Blues legend Buddy Guy to play at Cal Poly Monday

Grammy Award-winning Chicago blues legend Buddy Guy will perform at 8 p.m. Monday (March 19) in the Cohen Center's Harman Hall.

After more than three decades of playing the blues, Guy made a career breakthrough with his 1991 album "Damn Right, I've Got the Blues." The album, which included guest appearances by Stevie Ray Vaughan, Jeff Beck, and Mark Knopfler, earned a Grammy Award for "Best Contemporary Blues Album." Guy also won a Grammy for his "Standing Room Only" tour. "Feels Like Rain" in 1993 and "Slippin' In" in 1995. Guy appeared in the 1996 television special and live album, "A Tribute To Stevie Ray Vaughan," along with B.B. King, Clapton, Jimmie Vaughan, Bonnie Raitt, Dr. John, and Art Neville. The closing number, "SRV Shuffle," earned Guy his fourth Grammy Award, for "Best Rock Instrumental Performance."

Tickets to this Cal Poly Arts event are $20 to $38, with student discounts available.

Position vacancies

For a complete listing of employment opportunities for state staff and management positions, you can:
- Check Cal Poly's Web site at http://www.calpoly.edu
- Select "Employment" from the Cal Poly search bar drop-down menu.
- Go to the HRREE office, Admin. 110, and view the posted positions.
- Call HRREE at 805-756-4633.

Position postings will not be accepted.

FACULTY candidates are asked to contact the appropriate department office at the phone number listed for more information or to request an application. Additional information and qualifications for each position may also be obtained online at http://www.academicpersonnel.calpoly.edu. Please submit all application materials to the department headchair unless otherwise specified in the ad. Rank and salary are commensurate with qualifications and experience (and time base where applicable), unless otherwise stated.

Faculty members, students inducted into Golden Key

The Golden Key International Honor Society recently inducted 345 new students and four honorary faculty members from the colleges of Agriculture, Business and Science and Mathematics. Faculty members Jayme Nolte, Animal Science; Rudy Wooten, Animal Science; Janice Carr, Business; and Theresa Bolanos, Chemistry and Biochemistry, were recognized in a ceremony and reception in Chumash Auditorium.

Honorary members are recognized for their service to students, the campus and the community at large.

Golden Key also awarded two $500 scholarships to a junior- and senior-level student to recognize and reward extraordinary academic scholarship and service to the campus and community.

Golden Key International Honor Society is open to the top 15 percent of students in any major and focuses on service to the campus and community. For more information, visit the society's Web site at http://www.goldenkynational.org, or call 805-756-2123.

Finelines for free

The campus cat program has a variety of cats for adoption that have been trapped on campus and are available for adoption for free. They have all been vaccinated, spayed or neutered, and tested for FelLV/FIV.

The cats range in age from about six months to two years.

The cat program is always seeking tax-deductible donations and needs wet and dry food and bedding. Checks can be made out to "Cal Poly Cat Program."

For more information, contact Edie Griffin-Shaw at ext. 6-5280 or at griffinshaw@calpoly.edu or visit the Web site at http://www.calpoly.edu/~scantes/#index.html.

Datemline . . .

Tuesday, March 20

Books at High Noon: Steve Marx (English), "Neo-Conservativism" by Paul Hawken, Library 5th. noon.

Wednesday, March 21

Puppet Theater: "The Very Hungry Caterpillar" and "The Very Quiet Cricket" (March 21-22), Theatre, 6:30 p.m.

Taking a bow . . .

Guest vocalist Paul Servertson will join the Cal Poly Chamber Orchestra in concert at 3 p.m. March 18 in the Theatre.

Nominations sought for memorial scholarship

The Courtesy Elizabeth Smyth Scholarship Committee is seeking nominations for a $1,000 scholarship designed to recognize students who have overcome adversity and personal hardship.

The scholarship was established by the family of former business administration major Courtney Smyth, who was posthumously awarded a bachelor's degree in 1999.

The scholarship committee is looking for "truly unusual students who have overcome personal tragedies, adversity or hardship, all of which suggest an inner strength in the commitment to maintain academic progress," according to guidelines for the scholarship.

Nominations can include students with medical, personal or family problems; those able to balance outside employment and academic life; and those whose grades have markedly improved since high school.

One student will be selected each year.

The finalist will be announced during Fall Conference week.

Eligible students must be currently enrolled full-time, be in good academic standing and making satisfactory progress.

First Hundred Years' book released on History Day

More than 300 photographs and other images Cal Poly's rich history in a new book released on History Day to help the university celebrate its Centennial.

In text and pictures, "Cal Poly: The First Hundred Years" captures the full span of campus life and academic progress over the century, including campus customs, student life, and other elements that make Cal Poly unique.

The 178-page volume is Cal Poly's first illustrated, book-length history.

The first of five chapters begins in 1894, when local journalist Myron Angel gathered a group of citizens to lobby for a state school in San Luis Obispo. The preparatory years of the institution, the Great Depression, Cal Poly's "Rosie the Riveter" training programs, and the advent of naval pre-flight training during World War II are covered.

The book chronicles the years of change and growth that followed the war, as the standards of veterans, and the achievements of students and the faculty during the second half of the 20th century.

Cal Poly's darkest hours are a special section devoted to the 1969 crash of the aircraft carrying the Mustang football team.

Other sections highlight the lore and legend of Cal Poly's hillside "P" of athletes, of the Rose Float tradition, of Poly Royal and Open House and their forerunner, the Farmers' Picnic.

A section is devoted to the six colleges, the University Center for Teacher Education and the Kennedy Library.

Written and coordinated by Nancy Loe, head of University Archives, with contributions from other campus units, the book concludes with an afterword by President Baker on the future of Cal Poly.

Copies will be available by the end of March, in soft covers, for $30.95 plus tax at the campus Bookstore, at elcorral.calpoly.edu, or by mail, fax, phone and Web. Copies can be reserved at 800-367-0771 or www.lib.calpoly.edu/book. e
Students display designs for Cal Poly time capsule

There’s a time capsule that grows from trash, a time capsule you walk through, and a capsule to keep the past alive. There’s one that guesses the future and one that records it.

And those five student proposals for a Cal Poly Centennial Time Capsule are on display in the LUB lobby through February 23. Professor Tom Fowler’s third-year architecture students developed a range of imaginative ideas as a class project—should a Cal Poly time capsule event be built—and the public has the chance to vote for their preferences among five or six conceptual designs. Suggestions are invited on the form, contents and location of the envisioned Centennial capsule.

“When our design student conceptualizes a project, it’s about more than the piece,” said Fowler. “It’s about the idea behind the piece, and giving students the opportunity to create an object that will stand the test of time.”

Fowler said the idea of the Centennial capsules are a way for the campus to celebrate the university’s past and respond to the needs of the future.

New Shanghai Circus to perform acrobatics

The New Shanghai Circus will perform gravity-defying acrobatics and classic Chinese folk art at 7:30 p.m. today in the San Luis Obispo Performing Arts Center. A student discount is available.

Choirs’ talent show, auction to aid tour to France

The University Singers, PolyPhonics, Vocal Jazz, and barbershop-quartet Grand Avenue and Hope Comes Treble will hold a benefit talent show and silent auction at 8 p.m. today in Science E-45. Almost 60 student singers, 10 alumni and 20 family members and friends are planning to participate in the tour. Tickets to the talent show and silent auction are $10 and $14, with child and student discounts available.

Nominees sought…

Continued from page 1 and will be a full-time student for the 2001-2002 academic year. Letters of nomination should include the student’s name and Social Security number, a description of personal strengths and potential for success, and insight into the candidate’s character and ability to excel under adversity.

Nominations are due April 12 to the Student Affairs office, Adm. 209. For more information, call Judy Nussbaum at ext. 6-1521.

‘Walk Your Bike’ zone created in campus core

To encourage the use of bicycles, cyclists will be allowed to walk their bikes in the campus core this spring semester. All bicycles will be placed in the zone where possible. This area is “available to be bid on by bicyclists for about 10 years, and it will continue to be a violation to ride a bicycle in the area.”

For about a month, University Police will educate the campus through the media, classroom presentations, ads in various publications, and warnings by officers. After that, those who ride in the zone will be cited.

The new zone was recommended by the Cal Poly Bicycle Task Force.

New Poly Reps available on Web

The Poly Reps student organization recently hosted its 14th annual “PolyPhers,” at which 20 faculty and student members were honored.

Each Poly Rep invited a favorite employee to the reception as a way of making a difference in their life at Cal Poly.

During the event, each honoree was invited to tell the story of a way Poly Reps members have made a difference in their life.

Those honored were Preston Allen, Housing and Residential Life; Phil Bailey, Dean of the College of Science and Mathematics; Ron Brown, Physics; Chris Carr, Global Strategy and Law; Nancy Clark, Housing Program; John Corcoran, Electrical Engineering; and Cindy Decker, Journalism.

Additional honorees included Larry Gorman, Finance; Linda Halisky, English; Anthony Koeninger, History; Margaret Leith, Physics; Don McPeck, Cal Poly University Center for Teacher Education; Sherry O’Neill, Mathematics; Valerie Peterson, Speech Communication; Susan Puhl, Physical Education and Kinesthetics; Cyrus Ramezani, Finance; Alar Razee, Speech Communication; Don Ruyjin, Psychology and Human Development; Susan Sparling, Student Academic Services; and Dave Wehner, College of Agriculture.

Call the Poly Reps at ext. 6-2460 or ext. 6-6088 for more information.
Ag helps form curricula for Arab Emirates college

Dean of Agriculture Joseph Jen has been named as the chancellor of the United Arab Emirates University (UAEE) to help develop a curriculum that emphasizes Cal Poly-like “learn-by-doing” approach.

Chancellor Sheikh Nahyan Bin Mubarak wants to enhance his institution’s traditional theoretical education system with a more practical, hands-on style.

Jen is heading up a team of College of Agriculture faculty members, including Associate Dean David Wehner, whose specialty area is environmental horticulture; Robert Rutherford, animal science; Mary Pedersen, nutrition; Kathleen McNulty, nutrition; Phillip Dobb, agronomy; and Renate van den Berg, consumer science.

UAEE representative Ahmed Youssif asked Jen and W. R. “Reg” Gomes, vice president of agriculture and natural resources for the University of California, to meet with him to discuss objectives and determine how it could be done.

After reviewing the agriculture programs in the Emirates, the group recommended de-emphasizing production agriculture and concentrating on agricultural business and food systems.

Sheikh Mubarak then asked the College of Agriculture to develop a curricula for the four departments and eight majors of a new College of Food Systems at UAEE.

Students display designs for Cal Poly time capsule

There’s a time capsule that grows from trash, a time capsule you walk through, and a capsule to keep the past visible.

There’s one that guesses the future and one that records it.

And those five student proposals for a Cal Poly Centennial Time Capsule are on display in the UU lobby through March 22.

Professor Tom Fowler’s third-year architecture students developed a range of imaginative ideas as a class project — should a Cal Poly time capsule ever be built — and the public has the chance to vote for their preferences among five of them.

Suggestions are invited on the form, contents and location of the envisioned Centennial capsule.

"Fragmentation," a proposal by Shoko Iwasaki, would be built between the Kennedy Library and the Buster Building from recyclable trash and would grow over the next 100 years as new recyclables are added.

A "Student Lives" capsule proposed by Jeff Fiftal would display photos, video, audio and physical artifacts of the lives of a cross-section of students in walk-through galleries in the Centennial Park, a new park proposed as part of the Science Building area that may be included in the future.

Items describing the lives of new students would be added as the century progressed.

Jens Mansel Aguilera proposes art installations that can be contained in transparent boxes recessed into the ground in the Centennial Park so visitors can see and discuss the past as life changes during the new century.

The New York Times said the group’s “articulate art related literally breathtaking heights of skill.” Tickets are $10 and $14, with child and student discounts available.

Nominations sought...

Continued from page 1 and be a full-time student for the 2001-2002 academic year.

Letters of nomination should include the student’s name and Social Security number, a description of personal strengths and potential for success, and insight into the character’s attitude to excel under adversity.

Nominations are due April 12 to the Student Affairs office, Admin. 209. For more information, call Judy Nussbaum at ext. 6-1521.

‘Walk Your Bike’ zone created in campus core

To encourage the use of bicycles, cyclists will be allowed to walk their bikes in and out of campus core beginning spring quarter — April 2. Bicycle racks will be placed in the zone where possible.

And those five student proposals for a Cal Poly campus Time Capsule are on display in the UU lobby through March 22.

Professor Tom Fowler’s third-year architecture students developed a range of imaginative ideas as a class project — should a Cal Poly time capsule ever be built — and the public has the chance to vote for their preferences among five of them.

Suggestions are invited on the form, contents and location of the envisioned Centennial capsule.

"Fragmentation," a proposal by Shoko Iwasaki, would be built between the Kennedy Library and the Buster Building from recyclable trash and would grow over the next 100 years as new recyclables are added.

A "Student Lives" capsule proposed by Jeff Fiftal would display photos, video, audio and physical artifacts of the lives of a cross-section of students in walk-through galleries in the Centennial Park, a new park proposed as part of the Science Building area that may be included in the future.

Items describing the lives of new students would be added as the century progressed.

Jens Mansel Aguilera proposes art installations that can be contained in transparent boxes recessed into the ground in the Centennial Park so visitors can see and discuss the past as life changes during the new century.

The New York Times said the group’s “articulate art related literally breathtaking heights of skill.” Tickets are $10 and $14, with child and student discounts available.

Nominations sought...

Continued from page 1 and be a full-time student for the 2001-2002 academic year.

Letters of nomination should include the student’s name and Social Security number, a description of personal strengths and potential for success, and insight into the character’s attitude to excel under adversity.

Nominations are due April 12 to the Student Affairs office, Admin. 209. For more information, call Judy Nussbaum at ext. 6-1521.

Children’s book drive to run through March 28

Cal Poly’s Chapter of the Golden Key National Honor Society is participating in a drive to collect children’s books as part of “Upholding America’s Promise,” a project that seeks to further the education of children worldwide.

Books will be collected through March 28, and all books will be donated to libraries and schools.

Member of Golden Key will arrange to have the donated books at the society’s regional conference in Long Beach for inclusion in the drive, which is being coordinated by CSU Long Beach.

Nominations are due April 12 to the Student Affairs office, Admin. 209. For more information, call Judy Nussbaum at ext. 6-1521.

‘Apple Polysher’ website

The Poly Rep student organization recently hosted its 14th annual “Apple Polysher,” at which 20 faculty and staff members were honored.

Each Poly Rep invited a favorite employee to the reception as a way of making a difference in their life at Cal Poly.

During the event, each honoree was thanked for all the service they provided and why they were chosen for recognition. The invited guests were also presented with a Golden Apple Award certificate.

Those honored were Preston Allen, Housing and Residential Life; Phil Bailey, Dean of the College of Science and Mathematics; Don Crocker, Electrical Engineering; and Cindy Decker, English.

Additional honorees included Larry Gorman, Finance; Linda Halisky, English; Anthony Koeninger, History; Margaret Post, Philosophy; John Rau, University Center for Teacher Education; Sheryl O’Neill, Mathematics; Valerie Peterson, Speech Communication; Sune Puhl, Physical Education and Kinesiology; Gary Ramezani, Finance; Alar, Raske, Speech Communication; Don Ryujiin, Psychology and Human Development; Susan Sarpling, Student Academic Services, and Dave Wehner, College of Agriculture.

Retirement reception set for philosophy professors

The campus community is invited to attend a retirement reception for philosophy professors Laurence Houlgate, Russell Lascola and Frederick O’Hara from 2 to 4 p.m. (Thursday March 15) in UU 220.

CAL POLY REPORT, MARCH 14, 2001
Blues Legend Buddy Guy to play at Cal Poly Monday

Grammy Award-winning Chicago blues legend Buddy Guy will perform at 8 p.m., Monday (March 19) in the Cohan Center's Harman Hall.

After more than three decades of playing the blues, Guy made a career breakthrough with his 1991 album "Damn Right, I've Got the Blues." The album, which included guest appearances by Clapton, Jeff Beck, and Mark Knopfler, earned a Grammy Award for "Best Contemporary Blues Album." Guy also won a Grammy for two other releases, "Feels Like Rain" in 1993 and "Sippin' In" in 1995. Guy appeared in the 1996 television special and live album, "A Tribute To Stevie Ray Vaughan," along with B.B. King, Clapton, Jimmie Vaughan, Bonnie Raitt, Dr. John, and Art Neville. The closing number, "SRV Shuffle," earned Guy his fourth Grammy Award, for "Best Rock Instrumental Performance."

Tickets to this Cal Poly Arts event are $26 to $38, with student discounts available.

Fines free for felines

The campus cat program has a variety of cats for adoption that have been trapped on campus and are available for adoption for free. They have all been vaccinated, spayed or neutered, and tested for FELV/FIV.

The cats range in age from about six months to two years. The cat program is always seeking tax-deductible donations and needs wet and dry food and bedding. Checks can be made out to "Cal Poly Cat Program."

For more information, contact Edie Griffin-Shaw at ext. 6-5290 or egriffin @calpoly.edu, or visit the Web site at http://www.calpoly.edu/~calvitiates/index.html.

DATELINE

Friday, March 16

Music: Pop Concert with Cal Poly Wind Orchestra and William Terrence Spittler (Music, Cohan Center Harman Hall, 8 p.m.)

Sunday, March 18

Choral: New Shanghai Circus, Cohan Center Harman Hall, 3 and 7 p.m. ($)

Music: Cal Poly Chamber Orchestra Winter Concert, Theatre, 7 p.m.

Monday, March 19

Final Exam Period: Through March 23.

Continued on page 4

Dateline... Continued from page 1

Tuesday, March 20

Physics Colloquium: Steve Lindblad (Central Washington University), "The Oology of Earthquakes," Science E-26, 11 a.m.

Books at High Noon: Steve Marx (English), "Neoliberal Capitalism" by Paul Hawkens, Linney 116.

Wednesday, March 21

Pupper Theater: "The Very Hungry Caterpillar" and "The Very Quiet Cricket" (March 21-22), Theatre, 6:30 p.m. ($)

Friday, April 5

Music: Choral-Jazz Festival, Theatre, 7:30 p.m. ($)

Saturday, April 6

Music: Dance Recital, Davidson Center, 2 and 7 p.m.

Hasty Pudding: "Weird Science," 8 p.m.

Sunday, April 7

Music: Symphony, Cohan Center Harman Hall, 8 p.m. ($)

April 1

Final Exam Period.

Continued from page 4

#13980. Part-time Librarian, Cohan Center Harman Hall, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. ($)

#20002. Philosophy Department/Religious Studies (ext. 6-2041). Closing date: May 7.

#13989. Part-time Librarian, Cohan Center Harman Hall, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. ($)

Job announcements and postings are listed in "The Tribune." If you would like to be included in our newsletter, please email the position to the appropriate department chair at the appropriate email address or call the designated office to request an application.

Cal Poly Report schedule

The final winter quarter issue of the Cal Poly Report will be March 21. The deadline to submit items for that issue is 10 a.m. today. Publish will resurface April 4. The deadline for that issue is 10 a.m. March 28. Send items to ext. 6-6533, or mail to Public Affairs, Heron Hall. For more information call ext. 6-5151.