Four masters to play in Guitar Summit

A Guitar Summit featuring four distinct styles of playing — from jazz and steel-string to classical and flamenco — will be performed by four master musicians at 8 pm Tuesday, March 1, in the Church of the Nazarene in Pismo Beach.

The concert is part of Cal Poly Arts' Great Performances Series. The performers include:

- Joe Pass, an acclaimed modern jazz guitarist and a perennial winner of Down Beat magazine's jazz polls. He started playing at the age of nine and now challenges compositions by Charlie Parker, Coleman Hawkins and Horace Silver, capturing their original spirit and recasting each tune with new eloquence and verve.
- Leo Kottke, who has performed for 20 years and recorded 31 albums. He is known as one of the most innovative acoustic guitarists of all time. Although he taught himself to play the guitar, his style is so distinct that schools such as the Wisconsin Conservatory of Music offer courses in the Kottke style of guitar playing.
- Pepe Romero, the latest of Spain's "Royal Family of Guitar." He is celebrated worldwide for his interpretations of the classics and his flawless technique. He has played a whirlwind schedule of engagements around the globe, including highly acclaimed tours in Europe and Japan.
- Paco Pena, who first played professionally at age 12 and is now one of the great flamenco guitarists. He was awarded Spain's celebrated Ramon Montoya prize and appointed professor of flamenco at Rotterdam Conservatory.

Tickets are $20, $25, and $30 for the public and $15, $20, and $25 for students and senior citizens. For reservations, call the Anytime ArtsLine at ext. 1421 or buy tickets at the Theatre Ticket Office.

Gender discrimination topic of Feb. 7 talk

"Consumer Issues in Gender Discrimination" is the topic of the next Women's Studies Lunch-Time Seminar at noon Monday, Feb. 7, in the Staff Dining Room.

Lynn Fisher of the home economics faculty will explore the fact that, while women continue to be the primary purchasers of goods and services for the home and in society, their power to choose and purchase is undermined daily.

Fisher will address such questions as:
- How much more do women pay for dry cleaning and cars?
- Does discrimination occur at the retail level only, or does the problem exist at the manufacturing level also?
- Do existing consumer rights protect consumers specifically against gender discrimination?
- What actions can we take to protect ourselves?

For more information, call the Women's Studies Program at ext. 1525 or stop by Room 25H in the Faculty Office Building.
