Professor will be scholar in Sweden

A Management Department professor has been invited to spend a year as a visiting university research professor with leading organizational and management experts at the Stockholm School of Economics in Sweden.

Dr. Rami Shani, who specializes in organizational development, productivity and sociotechnical systems design, will spend the 1991-92 school year giving presentations to business executives and presenting doctoral seminars. Shani will also conduct research with scholars at the Institute for Management of Innovation and Technology and the Program for Man and Organization.

Four distinguished teachers selected

Four members of the faculty have been selected as distinguished teachers for 1990-91.

They are Drs. Jay L. Devore of the Statistics Department; Linda H. Halisky, English; Ann Morgan, Psychology and Human Development; and James L. Webb, Physical Education and Recreation Administration.

Each will receive a $750 stipend from funds provided by alumni of the university. In addition, recognition plaques will be presented at Cal Poly’s Fall Conference general session on Monday, Sept. 16.

Selection of the recipients is made by a committee of the Academic Senate, which acts on nominations from students, faculty, and other members of the campus community.

Devore, a statistician, has been a member of the faculty since 1977. Halisky joined the faculty in 1984. She specializes in British Renaissance literature and American literature to the Civil War.

A member of the faculty since 1980, Morgan’s teaching specialties are in gerontology and family studies. She oversees Cal Poly’s courses in gerontology.

Webb began his tenure at the university in 1969. He is an exercise physiologist and the director of Cal Poly’s Human Performance Laboratory.

Devore, Halisky, Morgan, and Webb join a group of 83 present and former faculty members who have been honored since the Distinguished Teachers Awards program began in 1964.

Powell reception

A retirement reception will be held for June Powell on Tuesday, July 2, from 2 to 4 pm in the Alumni House.

Powell is retiring after 44 years of service. She has worked on campus longer than anyone else in the university’s 90-year history.

Powell began her career as a junior steno clerk in the General Office, then worked in the deans’ offices of both the Division of Arts and Sciences and the School of Agriculture and Natural Resources, the Executive Vice President’s Office, the President’s Office, and the University Relations Division. She was named an outstanding employee in 1988-89.

James Brock, 74

James Lewis “Jim” Brock, 74, a major benefactor of the Brock Center for Agricultural Communication at Cal Poly, died at his home in Oxnard on June 12. He is survived by his wife, Martha.

In recent years, Mr. and Mrs. Brock had devoted their time and energies to the center that bears their family name. The center prepares students for careers as writers and editors who specialize in various aspects of agriculture.

The Brocks became Cal Poly benefactors with help from former university President Robert E. Kennedy. With the late Tom Parks and his wife, Betty, they created unitrusts, which provide tax benefits and income during their lifetimes and bequests to university agricultural programs on their demise.

Contributions in Jim Brock’s memory may be made to the Brock Center for Agricultural Communication, Cal Poly.

University Club

The University Club sponsors monthly programs in the Staff Dining Room during the academic year, hosts the annual faculty/staff service awards luncheon and the spring barbecue, and plans special activities throughout the year.
