graduate manager position, and equally several offices. However, in this case the SAC had been reduced to one office.

Why restrict?

Editor:

"In human societies there is no reason whatever why the speciality should not retain the capaciyou as a generalist... education is by a broad nequity to function as a generalist, no matter how deeply he chooses one of the clearest dangers in and men will lose the experience of participating in meaningful decisions covering their own life and work, that they will become cogs in the machine because they FEEL LIKE cogs in the machine. All too often today they are inert components of the group, not participating in any significant way but simply being carried along like grains of sand

in a bucket."

This section, taken from an article entitled Self Renewal:

the Individual and the Invasive

Society, by John Gardner, explores a principal reason for stimulating liberal arts studies.

As another writer puts it,

"Specialized or technical train-ning prepares an individual for his first job but not for the decisions he must make as a free man or for the changes in careers

he must make as a free man during his lifetime. Liberal education, because it is the best preparation for those who live in a changing world."

From an editorial by Paul Wooding,

Education Editor, Saturday Review, April 1, 1967.

What are we at Cal Poly trying to do? To meet the needs not only for social, scientific, and technical achievements, but for the arts as well as for human values and issues of the day.

Mental health careers program set for June

A 10-week summer workshop program designed to interest college students in mental health careers will begin in June. Participating are 10 California state hospitals, University of the Pacific, Stockton and San Diego State College. The program is sponsored by the Western Mental Health Training and Research Project of the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education. April 10 is the deadline for applications, which should be made to either UOP at Stockton or San Diego State College, depending on which a student wishes to attend.

Any student with a good academic record in a western college or university who would like to explore career possibilities in mental health, or gain a better understanding of activities in mental health fields is eligible. Students must have completed at least their sophomore year by the time the program starts.

The opening and closing weeks will be spent in regular academic summer sessions at the colleges. The eight intervening weeks will be spent on job assignments in hospital wards, occupational therapy and recreation programs, and in social service, psychopharmacology and special school programs, and under staff supervision. Academic work will continue with reading assignments, conferences, seminars, and study projects. Efforts will be made to give students varied experiences and insights. College credit will be given.

Students will receive a salary of about $150 for the eight weeks. Costs to them will include tuition, room and board, and transportation.

Some scholarship assistance may be available from Mental Health Associations in the region or from other foundations and agencies.

Information on such aid or loan, and requests for applications, should be made to the sociology department of the college a student wishes to attend.

Secret detective 'gathers' the facts with the braceros

VENTURA—(AP)—A Ventura county supervisor has been masquerading as a farm laborer to see what goes on in the lemon orchards since domestic workers have taken over from the Department of Labor.

After three days of picking lemons and wearing old clothes, Supervisor Robinson says he feels that there's a real farm labor crisis in Ventura county. His comments include this description of conditions:

"There were two drunks on the truck who couldn't go to work, and you must look into the groves. There was drinking during the night. Some of the men didn't smell good."

As to his over-all reaction to the situation, the County Supervisor said: "The farmer is getting a raising as far as getting the job done."

The 46-year-old Robinson is an insurance executive as well as a county supervisor. When he put on old clothes he was hired for a farm job on his first visit to the State Employment Office. He gave his right name but not his occupation or address.

After three days in the orchards, he said he found the food excellent and the barracks conditions not too different from those he had in the service in war-time. As to the men working in the groves, he said: "You have people who are interested in putting in eight hours rather than working eight hours. They recognize that if they just kind of loaf along they can get a day's pay, and that's all they are interested in."

Graduating engineers & scientists: Join IBM's new computer systems science training program

Become a problem-solver and advisor to users of IBM computer systems in areas such as:

• real-time control of industrial processes
• communications-based information systems
• time-shared computer systems
• graphic data processing
• computer-controlled manufacturing systems
• management operating systems
• engineering design automation

All engineering and scientific disciplines are needed. IBM will give you comprehensive training, both in the classroom and on the job. Openings are available in all principal cities of the U.S.

For more information see your placement director, or call the nearest IBM branch office. In Europe, prefer to write to G. M. Wood, IBM Corporation, 3424 Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90005.

Equipment requests due

Audio-visual equipment and materials may be recalled from quarter inch locations and redistributed during Poly Royal, according to A-V coordinator Marcus Goddard. If a departmental club or organization plans to use materials or equipment during Poly Royal, staff members are asked to schedule equipment usage with the A-V Department; non-scheduling or taking a requisition to Room 8 in the Student Administration Building.

SUMMER JOBS IN EUROPE

Grand Duchy of Luxembourg—You can spend a month working in Europe next summer. The American Student Information Service is also giving travel grants of $200 to the best 100 college students who apply. The work includes office work, research, craft skills, domestic child care and shipboard work. You must be a junior in college who has completed at least one year of work and meet the following qualifications: 1) 18 years of age or older; 2) no less than once a year in a 32-page illustrated booklet which students may obtain by sending $2 (for the booklet and air mail postage) to Dept J, A8IS, 22 Ave. de la Constitution, Luxembourg.

Office work in Europe is interesting:

Horsehiders carry hot bats despite average season

Coach William Hile's varsity horsehiders may only be playing mediocre .500 ball, but statistically they look like potential league champs.

At this early stage in the 1068 campaign, they are just on the bright side of a .500 season record, but the team is hitting a robust .300, a mark more becoming of a diamond powerhouse.

The mound staff, headed by Steve Fox, has also been more effective than the win-less bullpen crew. With 40 innings of duty behind him, Fox has tossed 4 complete games in compiling a 6-1 mark and a 2.87 ERA. The real stingy man of the staff, however, has been Terry Curti, who has allowed only three earned runs in 26 innings in posting a microscopic 1.38 ERA.

Last home track meet tomorrow

Gary Walker, all-around track man for the Mustangs who was injured earlier in the season, will be without the services of pitcher Gaye Curtis. Curtis ran the 400 yard dash in 5.9 seconds last year.

According to William, "We should beat Pomona, but Redlands has more depth than we do, and without Curtis our overall team performance could be hurt by as much as 15 points."

A message of importance to sophomore men

If you've got what it takes to be an Army Officer, you may qualify for this new on-campus training program.

A new Army ROTC program starts this coming Summer for sophomore men who apply prior to May 1—only 3,000 applicants to be accepted.

If you're a sophomore now attending one of the SAF colleges and universalise that offer Army Officer training—or you plan to transfer to one of those schools Fall—you may qualify for the new two-year Army ROTC program.

This program—designed especially for college men who have not taken Army ROTC during their first two years—will commence with six weeks of field training this coming Summer, beginning June 14. Then you'll have on-campus training during your junior year and an additional week at camp during the following Summer... and more on-campus training during your senior year. Even flight training is offered at some schools.

ROTC training is a really a process of learning to organise and direct others—to be a leader. Consider how important this ability can be to you throughout life; yet, to acquire it, you will spend relatively little time in the ROTC classroom.

You'll obtain valuable junior management experiences... a fuller and richer campus life... extra spending money ($40 per month during your junior and senior school years, and even more during Summer training)... and, when you graduate, an Army Officer's commission as Second Lieutenant.

Then you will normally spend two interesting years on active duty, often abroad with opportunities for travel.
