New housing auxiliary to hold regular meeting Friday
The university's newest nonprofit auxiliary, the Cal Poly Housing Corp., has assumed responsibility for the extensive program already begun by the university to expand on-campus student housing and aid employees in finding affordable housing.
The corporation's board of directors will hold a regular meeting at 10 a.m. Friday (Aug. 17) in the Foundation Building Administration, Conference Room 124.
The corporation is the university's third auxiliary, sharing that status with the Cal Poly Foundation and ASI. Auxiliary status, approved by the CSU, lets the corporation provide support services to the university not prepared to offer or isn't allowed by state regulation to provide. It operates under university control.
President Baker has asked the entity to lead the proposed development of faculty and staff housing and a second phase of student housing to follow the project now under construction on Poly Canyon Road. The housing program is called for in the new campus master plan approved by CSU trustees in March.
Two campus sites on Highway 1 are planned for faculty-staff housing will be

Collegians Alumni Big Band to play at Madonna Inn

The Cal Poly Collegians Alumni Big Band will present a program of big-band jazz for listening and dancing at 7 p.m. Aug. 25 at the Madonna Inn in San Luis Obispo.

Approximately 20 members of the band, founded at Cal Poly in 1937 by longtime Music Department Head Harold P. Davidson, meet annually to play tunes from the "good old days." The group performs arrangements from the 1940s to 1990s, including hits from the Stan Kenton, Count Basie and Duke Ellington bands, as well as songs by contemporary big bands.

The Cal Poly Collegians played during their college years and continue to perform locally and throughout California. Alumni band members attended Cal Poly from about 1952 to 1963. They come to the Central Coast from throughout California and as far away as Massachusetts to perform.

The Collegians Alumni Big Band will play in the Gay '90s Ballroom at the Madonna Inn. Admission is free.

DeCosta leads new Campus Relations office

A new Campus Relations office, reporting directly to the provost, has been created to coordinate the existing functions of ombuds services, employee assistance, affirmative action/employment equity, and educational equity.

Jean DeCosta, named last spring as associate director of human resources and employment equity and the Employee Assistance Program, was reassigned Aug. 1 to direct the new office.

The reorganization was effected by Provost Zingg and Vice President Frank Levens because of the resignations of Anna McDonald, director of human resources at the University of Vermont.

The transition will take place over the remainder of the summer.

Housing project topic of meeting tonight at 7 p.m.

Cal Poly will hold a neighborhood meeting tonight (Aug. 15) to discuss the Draft Environmental Impact Report (EIR) for one of two proposed faculty-staff housing projects.

The meeting, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the Multipurpose Room at Bishop's Peak Elementary School, will focus on the site of the Highland Drive and Santa Rosa Street.

Attendees will have an opportunity to ask questions and address concerns about the Highland Drive site. Written comments are also welcome. The California Environmental Quality Act requires that comments be submitted in writing by Sept. 7, the end of the 60-day public review period.

Copies of the Draft EIR are available.
