President approves senate actions

President Baker has approved recent actions by the Academic Senate. The Campus Administrative Manual (CAM) is now in compliance with the Unit 3 Memorandum of Understanding regarding promotion and tenure for librarians. Librarians are now included in CAM 342.2, Academic Promotions, which also includes criteria and procedures for evaluation of performance.

Librarians have also been included in the definitions for normal promotion and early promotion. In addition, CAM 344, Tenure for Academic Employees, has been amended to include librarians in the criteria and procedures for tenure.

Other Academic Senate actions awaiting action by President Baker include:

✓ The approval of a Senate bylaws amendment making the Research Committee an elected committee with the majority of the members being elected faculty.

✓ In an action affecting the operations of Academic Senate committees, the Senate approved a generic set of operating procedures for Academic Senate standing and ad hoc committees. These procedures will only apply to those committees that have not developed operating procedures. The intent is to help committees quickly function when membership or chairmanships change.

In another action, the Senate approved a resolution asking for Chancellor’s Office approval in allowing a portion of the minor capital outlay budget of the CSU campuses to be used for small capital outlay expenditures at the discretion of the campus. This proposal would permit the campus to make modifications of less than $5,000 without having to obtain prior approval from the CSU.

The most current action by the Senate was to recommend to President Baker the separation of the curriculum review process into two timetables. For the 1992-94 catalog cycle, program proposals would be submitted to the Academic Senate during the Fall 1989 and Winter 1990 quarters. Individual course changes would be submitted during the Fall 1990 and Winter 1991 quarters. The intent of this change is to allow more time for consideration of both program proposals and course changes.

The Senate also passed a resolution supporting the Humans Corps and endorsing the concept of service being a part of the learning experience at Cal Poly. This policy encourages service as a valid educational objective but does not mandate any action.

Veterinary medicine seminar to be held

Students considering a career in veterinary medicine will have the chance to learn about the field and how to prepare for it in a day-long seminar on Saturday, Feb. 25.

Veterinary Medicine Awareness Day will include talks by teachers from the UC Davis School of Veterinary Medicine, a panel discussion by current vet students, and a variety of other sessions.

For more information call the School of Science and Math, ext. 2226.

Student grants for community service

Grants of $500 will be provided to Cal Poly students who develop and implement projects designed to improve human services in the community.

The Community Service Awards Program, now in its third year, encourages students from all disciplines to contribute their time and talent to help meet pressing human and social needs in San Luis Obispo County.

The Service Awards Program funds students for readily discernible projects and not for staffing agencies. Projects are designed to be completed within approximately 100-150 hours.

Students are encouraged to develop projects that:

✓ Bring them into direct contact with the people they hope to serve;

✓ Provide specialized knowledge or skills that are not readily available to a sponsoring agency.

Past projects have included a land use survey of a low income housing area, a computerized alcohol services program, and a feasibility study for a local “big brother/sister” organization.

Applicants are also invited to develop projects that can be helpful to more than one organization. For example, a manual on fund raising or public relations that can be used by more than one group.

Only Cal Poly students can apply for the award. Applicants must have upper division or graduate standing and must have a GPA of at least 2.5.

Students who are interested but who do not have a project in mind are encouraged to see Sam Lutrin in UU 217.

The deadline for applications is March 13. Application forms are available from Lutrin. For more information, call her at ext. 2476.

Faculty/Staff Payday is March 1
Brunk death noted

Puppeteer Eric Bass to perform March 4

New York puppet artist Eric Bass will present his puppet characters in an evening performance of visual imagery on Saturday, March 4, in the Theatre.

Titled “Autumn Portraits,” the shows are scheduled at 7 and 9 pm.

Each solo puppet-and-mask performance is a one-act interplay of puppet characters with their manipulator, who may appear as a masked figure, or simply a voice from the sky.

The puppets are characters in the “autumn” of their existences. There is the New York-Irish entertainer, O’Neill, who walks on stage and, with remarkable dexterity, takes off his hat and bows to the audience, before singing in Al Jolson style. Then there is the wise old man, who ties himself into knots trying to repeat a trick the puppeteer has shown him. Most powerful of all is the old peasant woman telling parables and acting them out.

The puppets themselves use tiny masks, or transform their faces as they meet their pasts, their selves, their deaths.

Tickets for the performances $10 and $7 for the public and $9 and $6 for students and senior citizens.

Because of the nature of the event, only 250 tickets will be sold for each performance, rather than 500. As a result, early reservations are advised. To make reservations, call the Theatre Ticket Office, ext. 1421, between 10 am and 4 pm on weekdays.
