Donation will reward community service in Recreation Administration Program

A regional investment firm and a 2002 graduate of the Recreation Administration Program have established an annual $2,000 donation to support student involvement and leadership in local community service.

Beginning this fall, the San Luis Obispo office of Round Hill Securities Inc. and Stacey Stanek, the group’s marketing director, will make a $1,000 award twice a year to recognize recreation, parks and tourism students who have made outstanding contributions to community service and leadership.

The donation will also be used to support senior projects and potential community service-related internships and other activities.

“This generous donation will encourage our students to contribute to the development of our local communities through recreation, parks and tourism services within the nonprofit, public and private sectors,” said Associate Professor Bill Hendricks, recreation administration coordinator. “It is expected that the award will recognize and assist students involved with special events, at-risk youth, seniors, tourism planning and protection of natural resources and open space.”

Committees seek members

State, Foundation and ASI permanent or probationary staff members are needed to fill vacancies on campuswide standing committees and the Cal Poly Plan Steering Committee. Most appointments are for 2002-2003, unless otherwise noted. The number of vacancies is indicated in parenthesis.

Reading program begins for new students

Cal Poly has established a new reading program for selected incoming students. The program, dubbed Preface, “aims to enrich the academic life of the university across all disciplines and provide students with a common intellectual experience,” according to program coordinator Patricia Ponce of Extended Studies.

“We believe that Preface will help new students develop a sense of community with their campus colleagues, whether they’re in ag business, engineering, history or English,” Ponce said.

The summer reading program will commence this year with a pilot project targeting students in the university’s Honors Program, a program that is designed for academically motivated students.

“Our goal is eventually to encompass all incoming freshmen, along with the larger faculty, staff and off-campus community,” Ponce said.

“The students, and anyone else interested in participating, will read the book selection over the summer and then get together in small groups at the beginning of fall quarter to discuss it. We also plan to host other activities in conjunction with the program, such as movie screenings and a guest lecture series.”

Summer reading . . .

This summer the students will read Tim O’Brien’s "The Things They Carried," a highly acclaimed collection of stories about the Vietnam War.

"We made a special effort this year to choose a book written by a contemporary author who could come to campus," Ponce said. O’Brien will be on campus Oct. 18 to give a talk on the book and meet with Preface participants.

Ponce encourages anyone interested to read "The Things They Carried" and take part in the discussion.

For more information call Ponce at ext. 6-5932 or the Honors Program at ext. 6-7029.

Peachy fruit tasting event set for July 13

The College of Agriculture will host a fruit tasting 1-5 p.m. July 13 in Room 100 in the Erhart Agriculture Building. More than 25 different varieties of fruit will be available to taste, including the weeping Santa Rosa plum, whitelady peach, mericrest nectarine, flavor queen plum (a cross between a plum and an apricot) and the Arctic Jay White nectarine.

The event is free and open to the public. It is sponsored in conjunction with the Dave Wilson Nursery of Reedley and Hickman. For more information, call Joe Sabol in the College of Agriculture at ext. 6-7225.

Correction

In the list of faculty members who received promotion and tenure that appeared in the June 19 issue of The Cal Poly Report Digest and the online version, David Headrick, Horticulture and Crop Science, was inadvertently left off. Headrick was awarded tenure. In addition, John Thompson of the Modern Languages and Literatures Department was listed as Jay Thompson.

Leave solicitations

David Deering, a custodian in Facilities Services, and Carol LaRiviere, administrative support coordinator in Theatre and Dance, have qualified for personal catastrophic leave.

Eligible state employees may donate vacation credit and sick leave to help them remain in full-pay status during an extended absence.

Those interested in donating leave for Deering may request a Catastrophic Leave Donation form from solicitation coordinator Edie Griffin-Shaw in Facility Services at ext. 6-5220 or by e-mail.

To donate time to LaRiviere, contact Carson Crain in the College of Liberal Arts Dean’s Office at ext. 6-5755.

CSEA employees in units 2, 5, 7 and 9, Unit 4 (academic professionals), E99 (excluded), C99 (confidential), M80 (management personnel plan) and M98 (executive) may donate up to 32 hours total. All other state employees may donate up to 16 hours sick leave and/or vacation credits per fiscal year in increments of one hour or more.
