Position Vacancies

For a complete listing of employment opportunities for state staff and management positions, you can:
- Come to the HREE office, Adm. 110, and view the posted positions.
- Call the HREE Job Line at ext. 6-1533.

For a listing of new openings, check The Tribune's Sunday edition. Please note that applications for job openings must be received in the Human Resources and Employment Equity office, Adm. 110, by 5 p.m. on the closing date. Envelopes postmarked by the deadline will not be accepted.

If you have questions, please call HREE at ext. 6-2237.

Dateline...

March 19, 2001

Friday, February 9
Heard Lectures: Peter Fran (NBBI, Seattle), "Recent Work," Business 213, 3 p.m.

Philosophy at Poly: Ernest Sengstam (U. of Pennsylvania School of Medicine), "Philosophical Implications of a Kantian Model of the Universe," Fisher Science 286, 4 p.m.

Dance Concert: "Dance Perspectives," Orchesis Dance Company. Also Feb. 10, Theatre, 8 p.m. (S)

Saturday, February 10
Baseball: J. Cerrill Classic (San Jose State University, Montana, Pepperdine), through Sunday (Feb. 11), Baggett Stadium, time tba.

Softball: Fresno State (2 games), Janison Field, noon and 2 p.m. (S)

Dance Concert: "Dance Perspectives," Orchesis Dance Company, Theatre, 8 p.m. (S)

Sunday, February 11
Baseball: J. Carroll Classic (San Jose State University, Missouri, Pepperdine). Baggett Stadium, time tba.

Monday, February 12
Speaker, Book Signing: Carolyn Mazurek, "From the Country to the City: Changing Dynamics of the American Quilt," UU 220, 2 p.m. Mourn Carmel Lutheran Church, 1950 Frederick St., San Luis Obispo, 7:30 p.m.

Tuesday, February 13
Physics Colloquium: Bob Ehoffs (Physics), Science 845, 11 a.m.
Music: Annie Rapid, Backstage Pizza, noon.

Wednesday, February 14
Ag Biotechnology Colloquium: Martin McClouth (UC Davis), "The Future of Biotechnology in California Agriculture," UU 220, 3:10 p.m. (S)

ASI Childern's Center...

Continued from page 1
Orfalea, "We really believe that early care needs more of this country's focus and attention. We should think of investing in early care programs the same way we think about investing in college educations, because both are essential learning environments for the development of our youth and future leaders."

The gift is the second one from the Orfalea family. In November they donated securities worth $15 million to the College of Business.

The children's center began operation in 1973 and provides care for children of students, the faculty, and staff members, ranging in age from four months to six years. It is a nationally accredited program, a standard that is achieved by only 7 percent of child care programs nationwide.

"We are overwhelmed by the generosity of the Orfalea family," Tonya Iversen, director of the center's children, said. "This donation will allow us to develop new and innovative programs for parent education and will provide resources for the continuing operation of the center as a model program for children and families.

The center also serves as a hands-on laboratory for students majoring in psychology and human development. The expanded Parent Education Program, developed by the center's staff, will be implemented in three phases: children enrolled at the center will be able to participate in weekly and quarterly support and education groups and check out books, videos and games from a resource lending library; lunch discussions and parent support groups will be made available to parents who are part of the Cal Poly community at large; and the center will provide workshops and classes for community members on building skills for successful parenting.

Campus closed Feb. 19 for George Washington's birthday

ASI Children's Center receives $1 million gift

Securities valued at $1 million have been given to the ASI Children's Center by Kinder's founder Paul Orfalea and his family.

The campus community is invited to the public dedication of the center's new name, the Orfalea Family and ASI Children's Center, at 4:30 p.m. today at the faculty.

The gift will be used to support the operation of the center, which is funded by student fees, and to expand its parent education program.

"The Orfalea family has an avid interest in child development and has supported many such causes elsewhere," said President Baker. "With this gift, the family becomes a partner with the university's Associated Students Inc. in educating young children and their parents."

"Our family has a long-standing commitment to young children, and we are happy to see our continued commitment in a difference in their families' lives," said
CPR schedule
The Cal Poly Report is published every Wednesday during the academic year. Articles are due to Public Affairs by 10 a.m. Wednesday for the following week’s edition. Items can be e-mailed to polynews@calpoly.edu, faxed to 805-756-4333, or mailed to Public Affairs, 3220 N. Torrey Pines Road, San Luis Obispo, CA 93405. For information, call ext. 6-1511.

CSU changes travel policy, increases reimbursements
The CSU has issued some changes to the travel policy, including an increase in some per diem rates as well as a $20 per diem expense. The change is effective as of Jan. 1, 2001. The new rates are:
• Meals will be $50 per diem.
• Lodging expenses will be $75 per diem.
• Daily meal reimbursement amounts increased to $9 for breakfast, $12 for lunch, and $20 for dinner. Lunch expenses will not be reimbursed on trips of less than 24 hours.

Math talk set for Feb. 15
Professor Andrej Granja from the University of Montreal will present "On the Leray-Schauder Principle in the ANR Spacetime Calculus" on Feb. 15 in room 222 in the Mathematics and Science Building. For more information, call the Mathematics Department at ext. 6-6535.

Heard that series gets grant; Peter Pran to talk Friday
A $100,000 gift from the Heurd Foundation will expand Architecture and Environmental Design’s Heurd Lecture Series to include full-day symposiums. The series is endowed by the Heurd Foundation in 1996, brings internationally respected leaders from the design profession to campus to deliver lectures, visit classrooms and critique design projects.

CSU changes travel policy, increases reimbursements
The CSU has issued some changes to the travel policy, including an increase in some per diem rates as well as a $20 per diem expense. The change is effective as of Jan. 1, 2001. The new rates are:
• Meals will be $50 per diem.
• Lodging expenses will be $75 per diem.
• Daily meal reimbursement amounts increased to $9 for breakfast, $12 for lunch, and $20 for dinner. Lunch expenses will not be reimbursed on trips of less than 24 hours.

Math talk set for Feb. 15
Professor Andrej Granja from the University of Montreal will present "On the Leray-Schauder Principle in the ANR Spacetime Calculus" on Feb. 15 in room 222 in the Mathematics and Science Building. For more information, call the Mathematics Department at ext. 6-6535.

Kennedy Library to honor Cal Poly authors April 4
The third annual event honoring Cal Poly authors will take place on April 4 in the Library. Authors who published books in 2000 will be featured. The event will also include the presentation of the Cal Poly Award to a Chinese American, who will have a scholarship established in his name.

CSU changes travel policy, increases reimbursements
The CSU has issued some changes to the travel policy, including an increase in some per diem rates as well as a $20 per diem expense. The change is effective as of Jan. 1, 2001. The new rates are:
• Meals will be $50 per diem.
• Lodging expenses will be $75 per diem.
• Daily meal reimbursement amounts increased to $9 for breakfast, $12 for lunch, and $20 for dinner. Lunch expenses will not be reimbursed on trips of less than 24 hours.

More travel expenses are included in some per diem rates as well as a $20 per diem expense. The_change is effective as of Jan. 1, 2001. The new rates are:
• Meals will be $50 per diem.
• Lodging expenses will be $75 per diem.
• Daily meal reimbursement amounts increased to $9 for breakfast, $12 for lunch, and $20 for dinner. Lunch expenses will not be reimbursed on trips of less than 24 hours.

Heard that series gets grant; Peter Pran to talk Friday
A $100,000 gift from the Heurd Foundation will expand Architecture and Environmental Design’s Heurd Lecture Series to include full-day symposiums. The series is endowed by the Heurd Foundation in 1996, brings internationally respected leaders from the design profession to campus to deliver lectures, visit classrooms and critique design projects.

CSU changes travel policy, increases reimbursements
The CSU has issued some changes to the travel policy, including an increase in some per diem rates as well as a $20 per diem expense. The change is effective as of Jan. 1, 2001. The new rates are:
• Meals will be $50 per diem.
• Lodging expenses will be $75 per diem.
• Daily meal reimbursement amounts increased to $9 for breakfast, $12 for lunch, and $20 for dinner. Lunch expenses will not be reimbursed on trips of less than 24 hours.

Math talk set for Feb. 15
Professor Andrej Granja from the University of Montreal will present "On the Leray-Schauder Principle in the ANR Spacetime Calculus" on Feb. 15 in room 222 in the Mathematics and Science Building. For more information, call the Mathematics Department at ext. 6-6535.
Former Black Panther head to speak Thursday

Elaine Brown, former head of the Black Panther Party, will give a talk titled "A Taste of Power: A Black Woman's Story" at 7 p.m. Thursday (Feb. 8) as the keynote speaker for Black History and Women's History Month.

The presentation, sponsored by Multicultural Affairs and the Women's Center, will be in the Cohan Center Pavilion.

In 1974 Brown became the first woman to chair the Black Panther Party, a national paramilitary organization. She implemented social programs such as food banks, schools and medical assistance.

Raised in North Philadelphia, Brown grew up in a single-parent household, where her mother kept food on the table as a factory worker. However, she was educated at prestigious and mostly white public schools and studied classical music for years, finishing at the Philadelphia Conservatory of Music.

She recorded two albums of original songs for Motown and continues to write and perform. Brown's autobiographical memoir, "A Taste of Power," has been optioned for a film and will be released by award-winning producers Suzanne de Passe.

Brown, a resident of Atlanta, is working on her next book, "A New Age of Racism," and will discuss the book at educational and various venues around the country.

For more information, call the Multicultural Center at ext. 6-1405.

Hearts Set series gets grant; Peter Pran to talk Friday

A $100,000 gift from the Heartset Foundation will expand Architecture and Environmental Design's Heartset Lecture Series to include full-day symposiums.

The series, endowed by the Heartset Foundation in 1996, brings internationally respected leaders from the design industry to campus to deliver lectures, visit classrooms and critique design projects.

In addition to other possible projects, the new funding has initiated plans for a comprehensive symposium in the spring of 2002.

The next event in the series is a lecture at 3 p.m. Friday (Feb. 9) in Business 213 (the Rotunda) by architect Peter Pran, a principal of the NBBJ (Nabatieh and Brown) architecture firm, who is one of the earliest practitioners of digital strategy in the design practice world.

Pran will talk about both past and recent work, much of which he initiates from a state-of-the-art computer design studio.

Pran's talk will "tie together the whole modernist and post-modernist language in architecture from Mies van der Rohe right up to today's virtually designed spaces," according to Associate Professor Karen Lange, coordinator of the series.

Pran's work includes the South Ferry Plaza Building in New York City.

A question-and-answer session immediately following Pran's lecture will be in Room 201A (the faculty meeting room), Tuesday (Feb. 13), 5 p.m. A reception will be held at 4:30 p.m.

The series is sponsored by the Kennedy Library, El Corral Bookstore and the Performing Arts Program.

For more information, e-mail clay@calpoly.edu or call her at ext. 6-6244.

CSU changes travel policy, increases reimbursements

The CSU has issued some changes to the travel policy, increasing travel costs in some respects. The changes, effective Feb. 1, are:

• The maximum mileage reimbursement rate is increased to 45.6 cents per mile.
• Daily meal reimbursement amounts increased to $9 for breakfast, $12 for lunch, and $20 for dinner. Lunch expenses will not be reimbursed on trips of less than 24 hours.
• Travel expenses and temporary living expenses for executive and other eligible employees have been expanded to include domestic partners.

For more information, call John Sullivan, travel coordinator, at ext. 6-1717.

Kennedy Library to honor Call Poly authors April 4

The third annual event honoring Call Poly faculty members for their work appearing in American or British scholarly resources April 4 in the library's atrium. Authors who published books in 2000 will be featured.

The event coinsides with the Centennial Celebration, the theme will be "Celebrating a Century of Scholarship." The library will exhibit books written by Call Poly authors over the past 100 years.

The event and a form for identifying eligible authors are available at the Call Poly Authors 2001 Web site, http://www.lib.calpoly.edu/authors. To be included, authors can fill out the form themselves or they can be done by a colleague. For more information, call the library at ext. 6-2787, or fax your order to 6-6244.

Artistic, historian to attend symposiun to honor Kathy Mattea

Carolyn Mazzoni, fiber artist, author and historian, will talk about African American quilts and sign copies of her book, "Spirit of the Cloth," at 2 p.m. Monday (Feb. 5) in the Cawley Auditorium.

She will also give a talk and exhibit her quilts at the San Luis Obispo Quilt Guild's 30th annual Quilt Show 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Mount Carmel Lutheran Church, 1701 Fredericks St., San Luis Obispo.

Mazzoni is considered one of the most creative quilt makers in the United States. Much of her work contains referents to African-American life and history and harkens back to a shared African ancestry.

Her quilts can be found in corporate collections and numerous museums, including the Smithsonian. She has appeared on numerous television shows and was the subject of an award-winning documentary, "Uncommon Beauty." Call Poly's event is part of the Centennial Celebration of Diversity: Our Past, Our Present, Our Future.

For more information, call her at ext. 6-6244, or visit her Web site at http://www.mazzoni.com/mazzoni.html.

Retirement workshops set for April 3-5

The Public Employees' Retirement System (PERS) will hold three retirement workshops April 3-5 in the Cohan Center.

Workshops are free and designed to help members understand their retirement and benefits.

For more information, call the PERS at ext. 6-2787, or fax your order to 6-6244.

CPR schedule

The Call Poly Report is published every Wednesday during the academic year. Articles are due to Public Affairs by 9 a.m. Wednesday for the following week's edition. Items can be e-mailed to polynews@calpoly.edu, faxed to ext. 6-6533, or mailed to Public Affairs, 528 North Campus Drive, San Luis Obispo, CA 93407-0551. For information, call ext. 6-1511.

CAL POLY REPORT, FEBRUARY 7, 2001

PAGE 2
ASI Children's Center...
Continued from page 1

Orfalea. "We really believe that early care needs more of this country's focus and attention. We should think about investing in early care programs in the same way we think about investing in college educations, because both are essential learning environments for the development of our youth and future leaders."

The gift is the second one from the Orfalea family. In November they donated securities worth $15 million to the College of Business.

The children’s center began operation in 1973 and provides care for children at the facility, the faculty, and staff members, ranging in age from four months to six years. It is a nationally accredited program, a standard that is achieved by only 7 percent of child care programs nationwide.

“We are overwhelmed by the generosity of the Orfalea family,” Tonya Iversen, director of the children’s center, said.

"This donation will allow us to expand innovative programs that will provide resources for the continuing operation of the center as a model program for children and families."

The center also serves as a hands-on laboratory for students majoring in psychology and human development.

The expanded Parenthood Education Program, developed by the center’s staff, will be implemented in three phases.

• Parents with children enrolled at the center will be able to participate in weekly and quarterly support and education groups and check out books, videos and games from a resource lending library.

• Lunch discussions and parent support groups will be made available to parents who are part of the Cal Poly community at large; and

• The center will provide workshops and classes for community members on building skills for successful parenting.

ASI Children's Center receives $1 million gift

Securities valued at $1 million have been given to the ASI Children’s Center by Kinder’s founder Paul Orfalea and his family.

The campus community is invited to the public dedication of the center’s new name, the Orfalea Family and ASI Children’s Center, at 4:30 p.m. today at the facility.

The gift will be used to support the operation of the center, which is funded by student fees, and to expand its parent education program.

"The Orfalea family has an avid interest in child development and has supported many such causes elsewhere," said President Baker. "With this gift, the family becomes a partner with the university’s Associated Students Inc. in educating young children and their parents."

"Our family has a long-standing commitment to young children, and we are happy to see our continued support make a difference in their families’ lives," said

ASI Childern's Center
Continued from page 1

Ora...