Professor Suhr's husband honors her with donation

Paul Suhr, husband of longtime Dance Professor Mina Suhr, in honor of her husband's dedication and commitment to the university, has donated $15,000 to the College of Liberal Arts' dance program.

Moo Jan Mina Suhr is a 30-year veteran of the Theatre and Dance Department, founding director of the university's Orchesis Dance Company and dance program, and founder of the Ballroom Dance Club.

The gift will be used to install an air conditioning system in the Crandall Dance Studio.

The project is expected to be completed before the beginning of fall quarter. At that time, the studio will be renamed in honor of Suhr.

"All her students attest to her personal care for them and their dedication to the arts. Against many odds, she has labored as many as possible during the past decade," said College of Liberal Arts Dean Harry Hellenbrand.

Cole concert rescheduled

An Evening with Natalie Cole, originally set for tonight (Aug. 16), has been rescheduled to 8 p.m. Oct. 6 in Harman Hall.

Cole was unable to fulfill her original commitment because she is filming a movie, according to Ralph Hoxkins, Cal Poly Arts director.

Tickets for the Aug. 16 date will be honored at the Oct. 6 concert. If the new concert date poses an inconvenience to those who have tickets, refunds will be given upon request. Call the Performing Arts ticket office at ext. 6-2787 for a refund.

Tickets to this Cal Poly Arts Center Stage event cost $38 to $54 and may be purchased at the Performing Arts Ticket Office, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays. To order by phone, call 6-2787; to order by fax, call ext. 6-6088.

of the Department of Athletics' business division, and overseeing administrative operations related to the construction and operation of a new campus conference center.

Since earning his B.S. in business administration from Eastern Illinois University in 1976, Mumford has held a number of other responsible management positions with universities and private-sector firms. Mumford said he will immediately seek to engage the student, faculty and administrative leadership of the university — and the Foundation Board of Directors — in conversations about the Foundation and its service to the university.

Mumford will succeed Al Arama, who is retiring after nearly 29 years as Foundation executive director.

"I am delighted with Frank's selection," Arama said. "I believe he has the business acumen and experience to provide the Foundation with the effective leadership it needs to continue to be a major contributor to our college's mission.

Arama will remain at the Foundation until the end of September to advise the new executive director.

"The strong commitment of the consultation committee, the Foundation Board of Directors and others contributed to the success of this search," Howard-Greene said. "President Baker and I extend our sincere thanks to all who took an interest in the search and who took time to share their views, observations and suggestions."

Crop Science alumni to host golf tourney

The Cal Poly Crop Science Alumni Association will be hosting the 13th Annual Alumni Golf Tournament on Sept. 23 at the Avila Beach Golf Resort as a benefit for the Crop Science Department.

Golfers can team up with three or four friends or their local "sandbag" group, or can come alone and be placed on a team. The tournament will be limited to the first 60 who sign up.

The tournament will be a back-9 shotgun beginning at 9 a.m. Lunch and an awards ceremony will be held at Mulligan's Bar and Grill after the tournament.

Over the past 12 years, the tournament has raised $44,000 to support student activities and educational programs in the Crop Science Department.

The fee to play is $180 per person, which includes green fees, cart, lunch, tournament, program and awards. For an entry form, contact Yvonne Toma in the Crop Science Department at ext. 6-1237.

Checks, made payable to Crop Science Alumni Golf, should be mailed with entry forms to Bill Nunziati, 45 Santa Lucia Ave., Salinas, CA 93901.

For more information, call Nunziati at (831) 758-4575 or (831) 424-1146 or fax him at (831) 424-1146.

Fund created to benefit Music Department

Grace Tevis of Los Osos donated real estate valued at approximately $170,000 to the recently established Tevis Fund for Visiting Artists in Music in the College of Liberal Arts.

"The fund will enrich greatly the opportunities that Cal Poly students have to listen and learn from the best performers," said Harry Hellenbrand, dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

"The Tevis Fund will allow us to bring new resources to the department that will enhance the program and benefit students directly," said Music Department Chair Cliff Swanson. "Mrs. Tevis has been very supportive of the Music Department for the past 10 years.

"After her husband, Lloyd Tevis, retired, he became a familiar sight in music classes. Swanson remembers him as a "tremendously perceptive student who enjoyed taking our classes and made a pleasure to teach."
Celebration of life planned for Wilson

A celebration of life will be held for Harold O. Wilson, retired administrative vice president who died May 6, is planned for family and friends from 4 to 7 p.m. Aug. 21 in San Luis Obispo.

Wilson was a committed Cal Poly employee at both the San Luis Obispo campus and the Vostock campus at San Dimas, now known as Cal Poly Pomona, for nearly 40 years.

To find out where the celebration will be held, call Diane Hall at 543-5434, Linda Wilson, 543-2347, Bruce Wilson in Monterey at (831) 375-9593 or Lynn Wilson in Riverside, (909) 359-1085.

Ag students rank tops in horticultural contest

A team of agriculture students took top honors in a competition held during the meetings of the American Society for Horticultural Science in Orlando, Fla.

They placed first in the floral and interior plant category, second in vegetables, second in woody nursery plants, and third in fruits and nuts.

Team members included Sheila Stephens, Chris Linson, Anthony Williams-Hill, all environmental horticultural science seniors; Orlando Velasquez, crop science sophomore; and Carlos Zavalza, crop science senior.

Individually, Adams took first place in fruits and nuts and Stephens came second in interior nursery.

The team was coached by Robert Rice, professor of environmental horticultural science, and Wyatt Brown, professor of crop science.

Alumni database conversion nearing completion

In preparation for Cal Poly's Centennial Campaign, University Advancement has been working to replace its 10-year-old Alumni Development System (ADS) with the more powerful and sophisticated Business Systems Resources (BSR) Advance database software.

Advance will provide greater storage capacity for alumni and donor information as well as greatly improve data management for staff members.

The conversion is taking place in four phases: Phase I, the project tracking module, was launched in October 1999; Phase II, the biographical and gift modules, is expected to be active by the end of summer; Phase III, the Web module, is expected to be launched in the fall; and Phase IV, the membership module, should be completed by December.

With the Advance "go-live" deadline rapidly approaching, regularly scheduled training classes for all current ADS users will begin in late August. For information about the training sessions, contact John Rau, training and support specialist, at ext. 6733 or by e-mail.

Leadership training clinic to be given on campus

"Utilizing Experiential Techniques in Leadership Training" is the title of a two-day workshop to be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 31-Sept. 1 on campus.

Sponsored by ASI's Chumash Challenge, this fast-paced, hands-on, "train the trainer, workshop in a workshop" type of training is intended to teach and give participants the tools for designing and facilitating more-powerful and effective presentations.

The workshop will draw on information from National Training Laboratories, Quantum Learning, Multiple Intelligence and Experiential Learning Theory.

Participants will learn:

- How to maximize group participation, interaction, enjoyment, understanding and retention of material.

ASI Children's Center has openings for fall

The ASI Children's Center has openings for children from 3 1/2 through kindergarten age for fall quarter. For more information, please call ext. 6-1267.

- Group exercises designed to reinforce lesson plans dealing with communication, leadership, planning, roles, and sensitivity to diversity.

- The tools to help groups get comfortable with each other.

- A "method of discovery," "What, so what, now what?" to maximize impact.

- How to maximize learning in groups with diverse learning styles.

- Steps for transforming groups into cohesive teams.

- How to design workshops for any organization.

- The cost for the workshop, including handouts and information packets, is $125 per person; to ASI members, $100 for non-members.

The workshop includes and expands on a workshop presented at the March 2000 California Association of Leadershhip Programs Conference in Ontario.

For more information and reservations contact Rod Neubert, director of experiential education, ext. 6-5833, neubert@calpoly.edu or write him at Chumash Challenge, UU 212-L.

Marie Lehman, 84

Marie Porter Lehman, former mathematics professor who died unexpectedly last year, will be on display in the fall in the University Art Gallery, and donations are being sought to help pay for printing the ex­hibit catalog.

"John Lives On," a Mendehall re­tropective, is planned as the Art and Design Department's first exhibit of the school year.

"Part of this final tribute to John is memorializing him with a color catalog featuring his last works — the robots," said Mary LaPorte, Mendehall's colleague in the Art and Design Department.

"John was an avid collector of toy robots, which surely inspired him to create his own, more whimsical ver­sions," said LaPorte.

"His robots are one-of-a-kind, kinetic pieces. All are electrical, constructed of found materi­als such as antique kitchen utensils, cigar boxes or toy train engines. He began building these during the last three years of his life."

Additional pieces in the exhibit will include book art, woodcuts, drawings, collages and studio memo­ria, Visitors to the gallery will have an opportunity to place silent bids on all the pieces in the exhibit, including the studio contents.

We ask that people do not use the catalog to help fund the printing costs of the exhibit catalog," said LaPorte. "Much of the production labor such as design work, book manuscripts, drawings, collages and studio memo­ria will be donated to the gallery."
