Help Underprivileged Help Themselves; Peace Corps

By MIKE CASSIT

In a remote, hilly woods about somewho deep in the heart of South-East Asia, people are starving. In central India millions are both poverty stricken and illiterate. Confronted with such a battle against human ignorance and poverty administration introduced a solution over two months ago. The solution would include thousands of college students who would advance such causes as international peace by helping underdeveloped nations by silencing suffering through the power of education, and to eliminate poverty and illiteracy.

This week, two months after the founding of the Peace Corps, nearly 50,000 applications will be received by the Peace Corps headquarters in Washington, D.C. This is the peace movement that has been predicted by many.

The Peace Corps is the U.S. attempt to end the cold war.

Poly Royal Brochure?

Editor’s Note: The gray print and black type during the winter months created a gray-and-black mass of nothingness, if the public is to decide upon coming to Poly Royal based upon this brochure, we will be unable to get the public’s cooperation. We made a few suggestions to Mr. Mort Lininger, Poly Royal chairman, Thursday, April 8th, with prizes awarded by Ann Miller, Poly Royal Queen.
