SC Presidents to Meet
On Campus This Week

Presidents and instructional directors of the California State Colleges and Colleges and 17 campuses will gather on campus tomorrow morning for an informal meeting in conjunction with the monthly meeting of the State Board of Trustees. The leading educators will discuss long-range curriculum planning for all state colleges, with particular emphasis on each college’s aim.

VIEWPOINT

Speed and Jackasses

This is not to condemn all students in campus who drive cars but there is a growing minority who belong in confinement or Siberia. I happen to live close by the miles and almost every day I witness near accidents, careless driving that endangers pedestrians and some specific cases that should result in arrests.

One day recently I stood on a curb near the tennis courts and watched a student turn off Melby into Hathaway at an excessive speed and take the corner on two wheels. Otiosely a deep trough in the median street was crossed and the car almost turned turtle. A few weeks later another car turned a double bend on Hathaway and narrowly missed striking a small child who happened to be my son. One night another staff member was nearly struck at the Health Center intersection and recognized the driver as a student in his class. Then what grade that student received.

Most Cal Poly students are good citizens, many of them extremely responsible and neither campus streets nor outer motor drive are their personal race ways.

Foreign Students

Editor:

It is an old belief in Pasadena, my country, that in the new year we should forget any bad feelings and try to develop true friendship in the society to which we live.

Americans, I believe, have the tendency to forget this. They do it every year at Christmas.

Toward the end of the year, I would like to explain my feelings on the behavior of Cal Poly students towards foreign students.

It may make for a better relationship between the two.

Before I came to America, I was impressed by a picture that showed the friendly relationships between Americans and foreign students on many campuses. The film was educational, and it did not seem as though it was put out for propaganda purposes. (continued on page four) tracks should be approached one way or another and punished, since engineers will tell you that a speeding car is as lethal as a loaded gun.

Sellers to the editor won’t stop these jackasses but maybe a settlement will.

In the matter the public is struck down and killed.

AIA Group To Hear
Top Design Artist

Martin J. Clamp, national award-winning architect, will speak to the Cal Poly student chapter of the American Institute of Architects, January 20 at 8 p.m. in the Agriculture Engineering building, room 110. The presentation is open to the public.

Clamp has won many honors and awards in the past five years for his City by Bay and Sonata architecture.

A first national honor award and the committtee award of honor from the Architectural League of New York.

Living in San Francisco, Clamp is chairman of the architectural advisory panel to the S. F. Redevelopment Agency. He has been commissioned to evaluate a $18 million cultural center on the University of Hawaii campus; the 580 million Queen Emma Redevelopment project for Honolulu, and to prepare a master plan for the University of Alaska.

Educated at Harvard’s School of Architecture, he is noted for promotion of art in design of public buildings and has received recognition by several national architectural publications.

Schwartzott Wins Bravos

By JULIE DRURY

Cal Poly’s music department has taken a giant step toward a foundation, Thursday night in the Little Theater the faculty brought Wilhelm Schauraott’s performance of the Beethoven Piano Concerto No. 1 in F minor, Opus 56, to the campus.

The program included a variety of music to suit all tastes. The 19-year-old sonata in F minor, Opus 57, is divided into three parts. The Allegro and the Allegro, ma non troppo, Presto, are violent, heavy pieces. Between them is set the Andante con maesta, a prayerful interlude which unites the violent beginning and end.

Schauraott’s interpretation of the Chopin scherzo and the Schenck’s interpretation of J. Staff’s melody is particularly well executed.

The Gregori strings also delighted the audience and followed the complete mastery over Schonberg’s and Schoof’s compositions with much interest.

A ‘Don’t Miss’ Speech

On Friday, Buell G. Gallagher, Chancellor of the California State colleges who is also head of the State Board of Trusteess, will speak to students and staff at a Chancellor’s Convocation in the Men’s Gym.

The Board of Trustees, who will meet here this week with the presidents of the 16 state colleges, took over the administration of the schools from the State Board of Trustees on January 1, 1961. This meeting will mark the first time the group has met on this campus.

Gallagher, who will speak at 10 a.m. on Friday is a controversial figure and is outspoken in many areas. Of late he has been under attack by extreme rightist groups for his stands on Communism, something he says he has fought against for nearly 80 years.

Recently quoted by the Orange County State college “Titan Times,” Gallagher referred to the new anti-Communist groups as being “like arm chair generals who order their barrage lowered on their own front line troops. And those of us who have been in advanced fox holes for some time may be punished a slight degree of irritation at the pompous self-righteousness with which these isomancers puff and puff and posture pug.”

College President Julian A. McPhie has announced that all classes will be excused and all campus offices and activities closed so that everyone will have the opportunity of hearing Gallagher’s speech.

We feel that it will be the advantage of every student to hear his speech. Gallagher should be interesting, informative and entertaining.

A student who does not know how his school is run, or who is running it is not well informed.

Let’s keep the above statement in mind. We can all gain by hearing Gallagher’s speech.

Engineer Instructor From East Berlin

Though the titles and tribulations involved in the work to be undertaken by Cal Poly, this isn’t true for Gerhard Heine, Industrial Engineering instructor.

Heine was born, reared, and educated in Berlin and worked as an engineer until coming to this country. He has degrees from West Berlin and received his technical engineering education at the institution in that city. He arrived in the U.S. Heine worked outside the engineering profession while brushing up on the English language.

The latter part of his 10-year-engineering experience in this country, was spent in the machine design field. His latest assignment was in manufacturing research and development in this country, he lived in St. Louis for a time and worked for an engineering company.

This is Heine’s first teaching assignment, he says, he is Colorado on Mechanical Engineering, providing Engineering, Design, and Industrial engineering courses.

Heine is in Denver, very much in favor of the city. He enjoyed teaching Manufacturing Processes, Business and Design and Industrial engineering courses.

It is his first time to Germany while on vacation in 1950. He claims that the experience of individuals who have returned to Germany is that the city of Berlin had changed very little since 1947. It appeared gray, like I remembered it in the past.

West Berlin, however, had many new buildings and many more cars.

MILITARY BAND FEST. 3

Cagers Divide Pair Away From Home; Fall to Aztecs, Take 49ers

After losing to San Diego Friday, the Poly cagers came back Saturday to take an 81-65 decision over the league leading Poly Mustangs of Long Beach. Following a close first half, the Mustangs fell behind in Friday’s game to let the San Diego Aztecs take it 86-46. Forward Ken Anderson drew three fouls early in the game, giving the Aztecs an advantage when coach Ed Jorgenson was forced to replace him with Lawson Maddox.

On Saturday, coach Ed Jorgen­son put the Aztecs ahead momentarily by the start of the third quarter only to relinquish it to the San Diego boys who stayed at least four point ahead for the rest of the game. Although the Aztecs was the leader team, they capitalised on Poly’s early fouls and controlled the rebounds throughout the game. "I was very grateful to see them play as a team. They played extremely well and in a team effort, I consider this one of the most outstanding games I have seen all year."

Poly’s Rudy Rounseville once again proved his ability by netting 17 to take top scoring honors for Poly. Guard Rob Horwath chipped in 15. Maddox snagged six, and Weg­manns and Waxman five.

For the Aztecs, forwards Ron and Sarnie handled with 18 apiece, while guard Steve Coghers added 16.

On Saturday, coach Ed Jorgen­son was pleasantly surprised when his Mustangs felt the flier in victory after defeating the league leading Long Beach Poly Niners 81-65.

Without once losing the lead, the Mustangs proved themselves superior by controlling the ball and the triangle throughout the entire game. "I was very grateful to see them play as a team. They played extremely well and in a team effort," Jorgen­son added.

The Mustang’s Bob Horwath netted 20, and Poly’s lost balls and controlled the ball. Thirty-one of 56 Poly’s shots were scored from the charity line hitting 10 out of 15 attempted free throws.

Globetrotters To Play Here Jan. 23

Coming soon on the agenda of sports events will be the world famous Harlem Globetrotters, who will appear at the same date and time.

Appearing with the Globetrotters will be some of their all-time great funny man and ball handlers. Headlining the shows, the Trotter’s chief comic, will do everything with the ball but swallow it. Lon­don is now in his seventh year as their "Chief Prince."

One of London’s talented com­rades in the famous "TV-2" Brom­nose, the Trotters’ dribbling wizard, who has astonished the basket­ball bouncing act.

The Globetrotters have a record of 57 victories against only 21 defeats. They have played in 22 years and the Trotters have been still strictly for laughs. Organized in Chicago’s south side 22 years ago, there is little differences between the Trotters of then and the team today. Ball and humor continues to dominate to demonstrate a seldom seen ball-bouncing act.

ROUNSEVILLE TOPS

Rudy Rounseville, key Mustang, is currently ranking 11th in the Pac. Dec as he chases 118 points per game. Rudy has hit 81 field goals in 185 attempts. Rudy’s best game with 17.5 points, which he recorded in a closely line hitting 8 out of 10 attempts.

If anyone wishes to make an "easy five books," all he has to do is solve the Math Club's "Brain Teaser," which will be presented at their meeting on Jan. 28 in Aud. B100, at 7:15 p.m.

With the first meeting on Thurs., Jan. 18, the new Bridge Club will be on its way to what is hoped to be one of the most successful clubs on campus. Starting out with the bridge club's inter-collegiate bridge tournament.

Cal Poly's president, Dr. Julian A. McPhae, will speak at the Rally Committee banquet, January 18, at 8 p.m., at the Elks Club.

Rally Club is campaigning for students to wear white while sitting in the rooster section during games.

Matt Ela Pi, the printing club, will present at the Santa Maria Inn, 1:30 p.m. on January 19, to observe.

Foreign Students Take Folkdancing

San Luis Obispo folk dance enthusiasts, directed by Ray Hesse, custodial department head, are using Creafull Gym each Sunday from 8:30 p.m. to teach international students American folk dances. In order to take American interpretive culture back home with them, each Indian student asked for an instructor to teach them some of the American round and folk dances, Hesse says.

The present dance class is small, but the Engineering council and Engineering activities advisor, are interested in getting the group. Information may be obtained from Mrs. Arlene Voelkon, activities advisor, or Ray Hesse.

If you haven't seen "It's a Wonderful Life," which will be presented Jan. 18 in TCU, the new Bridge Club should be one of the most successful clubs on campus. Starting out with the bridge club's inter-collegiate bridge tournament.
