New stadium to be named after Robin Baggett

The baseball stadium at the new sports gram has been named in honor of alumna, former baseball player and Athletic Hall of Fame member Robin Baggett. "We are extremely pleased to be able to recognize the many contributions of Robin Baggett," President Baker said in announcing the name. "Robin's contributions to the university and our athletic program have been outstanding. His long-term financial support and personal involvement with the baseball program for over 30 years are unmatched. We are proud that this beautiful new facility will appropriately recognize his many contributions."

Disaster recovery experts meet on campus

An international array of experts in disaster recovery and post-disaster mitigation planning recently participated in a Disaster Recovery Performance Needs Assesment Seminar held on campus. Teams from Venezuela, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, the Dominican Republic and Costa Rica presented disaster recovery case studies, held brainstorming sessions, and discussed existing needs and recovery and implementation plans.

The workshop was held to develop criteria for a larger multi-year effort to provide training and assistance activities at Cal Poly, according to William Simbruda, head of the City and Regional Planning Department. The workshop was sponsored by the College of Architecture and Environmental Design, City and Regional Planning Department and the College of Engineering's Civil and Environmental Engineering Department.

Rideshare Week to be next week

Faculty and staff members and students who pledge to bike, walk, car pool, van pool or car pool to campus will be eligible to win prizes.

Pledge forms will be sent to all employees, and those who pledge will be entered in both a campus and a San Luis Obispo County Rideshare prize drawing.

Climax prizes include a T-shirt, shortsleeve kit, an oak note pad and pen, and more. The county grand prize is a weekend trip to Santa Barbara with round-trip transportation on Amtrak.

Pledge forms are available at University Police and in the UU Plaza from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. during Rideshare Week.

Questions should be directed to Deby Anderson, commuter and access services coordinator, ext. 6-6680.

Francis F. Whiting

Francis F. Whiting, engineering technology professor emeritus, passed away on June 17 at a care facility in Minneapolis. Whiting taught at Cal Poly from 1946 until 1970.

Digital control systems
topic of IEEE talk

At a Haggerty, a systems engineer from Lawndale, will discuss digital control systems at the next meeting of the Central Coast chapter of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers on Tuesday (Oct. 8). Haggerty will talk on "Lessons Learned in Digital Control Systems Theory Really Matter?" from 7 to 8 p.m. in Engineering East, Room 206.

The meeting is open to everyone. Refreshments will be provided at approximately 6:30 p.m.

Assigned time available to develop proposals

To stimulate research activity, the Research and Graduate Programs office will consider requests for assigned time for the specific purpose of preparing grant or contract proposals.

Many faculty members have indicated that it is difficult to prepare proposals while carrying a full teaching load—especially if they are new to the process or if they have other extramural projects involving several investigators.

Faculty members who wish to apply for assigned time should request it in writing and include the number of WTD's requested, the academic term for which the request is being prepared, and the application deadline.

Additions information that supports the request, such as preliminary work accomplished either on the project or on the proposal development, should also be included.

Requests should be signed by the department head or chair and sent to the dean of research and graduate programs. Applicants should also include a current CV and list of other university support received during the last five years.

Although special consideration would be given to candidates that have a work assigned time from the college, it is not required.

Assigned time will be linked to proposal deadlines and can be submitted any time during the academic year; however, because funds are limited, requests made early in the academic year or even before the start of the term will have a greater likelihood of approval.

It is anticipated that three to six WTD's will be provided and reimbursed at the minimum faculty replacement level for an assigned time.

For more information, call Research and Graduate Programs at ext. 6-1560.

National Depression
Screening Day is Oct. 5

As part of national Mental Illness Awareness Week, Cal Poly will hold a National Depression Screening Day 10 a.m.-7 p.m. Oct. 5 in the UU Plaza.

Employees, students and their families are invited to learn about the signs and symtoms of depression and to participate in a free, confidential screening.

Results will be shared with the student or employee, and those who feel sad and empty, those who have trouble sleeping or eating, and those who feel that the pleasure has gone out of their lives might be clinically depressed. Other symptoms include thoughts of suicide or death, fatigue or loss of energy, inability to concentrate, and restlessness or decreased activity.

Depression is a medical illness—not a weakness—and treatment is available.

Representatives from Health and Counseling Services and the Employee Assistance Program will be in the UU Plaza disseminating material and administering confidential written self-scoring tests for depression. Participants will learn the causes, symptoms and treatments of depression and individuals will be given the opportunity to discuss the results of their written test with a mental health professional.

For more information, call the Employee Assistance Program at ext. 6-6680-EAP (0377) or Counseling Services at 6-2511.

Baggett served as co-chair of the Athletics Department's capital campaign that raised over $5 million for facility improvement and scholarship endowments.

His past contributions and his ongoing commitment to the baseball stadium project are in excess of $50,000.

"This is a very fitting tribute to Robin's leadership and support of Cal Poly baseball," said Athletics Director Jerry McGuire. "Simply put, Cal Poly baseball would not be where it is today without Robin Baggett." The overall Sports Complex is the result of a collaboration between the ASI, Cal Poly Athletics and many private individuals and organizations.

A two-time All-Conference and Most Valuable Player, Robin played on six of Cal Poly's most successful baseball teams. The 1971 team still holds a school record —80 winning percentages. An outstanding catcher, Baggett did not allow a single passed ball during his career. He had a fielding percentage of .990 after committing just one error as a senior and threw out more than 70 percent of opponents attempting to steal.

As a senior, Baggett was elected student body president. After his graduation, he was offered a coaching position at the School of Business, but he went to the University of California, Hastings College of Law, where he graduated and is still practicing law.

Baggett is managing partner in San Luis Obispo's largest law firm, Simmons, Simmons, Baggett, & Tausman. He is also general counsel for the NBA's Golden State Warriors.

"I am extremely gratified," said Baggett, "and Cal Poly has always been special to me. I am proud to be part of such a fine institution.

A dedication ceremony will be held before the inaugural intercollegiate game on Sept. 28 at 1 p.m. at Wildcat Field.

"Allowing students to take on true 'real world' projects is perhaps one of the best contributions a learning institution can make in training students of tomorrow.

This year, students at Cal Poly have attempted to tackle the challenge of providing affordable housing in Avila Beach, developing community gardens and a grant proposal for the Central Valley.

In recognizing Baggett's contributions, the jury wrote: "For more than 20 years, Baggett has provided exceptional leadership to the planning profession in general, and the CCAI in particular. Baggett has dedicated students while serving the planning profession through his private practice."

Mingus Big Band to perform in Cohan Center Oct. 4

In celebration of the musical legacy of bass player, band leader and composer Charles Mingus, the 14-member Mingus Big Band will perform in concert at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 4 in the Performance Arts Center's Cohan Center.

The Grammy-recognized group has played to critical acclaim in cities around the country and at virtually every major jazz festival in Europe. JazzTimes and Down Beat critics and reader polls have voted the Mingus Big Band "Best Big Band" for several years running.

At the New York Jazz Awards ceremony in 1999, the group was named "Best Big Band" and "Best Touring Band.

Music Professor Paul Rinzler will give a pre-concert lecture at 7 p.m. in Phillips Hall.

Ticket costs $26-$38, and student discounts are available.

Dalton, City & Regional Planning win statewide awards

The California Chapter of the American Planning Association awarded the City and Regional Planning Department its Academic Award for 2000 and named Linda Dalton, professor and vice provost for institutional planning, winner of the Distinguished Leadership Award for a Professional Planner.

William Simbruda, chair of the department, accepted the Academic Award at the association's recent conference in Los Angeles.

The academic honor recognizes Cal-

Poly's applied study projects. In announcing the award, the judging panel wrote: "Allowing students to take on true 'real world' projects is perhaps one of the best projects to the planning profession in general, and the CCAI in particular. Baggett has dedicated students while serving the planning profession through his private practice."

London Study Program accepting applicants

The London Study Program is accepting faculty applications for teaching in London either to fall 2001 or spring 2002. The primary emphasis in the selection process will be to choose faculty members who offer the courses needed by the participating students. Final selection will be determined chiefly by student course selection because, while faculty development is an important element of London Study, the program is driven by the curriculum needs of the students.

To encourage junior faculty members to participate, a stipend of up to $2,500 is available to those under the rank of full professor. To help with additional living expenses, a “scholarship” is available to those who meet the following criteria: 1) demonstrated teaching excellence; 2) ability to teach a course in the program’s “core curriculum” and 3) demonstrated need for financial assistance.

The stipend is intended to encourage participation by faculty members who have previously considered the cost of living in London to be too great.

During this fall quarter, a single committee will screen candidates for both sessions.

Although the curriculum emphasis has been on general education courses in the humanities and social sciences, the program encourages and supports participation by teachers in the professional areas also. To date, about one-fourth of the London faculty members have come from colleges outside Liberal Arts.

Cal Poly’s London campus in the spring is in the academic heart of the Bloomsbury district, within two blocks of the British Museum. In the fall, the program is in the Kensington district.

Applications have been sent to all deans’ offices and are also available from the International Education and Programs office, Room 108 in the Math and Science Building (ext. 6-6161).

Applications must be submitted in duplicate by Oct. 27 for departmental approval, then forwarded via the applicant’s dean to the London Study Program’s faculty screening committee, in care of program director John Sneathen. For more information, call Sneathen at ext. 6-5969.

The program coordinator is Miriam Rabon.

Deadlines set for faculty support grants

It’s time to think about submitting proposals for the State Faculty Support Grants program, which supports research, scholarship, and creative activities that help faculty members remain current in their disciplines. The work should also be intended to strengthen California socially, culturally and economically.

Faculty members in Bargaining Unit 3 are eligible to compete for funding. Priority will be given to non-tenured faculty members, those in disciplines with few outside sources of support and to projects likely to attract external funding.

The four types of support are:

• Mini-grants of up to $5,000, to be expended during the academic year.
• One- or two-month summer fellowships to initiate, continue or complete a creative scholarship or research project. Awards will be made only to faculty members who will return to work at Cal Poly the following fall quarter.
• Assigned time for research, creative activity or scholarship.
• A quarter leave at full pay to develop or complete an appropriate activity related to one’s academic discipline.

Deadlines to submit proposals are:

• 2001-2002 academic-year awards (mini-grants, assigned time, quarter leaves): First day of spring quarter 2001 (April 2).

Proposals are due in the Research and Graduate Programs office in Room 155 in the Science and Math Building by 4:30 p.m. on the deadline date. For guidelines, call ext. 6-1590, stop by the office, or go online to www.calpoly.edu/rgp.

Funding for academic-year awards, to be announced in May, is contingent on next year’s budget.

Fresno State prof to talk on military dynamism

Victor Hanson, fifth-generation grape farmer from the San Joaquin Valley and a professor of classical Greek at Fresno State, will talk on “Carnage and Culture: Military Dynamism and the Rise of Western Civilization” at 4 p.m. Oct. 6 in Room 286 in Fisher Science Hall.

Hanson is the author of “Fields Without Dreams,” a book that explores the demise of family farming in the United States. His most recent works, to be published in the coming year, include “The Land Was Everything: Letters from an American Farmer” and “Why the West Was Won: Carnage and Culture from Salamis to Vietnam.”

The talk is sponsored by the department of Political Science, Mathematics and English and the College of Liberal Arts.

For more information, call the college at ext. 6-2706.

Hotline honors Roberts; plans next fund raiser

Gregory Roberts of Student Academic Services was recently recognized by Hotline of San Luis Obispo County for raising more than $300 during last year’s Bowl-a-thon. In all, Cal Poly participants raised more than $1,000 for the non-profit organization.

Faculty and student members and students can help raise money for Hotline during this year’s Bowl-a-thon, planned for the weekends of Oct. 20-22 and Oct. 27-29 at Creekside Lanes in Atascadero. Four lanes have been reserved for Cal Poly on Oct. 25.

Those who can’t participate, can show their support by sponsoring participants. Hotline’s trained volunteer staff has offered a variety of telephone services to conny callers 24 hours a day, 365 days a year since 1970.

Cal Poly has participated in the annual Bowl-a-thon, the organization’s main fund raiser, for more than 10 years.

For more information, contact the Cal Poly rum coordinator, Elaine Ramos Doyle, at eramodol@calpoly.edu or ext. 6-1740.
... Jamieson to consult

Central Coast, Jamieson enjoyed a distinguished 23-year career at The Claremont Colleges as a senior administrator and professor of government.

"No one is better qualified than Jim to bring together members of the university, alumni and Central Coast communities to realize a comprehensive, festive and joy­ful celebration of Cal Poly's first 100 years," Baker said. "We are delighted to welcome Jim back to visit the university with this marvelous endeavor."

"I am delighted to resume my active collaboration with Cal Poly," Jamieson said. "This is a very important moment for the university, a great opportunity to take stock of its many contributions to the State of California, and to consider the bright future that lies ahead." 0

Aiken to retire

The campus community is invited to a retirement reception in honor of Jim Aiken of the Counseling Center 1-3 p.m. Oct. 6 in the Smith Alumni and Conference Center.

Aiken is retiring after 24 years of service. He was hired as a counselor in 1976, and was appointed associate director of the Counseling Center in 1979. He served on an interim capacity as director, Health and Psychological Services, from 1993 to 1995, when he resumed his associate director post in the Counseling Center 0

Council members needed

The Academic Senate is seeking nominations from tenured and tenure-track faculty members to serve on the Academic Council on International Programs from 2003 to 2004.

The council was established by the CSU Board of Trustees as an advisory board to the chancellor. The group assists in developing policies and procedures relating to international educational activities. The council ensures ongoing communication and consultation between the campuses of the CSU and Office of International Programs.

Contact the Academic Senate office at ext. 6-1259 for a description of responsibilities. Nominations, a memo of interest and a C.V. are due Dec. 9. 0

WINGED Workshops to start Oct. 6

Of 2001 requires that all teachers of general education courses incorporate some writing assignments to teach content material.

WINGED (Writing in General Educations) Workshops, to be offered fall quarter, support faculty members in meeting the requirement.

Workshops will run for six weeks for two hours on Fridays beginning Oct. 6. No workshop will be held on the Veterans' Day holiday, Nov. 10, so the series will end Nov. 17. The workshops will be in the Business Building, Room 104.

Faculty members can choose either the morning session, 10 a.m.-noon, or the afternoon session, 1-3 p.m.

In a WINGED Workshop, faculty members will:
• Discuss connections between writing, thinking and classroom success;
• Design and test writing assignments for their disciplines;
• Establish "standards" for measuring student success;
• Learn to respond to student writing effectively and quickly.

Enrollment in each of the workshops is limited to 15. To register contact Karin Kuehne, Tool at ext. 6-2228 or mtcol@calpoly.edu, or visit the Web site www.calpoly.edu/­ acadprog/gened/WINGED for more information and to sign up.
For more information, contact Melody DeMeritt, WINGED coordinator, at ex­tention 6-6136 or mudemerr@calpoly.edu. 0

Velazquez to play at CD release party Sept. 30

Gloria Velazquez, professor of ethnic studies and modern languages and literatures, with her band, "The Poetic Sins," will perform at a CD release party Sept. 30 at Tortilla Flats restaurant in San Luis Obispo.

Velasquez is an internationally known poet and fiction writer whose themes focus on personal issues such as her Navajo roots, the Vietnam War and AIDS.

The CD, titled "Superwoman Chicana," is her first and is a companion piece to her book of bilingual poetry, "I Used to Be a Superwoman." It includes 15 poems and 10 original songs.

Justin O'Connor Martin will perform with Velazquez on the harmonica, and Jon Medina will play lead guitar. They are both Cal Poly alumni.

At the release party, Velazquez will recite poetry, and the group will play such songs as "Sos in Vietnam," a tribute to Velazquez' brother, who was killed in Vajessam; "Self Portrait 1990" and "American West," songs about her Native American heritage; and "Going Home," a piece that pays homage to those who have lived with and died from AIDS.

"My music has a distinct Chicano style that includes influences from folk and 'Tex-Mex,'" Velazquez said.

For more information, visit her Web site at www.multimedia.calpoly.edu/­

'Treasure the Tradition' theme of Homecoming 2000

"Treasure the Tradition," Cal Poly's Homecoming 2000 Oct. 20-22, will offer an opportunity for students and others to reconnect with former classmates, other alumni, teachers and friends.

The week-end's events get under way Oct. 20 with warm-reception and dinners to reorientation the Honored Alumna and the "Goldenn Gads," alumni who graduated in 1950 and are this year celebrating the 50th an­niversary of that event.

The annual Homecoming parade in downtown San Luis Obispo and the Mustang football game against UC Davis are highlights on Oct. 22. Additional activities include campus tours, college receptions and a pre­ game barbecue.

Homecoming festivities come to a close Sunday with a breakfast for the Goldold Grads and other alumni and friends of the university. 0

For more information, a schedule of events and a registration form, call the Alumni Relations office at ext. 6-ALUM (2586). 0

Digital control systems
topic of IIE talk

Haggerty, a systems engineer from Lawndale, will discuss digital control systems at the next meeting of the Central Coast section of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers on Tuesday (Oct. 3). Haggerty will talk on "Lessons Learned in Digital Control System Design Theory Really Matter?" from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in Engineering East, Room 206. The meeting is open to everyone. Refreshments will be provided at approximately 6:30 p.m.

Assigned time available to develop proposals

To stimulate research activity, the Research and Graduate Programs office will consider requests for assigned time for the specific purpose of preparing grant or contract proposals.

Many faculty members have indicated that it is difficult to develop proposals while carrying a full teaching load — especially if they are new to the process or if they are working on interdisciplinary projects involving several investigators. Faculty members who wish to apply for assigned time should send a request and indicate the number of weeks to be requested, the academic term for which the request is to be made, and the agenda time frame for which the proposal is being prepared, and the application deadline.

In addition to the proposals, such preliminary work accomplished either on the project or on the proposal development, should also be included.

Proposal requests should be submitted to the deanship of instruction or dean and sent to the dean of research and graduate programs. Applicants should also include a current CV and a list of other university support received during the last five years. Although special consideration will be given to applicants who are current or recently departed students with assigned time from the college, it is not required.

Requests will be linked to proposal deadlines and can be submitted any time during the academic year; however, because funds are limited, requests made early in the academic year or even before the start of the year will have a greater likelihood of approval.

It is anticipated that three to six WRT grants will be provided and reimbursed at the minimum faculty replacement level for an academic year.

Math Prof O'Neil to talk on California condor project

Mathematics Professor Tom O'Neil will present "Clutching for Survival: The California Condor Restoration Project" from 4:10 to 5 p.m. Oct. 5 in the Pilling Computer Science Building, Room 253. O'Neil will talk about his and his students work to support the Ventana Wilderness Society in its effort to establish a flock of California condors in the Big Sur area.

"Any attempt to develop a good recovery program requires an accurate population projection program," O'Neil said. "Unfortunately, there are several condor traits that make construction of such a program difficult."

In this talk, O'Neil will discuss these traits and how they overcome many of the problems, including a lack of data. "Critical to any population projection program are the survival rate data," O'Neil said.

Joe Goode dance group to perform Oct. 7

The Joe Goode Performance Group will present a dance theater performance at 8 p.m. Oct. 7 in Theatre A.
