Annual Baroque concert planned for Jan. 20

The Annual Baroque concert on Wednesday, Jan. 20, will bring together maestros Clifton Swanson and Thrones Davies for an evening of chamber music featuring the university's PolyPhonics and a specially commissioned orchestra.

The concert, a Cal Poly Arts event, will be at 8 pm in Harney Hall in the Performing Arts Center's Cohen Center. The music has been chosen to reflect the richness of the Baroque period. Cal Poly music professor Alyson Lamore will give a pre-concert lecture at 7 pm in the Performing Arts Center's Phillips Hall.

The concert selections include Concerto Grosso in B-flat major, Op. 5, No. 11, by Arcangelo Corelli, and three concertos by Bach. The two concertos by Bach are actually two ways of looking at the same piece. Swanson said, "but so und completely different to each other," and he further described the pieces as "dreaded MOPS (missing overhead projector syndromes)." 0

Systemwide survey to be conducted in February

Annual Baroque concert planned for Jan. 20

The Annual Baroque concert is scheduled for Thursday, Jan. 20, in the Performing Arts Center’s Cohan Hall. The concert, a Cal Poly Arts event, will be at 8 p.m. in Harris Hall in the Performing Arts Center’s Coban Center. The music has been chosen to reflect the richness of the Baroque period. Cal Poly music professor Alyson McLamore will give a pre-concert lecture at 7 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center’s Phillips Hall. The concert selections include: Violin Concerto in G-flat major, Op. 5, No. 1, by Arcangelo Corelli, and three works by Johann Sebastian Bach: Violin Concerto in E major; Harpsichord Concerto in E major; and Violin Concerto in D major, known as one of the most satisfying of all of Bach’s choral works.

The two concerts by Bach are actually two ways of looking at the same piece, according to music professor Schwab. Bach wrote the original for solo violin, then later transcribed it for orchestra. "Bach himself called the two pieces 'teur, for-note-for-note, the same in most regards," Schwab said, "but sound completely different to the casual listener because of the difference in solo instruments."
