Capital Evaluation
Smothers Program
For New Structures

As of June 18, the Chancellor's office reported that a temporary freeze on capital expenditures including major construction and renovation projects had been put in place at Cal Poly. This decision was made by the P.E. department due to the financial situation.

The decision was made to put into effect the temporary freeze as of July 1, 2023. According to building coordinator Dr. Mott, this freeze will allow an opportunity for evaluation of capital projects.

The freeze means that no capital projects are to be put into action for the time being. This will allow for a freeze of all non-essential spending in the P.E. department.

No Retirement Plans
In View For McPhee

In answer to the letter signed "MUSTANG," inquiring if President McPhee had any plans to retire, Howard West, assistant to the president, announced that Dr. McPhee had no plans to retire at this time.

The letter also referred to President McPhee's appointment to U.C. Berkeley as a full-time professor, but West said that no change was anticipated in the present schedule and that no plans had been made for retirement.

P.E. Confab Begins Soon

Physical education instructors from throughout the state will meet next week for the annual physical education workshop at the University of California, Los Angeles.

This workshop is being held under the sponsorship of the California State Committee for Non-Violent Action.

"Permission to what has been called, shotgunism, was not the main reason for our returning to the mainland," said Dr. Mott. "We were asked, but we had no regrets about it. We also received a radio message that told us not to make it to the island within two weeks."

The crew needed two weeks working in extra time to reach the island in time for the fall semester.

What Is Your Ideal Man Or Woman?

(Asked at Avila Beach)

Denny Barnes, Mech. Aq., Senior:

"My ideal man is someone who was raised on the farm, has a good education, and likes working. He is easy going and understanding. She likes to have a man make the decisions and keep her nose out of his business. I would like her to be a college graduate but she doesn't have to work unless it's to help the family. She wouldn't have to be beautiful because looks are only skin deep. My ideal is Rosemary Clooney because she has good looks; not extremely gorgeous but honest looking and not all made up."

Cathy DeGanizia, Home Ec. Senior:

"My ideal man would be someone who was raised near the farm and understands the life. He has a good education and he should like working. He is physically appealing. I would like him to be taller than I but not because he would be someone he can lean on in a crisis. He should look at the world wide and in his eyes he is happy and can do his best. He doesn't need to look rich but in the best coming from a happy family and not been born President Kennedy is my ideal because he is tall, intelligent, devoted to his family, aware of everything and interested in a lot of things."

Nancy Gagliatimm, Ed Ed., Senior:

"My ideal girl is someone who is nice to me and who likes to have some fun and be with me as he is able to support me. She should have an enjoyable personality and she should not be similar to me. He should be physically appealing to me and his looks are only skin deep as his ways. My ideal would be from a large happy family so he will be to her family."

Gary Palkait, FM Junior:

"My ideal girl is someone who has a very good sense of humor and is easy going, she is definitely mentally cared for today's living. Her education and a college education would be a plus for her. Her family background is important. She should have a medium height so she is not too tall or short. She should have a medium family because she is devoured by her family. She is devoted to her family. Most Hollywood marriages don't last long and she appears to be very happy."

Sandy Jackson, Home Ed. Graduate:

"I haven't found my ideal man yet. He would be someone who has a personality. Personally, I like a secure, kind man who is able to converse, and likes to have fish. I don't want to be completely appealed with as she is able to support me. He should have a large family and be a graduate. My ideal education is the Paul Newman type. She wouldn't have to be rich but not poor."

David Vanek, IR Junior:

"My ideal woman is someone who would be somewhere good looking. She is fairly intelligent and has some sort of a hobby. She would not have to have a college education but must have a high personality and be optimistic, she would be 5 ft. 5 in. She wouldn't be a working girl. She should seem from a small family because small family girls seem to have more companionship and are not sure how to live with people as a gift from a large family."

Pilgrims To Seattle's Fair - Disagree On Worth Of Trip

Several students and staff members have returned from the World’s Fair in Seattle carrying with them critical remarks which vary in the foreign countries.

"Most of the foreign country exhibits are spectacular symbols of the "Canal Science Exhibit," General Motors was the attraction for nearly every visitor," said Spink. "...It's a wonderful experience and well worth It."

The biggest complaint was that they expect too much, enjoy the scenery outlying districts," said Spink. "...look forward to talking by delegates whenever we can."

Maybe you are one of the few who has some spare time during this hectic four-week session and doesn’t know what to do with it. If you do, there is no dearth of relaxation than reading a good book. As present the library has many new and interesting volumes.

If your interest lies in history, don’t overlook “Unconditional Surrender” by Anne Armstrong. Here is a book questioning the concept of “unconditional surrender” announed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt at the conclusion of the Casablanca conference in 1943 and adding it prolonged the Second World War. The book asks why the policy was a mistake. Was the famous international common sense and disintegration of the western powers possible for the failure of the plot? Is unconditional surrender advisable?

Another interesting book in the same area is “The Company” by Arnold Whitridge. The book tells the story of one of America’s all-time baseball greats. It describes the career of Satchel Paige, who was the last pitcher to play in the major leagues. He is best known for his ability to throw a fast pitch and his ability to outsmart the batters. The book gives a glimpse into the world of baseball and the struggles faced by African American players.

In sports area there is “The Story of Football” by Grantland Rice. The book tells the story of the first professional football game of American Football Association in 1920. It includes details about the history of the game, its evolution, and its impact on American culture.

A book about politics is “The closest man alive” of his time greats. The book tells the story of George Kennan. By eleventh, literarian and diplomat, who has a profound influence on American foreign policy. The book discusses his work as an ambassador to Russia and his role in the cold war.
