April 24, 2006
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact: Audrey Chaney
(805)674-1608
achaney@calpoly.edu

 Tomato Mania Hits Cal Poly This Weekend **

SAN LUIS OBISPO – Cal Poly students will be selling dozens of varieties of tomato plants this weekend when the annual Tomato Mania sale returns to campus.

Here’s your chance to buy Better Boy, Beefmaster, Lemon Drop and a host of Goliath tomato plants 10 a.m.–5 p.m. Friday, April 28 and Saturday, April 29 in the parking lot of the Environmental Horticulture Unit on Via Carta on the Cal Poly Campus.

More than 50 different varieties, heirloom and hybrids, miniatures to two-pound fruit types will be available. These plants have never had mealy bugs and are looking good.

For more information about tomato plant varieties offered for sale, go to the Web site: polyplantshop.com.

###