Publicity Workshop Held

Students representing various organizations had the opportunity to become acquainted with new student body offices and to participate in a workshop sponsored by Cal Poly Student Union.

Representatives from both organizations and administrative offices attended the workshop. They were given an overview of the various activities of the student organization and the work of the University.

The first half of the workshop was a lecture that covered the workings of the student organization, the University, and the various student groups. The second half of the workshop was a hands-on session where students had the opportunity to participate in activities and workshops.

The workshop was well-received by the students, who found it informative and helpful. They were given the opportunity to ask questions and receive answers from the representatives.

The workshop was part of a series of events that the University is planning to hold in order to improve communication between the student body and the University administration.

Parking Tickets?

Nothing brings together volunteering efforts like parking tickets. Long lines, long queues, and even long lines of cars. Robert Bykoch, graduate student in engineering, explained that there are several reasons why parking in Cal Poly is such a challenge. The first reason is the lack of adequate parking facilities. The second reason is the heavy demand for parking, which is due to the high population of students and faculty. The third reason is the city's parking regulations, which limit the number of parking spaces available.
