Ed Jorgensen, 85
Edward James Jorgensen, retired coach, physiology professor and Cal Poly Athletic Hall of Fame member, died Nov. 8 at his home in San Luis Obispo after a long illness.

Jorgensen's Cal Poly career spanned nearly 50 years, from 1947 to 1976. He coached the men's basketball team from 1947 to 1966 and the men's tennis team from 1959 to 1976. He was the second-winningest coach in Cal Poly basketball history.

He also taught in the Physical Education Department for 29 years. In 1993 he was inducted into the Cal Poly Athletics Hall of Fame in recognition of his contributions to Cal Poly athletics.

Jorgensen was born March 13, 1914, in Laguna Beach, Calif., to John and Eliza Jorgensen. He grew up in the Los Angeles area and was graduated from Santa Monica High School in 1931. He served four years in the U.S. Navy during World War II.

Jorgensen graduated from Occidental College in 1936 and earned a master's degree in physical education from Columbia University in 1938. He was a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

He was a charter member of the American College of Sports Medicine. Jorgensen received the Lifetime Achievement Award from the American College of Sports Medicine in 1992.

He is survived by his wife, Jeanne LaBarbera; a son, John Jorgensen; a daughter, Marjorie Jorgensen; and three grandchildren. He was predeceased by his son, Jon Jorgensen.

The family encourages contributions to the Jeanne LaBarbera, ASI Fine Arts Curator and Employee Scholarship Fund.

Keb’ Mo’ will bring the blues to the PAC.

Songwriter Keb’ Mo’ to sing Blues Dec. 7
Award-winning bluesman Keb’ Mo’, often referred to as the greatest all-around blues musician working today, will appear in a solo acoustic concert at 8 p.m. Dec. 7 in Harman Hall in the Performing Arts Center’s Cohan Center.

“Mo’, also known as Kevin Moore, is said to have the “nuanced, expressive croon of a soul singer and the raw power to belt out the blues.”

Critics have hailed his ability to “move effortlessly between rhythm and blues and Delta blues styles, stopping along the way at a swinging, upbeat sound that’s all his own.”

While old-school blues are a part of his roots, Guitar Player magazine said, “Mo’ has proven masterful at incorporating contemporary ... elements into his music.”

Mo’ won his second Grammy for Best Contemporary Blues Album in 1999, and at the W.C. Handy Awards in Memphis, Tenn., in 1999, he was voted Contemporary Blues Male Artist of the Year and Acoustic Blues Artist of the Year.

His music can be heard on the sound-tracks to such movies as “Tin Cup,” “One Fine Day” and “Madeline.”

Tickets are $5-$10 for students and $5-$16 for the public. The concerts are sponsored by the Music Department, College of Liberal Arts, and the Instructionally Related Activities program.

For details, call the Cal Poly Choral Operations office at ext. 6-6683.

The Cal Poly Choirs to give holiday concerts Dec. 4-5
The Cal Poly Choirs will ring in the holidays with concerts Dec. 4-5 in Harman Hall in the Performing Arts Center’s Cohan Center.

“A Christmas Celebration” will be at 8 p.m. Dec. 4 and 3 p.m. Dec. 5. Conducted by music Professor Thomas Davies and accompanied by Susan Azaret Davies, also a member of the Music Department faculty, the concerts will feature performances by the university’s 36-member mixed choir, PolyPhonics, and the University Singers, Cal Poly’s largest mixed choir.

Cal Poly Vocal Jazz group and Cal Poly’s barbershop quartets, Here Comes Treble and Grand Avenue, will also appear.

PolyPhonics will perform works old and new, including Tomás Luis de Victoria’s “O Magnum Mysterium” and a premiere performance of “O Come, O Come Emmanuel” as arranged and conducted by student Sam Estes.

The University Singers, Cal Poly Vocal Jazz and the barbershop quartets will sing for frolicking crowds.

The combined choirs will conclude the program with the traditional reading of Malcolm Sargent’s arrangement of “Silent Night.”

Tickets are $5-$10 for children and students, $7-$16 for the public. The concerts are sponsored by the Music Department, College of Liberal Arts, and the Instructionally Related Activities program.

College of Agriculture receives software gift

SST Development Group of Stillwater, Okla., with the cooperation of Helena Chemical Co. and CASE Corp., has donated software to the College of Agriculture's geographic information system (GIS) laboratories.

The software, intended for all areas of agricultural research, will be used to study crops, animals and forestry, is produced by SST.

The program being installed is the SSToolbox, designed to provide crop consultants, farm suppliers and producers with a means to manage precision farming technologies.

The SSToolbox is a comprehensive agricultural GIS that incorporates a user-friendly interface with a powerful spatial data analysis and management system.

The SST software is currently being used for the management of crops by university researchers and instructors, crop consultants, fertilizer dealers, farmers and agronomists in 33 states, 11 other countries and eight Canadian provinces.

The GIS lab, used by several departments, were developed with resources provided by the College of Agriculture and its departments and the provost office, including Dell Computers, which donated 30 ELSA Gloria Video Cards for three-dimensional rendering.
