Grants will develop links with community

Two grants recently awarded to the College of Architecture and Environmental Design will further develop student involvement in local community planning.

A two-year, $88,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) will fund three professional internships for graduate students to work in local planning and community development organizations, such as the Economic Vitality Corp., People's Self Help Housing, and San Luis Obispo city and county governments.

An award from the city of Arroyo Grande for $2,800 will help students in the intermediate-environmental design studio develop options for a section of Grand Avenue bordering Grover Beach. The grant from Arroyo Grande "demonstrates the city and regional planning program's effort to engage in education that has community benefit and strengthens the link between the university and the community," said project co-director and Professor Zeljka Howard.

The HUD award "allows us to build stronger partnerships with local planning agencies and non-profit organizations that provide housing and economic development services to the Central Coast," said City and Regional Planning Department Continued on page 4

Hewi Bill Siembieda, one of the internship program's directors. "(It) will also greatly help economically disadvantaged students make the choice to study at a program recognized for academic excellence," said Cal Poly and USC were the only two California universities to receive the highly competitive HUG grant, according to Siembieda. Nationwide, 22 universities received funding.

The City and Regional Planning Department is now recruiting for the HUD internships among students who will start the department's graduate program this fall. For more information on the grants and internships, look at the department's Web page at www.calpoly.edu/crpl/ or contact Professor David Dubink at ext. 6-2151 or ddubink@calpoly.edu.

CPR schedule

The Cal Poly Report is published every other week during the summer.
The next issue will be July 19. Articles for that issue are due to Public Affairs by 10 a.m. July 11. Items can be e-mailed to polyreport@polymail, faxed to ext. 6-6533, or mailed to Public Affairs, Heros Hall. For more information, call ext. 6-1511.
Leaves solicitation
Djinn Ruffner administrative support assistant in Extended Education, has qualified for personal catastrophic leave. Eligible state employees may donate vacation credit and/or sick leave to help remain in full-pay status during an extended absences. The interested in donating leave may request the Catastrophic Leave Donation form solicitation coordinator Rose Whitter in Extended Education at ext. 6-0255 or by email. CSEA employees in units 2, 5, 7 and 9 plus “academic professionals” in unit 4 may donate up to 12 hours sick leave and/or vacation credits. All other state employees may donate up to 16 sick hours leave and/or vacation credits per fiscal year in increments of one hour or more.

Student advising booklets wins national recognition
A handbook designed to help new students adjust to life at Cal Poly is being recognized by a national group devoted to ensuring that students receive effective advising and personal attention. “Entrance,” a 96-page booklet developed by the Summer Advising Program Committee, will receive a certificate of merit at the October national conference of the National Academic Advising Association.

The handbook is given to new students during the Summer Advising Program and during WOW.

The publication was edited by Cindy Jelinek, advising director for the College of Science and Mathematics, and designed by 2000 Art and Design grad Stephen Lowe.

Students win top prizes in book design contest
Graphic Communication students won four of five prizes in the 2001 Bookbuilders West book design competition. The winners are: Ellen O'Brien, first place; Rachel Fee, second place; upcoming; and last month’s winner, Janet Foulger, senior, won a $1,500 scholarship.

The third in a series of lunchtime discussions sponsored by the Cultural Awareness Committee will be held Tuesday at 1 p.m. in Room 241 at the Recreational Agriculture Building.

Participants will talk about various aspects of superstitions related to religion, days of the year, holidays, animals and other factors and why superstitions are such a deep-seated part of many cultures. One question to be addressed is whether our superstitions and our perceptions of the superstitions of other cultures consciously or unconsciously influence the way we view people from different cultures.

Programs in this series on diversity-related issues are held the second Friday of each month, same time, same location.

For more information about the programs, call Karen Webb at ext. 5-5046 or Gail Simmons at ext. 5-2803.

Julian’s to relocate during summer quarter
While the UW is undergoing renovation this summer, Julian’s is relocating next to the Lighthouse, near the Sandich Factory.

It will continue to sell coffee, espresso, “Java Blends,” pastries and ice cream. After the renovation — and in time for fall quarter — Julian’s will move back to the UW with a new look and improved traffic flow.

Summer softball games planned
Free, informal softball games are planned for the entire quarter for students and staff members at 5 p.m. Thursdays at the Sports Complex.

The games will be casual, “toss-the-bat-and-pick-up” softball and everyone is welcome, regardless of skill, said Joe Long of Recreational Sports. “The games are intended to provide a way for the faculty and staff to play and socialize for an hour or two.

Registration begins today (July 5) at 5 p.m.

Play is expected to begin July 12.

For more information call on Long at ext. 6-1036 or e-mail jlong@calpoly.edu.

The first place winner, Janet Foulger, a senior, won a $1,500 scholarship. Ann Fargo, a junior, took second place and received a $1,000 scholarship. Junior Ann Amy Reisman and senior Erick Norr each received an honorable mention and $500.

The students, part of the department's design reproduction technology concentration, are asked to select and design a classic book. The page design must include the layout and typography; the cover design must try to convey the author's intent and the atmosphere and content of the story, Cal Poly's entries are taught on the Windows platform, but can be changed to different operating systems.

Discussion of superstitions set for Friday the 13th

Are you afraid of Friday the 13th? If so, do you know why?

The third in a series of lunchtime discussions sponsored by the Cultural Awareness Committee — appropriately scheduled for July 13, Friday — will explore the world of superstitions.

The event will be at 1 p.m. in Room 241 of the Erhart Agriculture Building.

Participants will talk about various aspects of superstitions related to religion, days of the week, holidays, animals and other factors and why superstitions are such a deep part of many cultures. One question that must be addressed is whether our superstitions and our perceptions of the superstitions of other cultures consciously or unconsciously influence the way we view people from different cultures.

Rec Center offers summer fitness classes

Summer fitness classes available to employees begin at the Recreation Center.

The group exercise "Ultimate Sum­mer Fitness Class" meets the first Thursday of each month, same time, same location. For more information call the Recreation Center 467-5000.

Employees' children get sports camp discount

The Athletics Department is offering state and faculty members a discount on its All-Sports Camp for children July 16-20.

The camp is for kids in grades 1-6 with instruction by Cal Poly coaches and student athletes. The cost for a university employee's child is $195 — a savings of $90.

For more information call the Mustang Ticket Office at ext. 6-5806 or visit www.gopoly.com.

Extended Ed offers intensive Photoshop class

Extended Education is offering an intensive course in Adobe Photoshop 6.0 Tuesday (July 10) through Aug. 2. The course will go into Photoshop in much greater detail than possible in the brief overview offered periodically by Information Technology Services.

Eight, three-hour sessions with one person at a computer will be held Tuesdays and Thursdays 6:30-9:30 p.m. in Erhart Agriculture 128. The fee is $289. The instructor is visual design consultant, former San Luis Obispo Tribune photographer and graphics instructor, Tony Herts.

Photoshop is an image-editing software program that uses "painting," editing, and image composition to adjust images for print and the Internet.

A working knowledge of basic computer operating systems, disks, files and directories is a prerequisite. The course is taught on the Windows platform, but the interface is virtually the same for Mac.

The required text is "Adobe Photoshop 6.0 Classroom in a Book," available at El Corral. Participants should read chapters 1 and 2 and bring a PC 100MB Zip disk to the first day of class.

For a complete course description and to register online, go to Extended Education's Web site at www.ExtendedEducation.calpoly.edu or call ext. 6-2053.
