Johnson Takes Early Lead; Record Vote Expected

President Lyndon B. Johnson took an early lead over Senator Barry M. Goldwater this morning. The first returns reported from El Dorado Springs, N. H., and Woodstock, Va., and Point Arches, Mass., showed President Johnson leading by 18 to 1.

There have been reports of heavy voting in all sections of the nation. Particularly heavy voting has been reported in such cities as Chicago, Los Angeles, and New York.

President Johnson and his wife, Lady Bird, voted at the 8 a.m. EST in their home precinct near the LBJ Ranch at Johnson City, Tex. Mrs. Johnson voted at 11 a.m. EST at the polling place near his home. Then, in her gold, red, and white suit, she voted for "closing around the house" at an election returns.

A forecast of generally closer votes around the nation is expected to bring in a record 70 million votes in today's election. Most polls predict President Johnson will win by a landslide, but Senator Goldwater's supporters are counting on an unusually large number of abstentions.

Also of note in today's election are 25 gubernatorial polls, 30 seats in the Senate and all 435 seats in the House of Representatives. The Democratic win is 113, Republican socialists are 203, Independent candidates have won 10. Alliances and other candidates have 12 seats. The Democratic vote is about 12 million, the Republican socialists about 10 million. The rest are for Independent candidates.

Mrs. Johnson showed her woman's investigative by listing the names of 100 men and women who will vote later today in a one-room township hall near her home in the Together area. She indicated that her vote would be for President Johnson.

Democratic Vice Presidential candidate Senator Humphrey was later in today in a one-room township hall near her home in the Together area. She indicated that her vote would be for President Johnson.
Genetics Experiment Sexes Chickens at Birth

By GEORGE MILLER

The Biological Science and Physiological Department is currently developing a project concerning the sexing of chickens at birth by the use of a new method.

The use of these chicks cannot be determined accurately by present methods, although a few researchers have used a method to identify sex in chickens, particularly in poultry. The method involves the use of an enzyme that produces a reaction specific to the sex of the chicken.

The enzyme is produced by a bacterium that is introduced into the egg after fertilization. The enzyme reacts with a specific substance in the egg, producing a reaction that is characteristic of the sex of the chicken. The reaction is then detected by a simple test, allowing the sex of the chick to be determined accurately at birth.

When more information is available, a further discussion of this new method of sexing chicks will be made with the research community. It is hoped that this method will be useful in the breeding of chickens for specific purposes, such as egg production or meat production.
Biologists Nurse Abalone In Fishy Experiments

Mustang Basketball Squad Preparing For Opener

Quickly, the Mustangs' junior basketball team turned out to impress. The coach, relying on his three returning seniors, faced a daunting task: replacing the graduates of the previous season. This year, the seniors were Ernie Bray and 6'5" forward Norm Angell.

The Mustangs have only three returning players from last year, but by the end of the season, they will have added several new faces. Behind the leadership of junior guard Tim Higgins, the team is looking to make a name for itself.
