Art and Design faculty to exhibit work Oct. 1-26

A sampling of the Art and Design faculty's creativity will be on display in an all-union exhibit Oct. 1-26 in the University Art Gallery in the Dexter Building. A reception is scheduled 6:30 p.m. Oct. 5 in the gallery.

The event includes the work of Sky Bergman, Joseph Coates, Robert Dennis, Trent Golant, Crissa Hewitt, Robert Howell, Chuck Jennings, George Jerichic, Eric Johnson, Mary LaPorte, Michael Miller and Joanne Ruggles.

The exhibit will include paintings, drawings, photography, blown glass, sculptures, graphic designs and samples of typography.

The University Art Gallery is open 11 a.m.-6 p.m. daily including weekends, and 7-9 p.m. Wednesdays.

For more information, call the gallery at ext. 6-1571.

Founders Celebration to be Thursday, Friday

The faculty and staff, students and families are invited to join in all Founders Celebration events beginning Thursday evening (Sept. 27) with an academic colloquium and ending Friday (Sept. 28) with an All-University Picnic.

The Founders Colloquium, Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Christopher Cohan Center's Harman Hall, is a panel discussion with top executives from U.S. technology companies and academic leaders from across the nation. Discussion will focus on the challenges of educating a diverse population for the new science-and-technology-based economy.

Panelists include David Baltimore, president of the California Institute of Technology; Gary Bloom, chief executive officer and president of Veritas; Rita Colwell, director of the National Science Foundation; Richard DeMillo, chief technology officer of Hewlett-Packard, and John Brooks Slaughter, president and chief executive officer of the National Action Council for Minority in Engineering and president emeritus of OCCD.

Applications being accepted for London Study Program

The London Study Program is accepting faculty applications for teaching in London either in fall 2002 or spring 2003. A committee will screen candidates for both sessions this fall.

Applicants are invited to participate, a stipend of up to $2,000 is available to those who meet the following criteria: 1) proven teaching excellence; 2) ability to teach high-student-demand courses in the program's "core curriculum"; and 3) demonstrated need for financial assistance.

The stipend is intended to encourage participation by faculty members who have previously not applied because they considered the cost of living in London prohibitive.

Although the curricular emphasis is primarily on general education courses in the humanities, arts and social sciences, the program encourages and supports participation by teachers in professional areas also.

To date, about one-fourth of the London faculty members have come from colleges outside Liberal Arts.

Cal Poly's London campus in the spring is in the academic heart of the Bloomsbury district, within two blocks of the British Museum. In the fall, the program is in the Kensington district.

Applications have been sent to all college deans' offices and are also available from Miriam Rabban, program coordinator in the International Education and Programs office, Math and Science 145.
Orchesis Dance workshop, auditions scheduled

Faculty members are asked to let their students know that a workshop and auditions for the 32nd annual Orchesis Dance Co. concert will be held this week. The workshop is at 6:10 p.m. (Sept. 26), and the audition will be 6:10 p.m. Thursday (Sept. 27).

The workshop and auditions will be in the Mooi Ja Missah Suhr Dance Studio in Carnall Gym, across from Mustang Stadium. Interested students are required to attend the workshop in preparation for the audition.

The Orchesis Dance Co. has selected "Signatures in Dance" as its theme for 2002. Performances will be Feb. 1-3 and 7-9 in the theater.

Maria Junco of the Theatre and Dance Department will direct the concert. For information call her at ext. 6-1248 or ext. 6-1465.

Critical thinking to be focus of Oct. 12 workshops

Craig Nelson, professor of biology and public and environmental affairs at Indiana University, will lead half-day workshops on "Fostering Critical Thinking Across Disciplines" on Oct. 12. The morning workshop will be 8:30 a.m.-noon; the afternoon session will be 1:45-3 p.m.

Nelson is an internationally known speaker who has presented workshops and papers on fostering critical thinking and diversity in the college teaching at numerous national meetings and at institutions across the country and in Canada, England, Ireland and Puerto Rico.

He has served on the editorial boards of the Journal for Excellence in College Teaching and Inquiry. Critical Thinking Across the Disciplines, and was a consulting editor for College Teaching.

Nelson, a Carnegie Scholar for 2000-2001, has earned several awards for distinguished teaching from Indiana, Vanderbilt and Northwestern universities. The workshops are sponsored by the College of Agriculture and are open to all faculty members. Registration for faculty members outside the College of Agriculture opens Oct. 1. For more information and to register, e-mail Leanne Burbning in the Dairy Science Department at lberning@calpoly.edu.

Occidental College. Cal Poly President Baker will serve as moderator. The remaining festivities will take place on Friday. They include:

• An Academic Procession at 9:45 a.m., beginning in the plaza of the Christopher Cohan Center. Honored guests, including representatives of colleges and universities across the country, and Cal Poly alumni representing their classes will march clockwise with Cal Poly faculty, student leaders and university officials. The route will lead through campus to Dexter Lawn.

• A Convocation at 10:30 a.m. on Dexter Lawn. David Baltimore, president of the California Institute of Technology, and winner of a Nobel Prize for his work in biology, will deliver the convocation keynote address. Also during the convocation, Baltimore, Colwell and Slaughter will receive honorary doctorates.

After the convocation, the Mustang Band will lead a "parade" from Dexter Lawn to the Sports Complex for a picnic and afternoon festivities:

The All-University Picnic, noon-3:30 p.m., featuring live music, a chicken barbecue, entertainment and games. Faculty and staff members are encouraged to dress casually so that they can participate in such outdoor activities as a "townhall" tournament, a dunk tank, Frisbee golf, hay rides, jousting, grass volleyball and a tug-of-war. A 100-foot cake in honor of Cal Poly's 100 years will be served.

Some special features— including free College of Agriculture ice cream, cheese, homemade bread, wines, a parade, with the Mustang Band, a host of games, and a shuttle service— have been added to the festivities.

The campus shuttle service, including the Morro Bay trolley, will run on Friday to take people to and from the Sports Complex, one of many of that day's festivities. The shuttle will circle Perimeter Road continuously from noon to 4 p.m., stopping at 10 stops along the way. The stop will be clearly marked and easy to find.

An exhibition bowling game will be played from 2:30-3:30 p.m. Pepsi, peanuts and popcorn will be served.

The Ernie Ball Co. of San Luis Obispo is donating a traveling stage and will provide some of the entertainment.

To stay posted on events or to register to attend the workshop in preparation for the audition, visit the Centennial Web site at http://www.centennial.calpoly.edu. For more information, call Polly Harrigan, ext. 6-6553.

Folk festival favorites to focus of Oct. 5

Volunteers sought for 'Make A Difference Day'
Anyone who can paint, plant or play is invited to be part of the 10th annual "Make A Difference Day" Oct. 27.

The event brings together Cal Poly students and community members for four hours of volunteer activities designed to benefit individuals and San Luis Obispo County nonprofit organizations. Make A Difference Day is part of a student collaboration with groups from Student Life and Leadership, Cal Poly’s Center for Community Volunteerism and the Student Community Services office.

ASi and Women’s Center, as well as such local groups as United Way of San Luis Obispo, the San Luis Obispo City Police

To Cal Poly Faculty, Staff and Students:
The beginning of each academic year is typically a time of excitement and joy. New relationships are forged, existing ones are strengthened and the entire campus community experiences renewal and growth.

Whatever happiness occurs during this first week of classes and in the ensuing days to come, however, is sure to be tempered by the great sadness occasioned by the tragic events we all witnessed on Sept. 11.

While the attacks on the East Coast left all of us stunned and saddened beyond words, we are uniting as never before and coming together in myriad ways to reclaim and rebuild. In this time of great national sorrow, it is uplifting to see so many people coming to the aid of their fellow Americans.

I am particularly proud of the manner in which many members of the Cal Poly community have worked to ease the pain and burdens of those people who have been directly affected by the tragic events in New York, Washington, D.C., and Pennsylvania. It has long been a hallmark of our nation and our local community that we come together: in the face of adversity, we resist the temptation to turn on one another in our hours of greatest need. These past few days have been no different.

As we go forward in these troubling and uncertain times, we must continue to support one another. Counseling Services and the Employee Assistance Program are available for members of the campus community who encounter difficulty dealing with these circumstances. Both are located in the Student Health Center adjacent to the Recreation Center. The Health Center phone number is ext. 6-2511.

It is vital, at times like this, that we not succumb to the fear and hatred the acts of terror were intended to provoke. Instead we must steadfastly affirm the fellowship and community of all Americans. We must remember ourselves that we are a diverse nation, with people from all corners of the globe, we remain one country, dedicated to the idea of freedom and the rule of reason and law.

We must also affirm our respect and appreciation for the great variety that characterizes the human condition around the world for the differences in ethnic heritage, in faith and in philosophy. And we must resist the impulse to blame these terrible acts on any group, simply because of their ethnicity or beliefs. We must reject hate and maintain our unwavering commitment to the pursuit of mutual understanding, trust and fellowship.

Universities have a special responsibility and obligation to assert and defend the value of civil and reasoned discourse. As we have seen time and time again, it is ultimately the only path to a just and enduring social order. Cal Poly this year marks its 100th year of service to the people of the State of California. We are committed to preserving this institution as a bastion of reason, knowledge and enlightened discourse. The careful protection of these values offers our best hope for a future in which all peoples around the world can live and work together in peace and harmony.

Discrimination, harassment and intimidation of any individual on the basis of their ethnic or religious background are contrary to the values and policies of the university and will not be tolerated.

If we are to honor the memories of those who have been lost, and if we are to learn anything from these tragic events, then we must reaffirm the inherent value and dignity of every human life. I ask you to join me in these efforts.

Sincerely,
Warren J. Baker, President

ODC/San Francisco to perform modern dance

The ODC/San Francisco dance company, acclaimed for its energetic and highly physical choreography, will perform at 8 p.m. Oct. 6 in the Theatre.

Known for its unique style combining the grace of ballet with modern dance, ODC/San Francisco was voted Best Local Dance Company 2001 by the Bay Guardian.

A review in the San Francisco Examiner declared, “ODC has become one of the few thriving modern dance compa­nies anywhere.” In its 30-year history, the group of 16 dancers, musicians, artists, choreogra­phers and composers has maintained an active worldwide touring schedule and built a dance school, a children’s com­pany and its own facility.

Tickets to the Cal Poly Arts perfor­mance are $24 to $28, with student discounts available.

Keenlity Library unveils new 'PolyCAT' system
The Kennedy Library has upgraded its library management system from a text- to Web-based environment, resulting in "substantial improvements to the look, feel and services that are available through PolyCAT, the library's online catalog," said Librarian Assistant Dean Nivjot Brar.

Among the improvements are faster searching and retrieval time as well as more powerful keyword searching capabilities. PolyCAT also supports an unlimited number of users at one time. From the "My PolyCAT" page, users will be able to:
- Choose either e-mail or regular mail as the format by which circulation notices are sent;
- Update the e-mail address to which library notices and Interlibrary Loan documents are sent;
- Sort checked-out items;
- Renew online with one click all eligible items checked out;
- Build, save, modify and add to preferred searches and be notified weekly by e-mail of new arrivals;
- Submit titles for library acquisitions and be notified by e-mail when books arrive;
- Make Interlibrary Loan requests without re-entering personal information with each request, and check the status of such requests;
- Check the status of circulation holds and - requests.

To link to My PolyCAT from the PolyCAT home page, go to http://polycat.calpoly.edu. Users will be prompted to log into My PolyCAT with their PolyCard.

Beginning this fall, the library will offer "E-Reserves," a service for faculty course materials. E-Reserves includes scanning course materials converting them into graphic-image files, and inserting into PolyCAT. E-Reserves will be available via PolyCAT to students, faculty and staff members only. E-Reserves materials may be viewed, printed or downloaded from any computer with a Web browser such as Netscape or Internet Explorer. Students need only sign in to retrieve material online. The library will provide the following on E-Reserves:
- Traditional course materials that include fully searchable articles, homework.

Anne Murray to perform
Multi-Grammy winner Anne Murray will perform her hit songs at 7 p.m. Sunday (Sept. 30) in Harman Hall at the Christopher Cohen Center. Her career spans more than three decades. She has produced 31 albums that include such songs as "Could I Have This Dance? ", "Danny's Song," "Love Song," and her classic debut hit, "Snowbird.

In addition to her four Grammy awards, she has won three American Music Awards, three Country Music Association Awards, and 31 Juno Awards from her native Canada. Orchesis Dance workshop, auditions scheduled

Faculty members are asked to let their students know that a workshop and auditions for the 32nd annual Orchesis Dance Co. concert will be held this week.

The workshop is at 6:10 p.m. today (Sept. 26), and the audition will be 6:10 p.m. Thursday (Sept. 27).

The workshop and auditions will be in the Mooe Ja Miss Suhr Dance Studio in Cramall Gym, across from Mustang Stadium. Interested students are requested to attend the workshop in preparation for the audition.

The Orchesis Dance Co. has selected "Signatures in Dance" as its theme for 2002. Performances will be Feb. 1-3 and 7-9 in the Cohan Center.

Maria Junco of the Theatre and Dance department will direct the concert. For information call her at ext. 6-1248 or ext. 6-1465.

Critical thinking to be focus of Oct. 12 workshops

Craig Nelson, professor of biology and public and environmental affairs at Indiana University, will lead half-day workshops on "Fostering Critical Thinking Across Disciplines" on Oct. 12.

The morning workshop will be 8:30 a.m.-noon; the afternoon session will be 1-4:30 p.m.

Nelson, an internationally known speaker who has presented workshops and papers on fostering critical thinking and diversity in the college classroom at numerous national meetings and at institutions across the country and in Canada, England, Ireland and Puerto Rico.

He has served on the editorial boards of the Journal for Excellence in College Teaching and Inquiry. Critical Thinking Across the Disciplines, and was a consulting editor for College Teaching.

Nelson, a Carnegie Scholar for 2000-2001, has earned several awards for distinguished teaching from Indiana, Vanderbilt and Northwestern universities. The workshops are sponsored by the College of Agriculture and are open to all faculty members. Registration for faculty members outside the College of Agriculture opens Oct. 1. For more information and to register, e-mail Leanne Berning in the Dairy Science Department at berning@calpoly.edu.

Founders Celebration to be Thursday, Friday

Occidental College, Cal Poly President Baker will serve as moderator.

The remaining festivities will take place on Friday. They include:

• An Academic Procurement at 9:45 a.m., beginning in the plaza of the Christopher Cohan Center. Honored guests, including representatives of colleges and universities across the country, and Cal Poly alumni representing their classes will march clang with Cal Poly faculty, student leaders and university officials. The route will lead through campus to Dexter Lawn.

• A Convocation at 10:30 a.m. on Dexter Lawn. David Baltimore, president of Rockefeller University, and a Nobel Prize for his work in biology, will deliver the convocation keynote address. Also during the convocation, Baltimore, Colwell and Slaugher will receive honorary doctorates.

After the convocation, the Mustang Band will lead a parade from Dexter Lawn to the Sports Complex for a picnic and afternoon festivities.

• The All-University Picnic, noon-3:30 p.m., featuring live music, a chicken barbecue, entertainment and games. Faculty and staff members are encouraged to dress casually so that they can participate in such outdoor activities as a "townball" tournament, a dunk tank, Frisbee golf, bay rides, jousting, grass volleyball and a tug-of-war. A 100-foot cake in honor of Cal Poly's 100 years will be served.

Some special features include:

• Free Campus of Agriculture ice cream, cheese, nuts and popcorn will be served.

This year's Founders Celebration has been named in honor of Dr. Paul A. Cohan, long-time professor of chemistry. Dr. Cohan will be presented with the Christopher Cohan Excellence in Teaching Award tonight at 6 p.m. in Harman Hall.

Cohan, a chemistry professor for 35 years, will be presented with the award for his contribution to both the College of Science and the College of Agriculture.

The shuttle will circle Perimeter Road around the campus, giving students and visitors a chance to view the centennial banners and the "I was there" banners spread throughout the College of Agriculture. Passengers will be able to arrive at the center of the festivities at 6:10 p.m., then board the shuttle to view the banners.

The shuttle will then circulate the campus to the Founders Picnic, located in the College of Agriculture. The shuttle will stop at the Founders Picnic at 8 p.m. and then return to the starting point at the Christopher Cohan Center.

The shuttle will circle the campus approximately every 30 minutes.

Cohan, a 1942 graduate of Cal Poly, received an honorary degree in 1995 from the College of Science.

The Cohan family has been long-time supporters of Cal Poly, with Dr. Cohan and his wife, Clara, subscribing to the Cal Poly Report for many decades. Dr. Cohan and Clara Cohan were active members of the Cal Poly alumni association.

The Cohan family was among the first to be approached by the newly created College of Science, which was formed in 1991.

The Founders Picnic begins at 8 p.m. and will feature food and free admission to the Cohan Center. Music is provided by the Occidental College band, and a number of speakers will be on hand to celebrate the occasion.

Information to be mailed to ext. 6-6553.

'Dpseudo' photograph

A 'pseudo photograph within animation space,' a work by Art and Design Professor Eric Johnson titled 'Generations: Wheelchair Site with Pegasus Ascending 2001.' This work is inspired by my long-term work with hypothetical archaeological sites. Here I have fabricated a site with various unexplored clues but with references to my mother, who is in a wheelchair, and my 7-year-old daughter, Gillian. I am the generation between.

Applications being accepted for London Study Program

The London Study Program is accepting faculty applications for teaching in London either in fall 2002 or spring 2003. A committee will screen candidates for both sessions this fall.

The primary emphasis in the selection process will be to choose faculty members who offer courses needed by participating students. Final selection will be determined chiefly by student course selection because, while faculty development is an important element of London Study, the program is driven by the curricular needs of the students.

The stipend is intended to encourage participation by faculty members who have previously not applied because they considered the cost of living in London prohibitive.

Although the curricular emphasis is primarily on general education courses in the humanities, arts and social sciences, the program encourages and supports participation by teachers in professional areas also.

To date, about one-fourth of the London faculty members have come from colleges outside Liberal Arts.

Cal Poly's London campus in the spring is in the academic heart of the Bloomsbury district, within two blocks of the British Museum. In the fall, the program is in the Kensington district.

Applications have been sent to all college deans and are also available from Miriam Rabban, program coordinator in the International Education and Programs office, Math and Science 145.
