FIRST PRESIDENTIAL CONFERENCE

College Union, Boxing, Retirement Questions Answered By McPhee

By RENY KINMAN

A ughetative press must be responsible and must report accurately, fairly, and factually, if and how the budget in the College community. Under this principle, the Daily Press, under the able direction of President Schubert, has through the years developed the student-faculty publication, San Luis Obispo Junior Chandler, to an important source of information about student activities. The Daily Press has the responsibility of informing the student body of the various activities of the college community and in providing a means of communication between the student body and the administration.

The College Union, formerly known as the Student Union, was established in 1947 and started with a budget of $250. It was started with the purpose of providing a place for recreation, entertainment, and social activities for the students. The Union building was purchased with the money raised from a student referendum and the proceeds from a bond issue. The Union building was completed in 1950 and it has been in operation ever since.

TRIUMPH TO TAKE THE TIDE

By JIM McCLENDON

A milestone in the history of the California Polytechnic State University was marked yesterday when the campus was formally dedicated.

The dedication ceremony included speeches by President Schubert, the governor, and the mayor of San Luis Obispo. The ceremony was attended by over 2,000 people, including students, faculty, staff, and alumni.

The dedication of the college was a momentous occasion for the community. The college has been an important part of the community for over 50 years and has played a crucial role in the development of the area.

The college was founded in 1947 and has grown to become a major center for education and research in the region. The college has a diverse range of programs, including engineering, business, agriculture, and education.

The dedication ceremony was a fitting tribute to the achievements of the college and its community. The college has a bright future ahead and will continue to be a vital part of the community for many years to come.
Can't Please Everyone

After reading a newspaper article on the first annual convocation of the Department of Music at Cal Poly, I was reminded of a recent performance of a local opera company.

I have always admired the music of this company, and I have been impressed by their ability to present a variety of musical styles. However, I was disappointed by the recent performance of "Don Quixote," which I found to be uneven and unsatisfactory.

The opera was well sung, but the orchestra was not up to par. The conducting was too fast, and the ensemble work was not cohesive. I was especially disappointed by the performance of the principal singers, who lacked the necessary intensity and expression.

While I appreciate the effort of the company, I believe that they need to work on improving their overall performance. Perhaps with more time and resources, they could achieve a higher level of excellence.

In any case, I would encourage my colleagues in the music community to support this company and encourage them to continue their efforts to improve their performances.

ROTC Goes Scotch; Bagpiper Joins Band

By Ron Parker

Hiring and landing a bagpiper is usually quite a novelty. In this part of the country, it is becoming common place on campus because of Curtis Snow, Bagpiper. A Printing Management Sophomore, he has taken the nearly rare step of enlisting in the Military Science program. Curtis Croxton. He plays for the Student Involvement Committee and the National Council of Students. His band was featured in the recent Storytelling contest. He picked up the bagpipe playing in his home state of Pennsylvania and has never looked back on the instrument.

"Returning to California in 1941, Snow entered Cal Poly and began playing. Partially playing because of necessity to have his own money. While playing with the ROTC and the band, he learned to play 36 different tunes. Today he is considered the best bagpipe player on campus and is considered for the upcoming national band competition.

While traveling in Scotland, Snow learned the bagpipe and is now playing the instrument. The bagpipe is a traditional instrument that dates back to the Middle Ages and is often played in Scottish traditions.
