ADVANCEMENT

Cal Poly Fund campaign triples donations in 2 years

Cal Poly alumni have again increased their giving to the colleges and the University Center for Teacher Education during the six months from July 1 through December 31, 1997.

A gift total of $501,351 as of Dec. 31, 1997 represents a 38.7 percent increase over the $301,444 raised in the same months in 1996. The total from July through December 1995 was $158,575.

"The success is due to a team effort," said Eric Doepel, Cal Poly Fund director. "The Advancement Services office has allowed the Cal Poly Fund office to do the best job possible at our direct mail and phone efforts," Doepel said.

Equally important is the focus on college-based fundraising. With the help of college advancement directors, we are best able to represent the many programs around campus and raise the much-needed funds for our educational programs," Doepel said.

Question 3: A qualified person with a disability meets the academic and technical standards required for admission or participation in a particular program or activity.

Survey Results

- Correct: 71%
- Incorrect: 28%
- Don't Know: 1%

A qualified person with a disability is defined as one who meets the technical and non-academic standards for admission and continued enrollment in a school program. The courts' interpretation does not require a school to lower its standards. It does require schools to provide reasonable accommodations that offer an equal opportunity for students with disabilities.
