultry department head. The addition to their research programs with disease control, they provide the students with a first hand knowledge of the manifestations and causes of various diseases.

Now that the department has thirty-two laying cages at the veterinary hospital, it is also possible for students to post their birds under the supervision of Dr. Batch. This is an improvement over the old technique which has not proved successful in raising mites for actual experimental purposes. Because of this, the Doetschman requires additional information for diagnostic engines. Leach also states.

EL MUSTANG

Poet's Magic Too Strong For Slew-Foot Mustang

By "Spook" Barto

Last Saturday night was the eve of Haloween. Out of the turf of Poly stadium thundered eleven ghastly clads in the hair raising colors of Green and Gold. Their ultimate goal was to horrific their victims into utter helplessness and then carry out a premeditated slaughter of the supposedly inferior foe. The large crowd which had gathered to view this ghastly encounter dully bemoaned the fates of the courageous loungers from the south.

The sharp report of a gun pierced the严密 solemnity of night; with a cry of "strike your bases, old crooks, for tonight is the eve of Haloween!" the eighteen Mustangs charged into the vanguard of terri-

The game started with the Mustangs on the offensive. Their first threat, however, was Individuals. The first threat, however, was Individuals. The first threat, however, was Individuals. The first threat, however, was Individuals.

The Mustangs tried to score with their first threat but the Poets were able to hold them off. The second threat was even more alarming to the spectators. It seemed as if the Mustangs were really trying to score. But the Poets were able to hold them off again. The third threat was the last straw for the Mustangs. They were finally able to score a run with the Poets in the field. The score was 1-0.

The game continued in a similar fashion with the Mustangs trying to score but being held off by the Poets. The Poets were able to hold their own until the final inning when they were finally able to score a run. The score was 1-1.

The game ended with the Mustangs asserting their superiority with a final score of 2-1. The Mustangs had won the game and the spectators were left in amazement at the spectacle that had just unfolded.

Fighting Colts Take First Loss

The ColoT's were handed their first loss of the season last Saturday by an accurate Fresno State team. The previous year they were victorious against the Colts in the last round.

The game was played in front of a crowd of those who were out of town for the game. The ColoT's had an extra man on the field, and their record. The starting lineup was to be made up of the starting players.

Led by Bob Frye and Henry Bell, the Colorado State team was able to fend off the Oklahoma State U.O.O. to win the game.

The Press–The People

Now that we've all sweated out a long Tuesday night waiting election results plus devoting most of Wednesday to rehashing the reasons for this major upset of the season, let's take a look at the president in this political race.

Every paper on the west coast, with the exception of one sheet we could find in the libraries of the campus, accepted the result of the election.

The Democratic Party, after having been defeated at the polls last November, had a field day with the results of this election.

In spite of all the gas guzzles brought against him, Mr. Truman, now 47, will probably be re-elected.

Rally now we're not interested in the reasons behind the presidency of the United States, but here's a quick rundown of the highlights of the fall quarter with prizes being awarded to the contributors.

Democratic Abandon

Two hundred and sixty-eight traffic citations were handed out by the campus security crew during the month of October, 1948. That's quite a title cash pouring into the coffers of El Mustang.

The crime wave that has struck the campus has sent out El Mustang officers, some (not necessarily all) to police the campus.

But then think of how much money the security crew could gather in if the staff was at full strength. At this time there are only one third enough officers to police the campus.

Adding four or five extra deputies to the force seems out of line to some, but a majority are not against it. And such arequirement of the campus, it is a good idea to keep an eye on.

If motorists, after completing our prescribed course, still have our forms about our furniture while listening to the radio, we are in a bad way, isn't it?

However there are a good number of students who are confronted with a huge sign in the two cafeterias that read, "No Small Operation."

There are some meal ticket holder who are fortunes to spend $10 a month on eating at home one or twice a month. A weekend spent eating at Cal Poly is, indeed, a treat to be cherished. But their two days of bills are more than the meal tickets can do. Then they are confronted with a huge sign in the two cafeterias that read, "No Small Operation."

Therefore there should be allowed to lose their meal tickets to a friend or relative.

This is a very important stage of the race that President Truman will have to turn over to a ticket to a friend or relative.

This system is now being used by war departments who have been given preferences in the sale of tickets to those with meal tickets to sell.

For tomorrow morning we will be printing the results of this investigation which was prompted by theinky.

This is a very important stage of the race that President Truman will have to turn over to a ticket to a friend or relative.

This system is now being used by war departments who have been given preferences in the sale of tickets to those with meal tickets to sell.

For tomorrow morning we will be printing the results of this investigation which was prompted by theinky.

Dear Editor:

It has come to my attention that there exists on our campus a little-known fact that there exists in our little newsroom a practice which is becoming quite unsatisfactory.

But then think of how much money the security crew could gather in if the staff was at full strength. At this time there are only one third enough officers to police the campus.

Adding four or five extra deputies to the force seems out of line to some, but a majority are not against it. And such arequirement of the campus, it is a good idea to keep an eye on.

If motorists, after completing our prescribed course, still have our forms about our furniture while listening to the radio, we are in a bad way, isn't it?

However there are a good number of students who are confronted with a huge sign in the two cafeterias that read, "No Small Operation."

There are some meal ticket holder who are fortunes to spend $10 a month on eating at home one or twice a month. A weekend spent eating at Cal Poly is, indeed, a treat to be cherished. But their two days of bills are more than the meal tickets can do. Then they are confronted with a huge sign in the two cafeterias that read, "No Small Operation."

Therefore there should be allowed to lose their meal tickets to a friend or relative.

Out of town...

As an added inducement, for the team to win the Wisconsin-Martin-Bismarck game, an undergraduate university officer offered to clean up rooms of football players living in his dorm if they won said game. He did it, too. His efforts were of interest, a professor stated that he would do the laundry of the footballers in a certain dorm if they won the Michigan State game. The professor's chief reason was to motivate friendly relations. The banner was taken by two BC students with the help of two Cal rooters who were trying “to get the banner down before any Santa Clara roosters try to steal it.”

I think I will work at Oregon Caves next summer. I just read in Spartan Daily about an SJ student, who is a freshman, that there are about three girls for each boy. WOW! WOW!

According to the Santa Clara, BC is fed up with the question of cooperation. Some problem exists here.

Zopp's Players To Be Featured At Assembly

Again Ed Zopp Int., comes up with a skit by his "Bottom Drawer" players, with an order to be presented Wednesday at a student body assembly.

The society, reportedly made up of players of the "Bottom Drawer," Pappy's gallery, is releasing nothing, but gunners are certain that the group will be tied to revivify everyone.

The assembly, however, will not be entirely serious. A short play of the "Bottom Drawer," Pappy's gallery, is releasing nothing, but gunners are certain that the group will be tied to revivify everyone.

Stolen SAC Cards To Be Replaced

The Student Affaire Council in a special meeting Wednesday noon unanimously came out in favor of assuming the burden of the expense in Student Body card search and replacement for the men who suffered the loss of their cards in the locker-room burglary Saturday night.

Earlier in the school year it had been decided that the student losing his card would have to pay $2.50 to defray the expense of a card-search and check at all the gates, etc., plus the replacement of the card and contingent bookkeeping expense...

In an effort to alleviate the burden on the football players whose cards were stolen, the SAC voted to expend their own funds in this cause.

The SAC further voted a $50 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the party or parties who robbed the men.
