40 Years: June Powell, University Relations.

'President's Forum' planned for today

Cal Poly students will have the opportunity to pose questions to President Baker at 11 am today (Feb. 12) in the UU Plaza.

The 'President's Forum' will begin with comments by Dr. Baker addressing some major topics of student concern including class availability, impacted programs and the problems many students encounter when trying to graduate from Cal Poly in four years. Students will then have the chance to ask questions.

The forum is sponsored by Cal Poly's chapter of Mortar Board as part of National Mortar Board Week. The Mortar Board Honor Society is a national organization whose stated purpose is to actively promote scholarship, leadership, service and equality. Mortar Board is an ASI program.

Environmental pioneer McHarg to appear Feb. 18

Landscape architect and planner Ian McHarg, a pioneer in the environmental awareness movement, will speak at Cal Poly on Wednesday, Feb. 18, on "The Future of the Environmental Design Professions."

The founder, now professor emeritus, of the landscape architecture program at the University of Pennsylvania, McHarg is to speak at 10:30 am in the Theatre.

McHarg established himself as America’s foremost landscape architect stressing the relationship of ecology to the use of land with the publication in 1968 of a book titled "Design with Nature." Still a landmark text for planning as well as landscape design, it outlined McHarg’s thesis that man’s survival is threatened by shortsighted, culturally rooted economic considerations that mandate the free exploitation of nature.

McHarg suggested the only recourse is to cooperate actively with the environment. He believes the ecology of an area — and the implications of destroying even part of it — should be studied completely before the area is developed.

Through his teaching, writing and professional practice he has vigorously advocated systematic procedures for realizing his ecological goals.

The Scottish-born advocate of harmony with nature came to the United States in 1946. He earned degrees in landscape architecture and city planning at Harvard before serving for 30 years as chairman of Penn’s Department of Landscape Architecture.

McHarg's lecture is sponsored by the School of Architecture and Environmental Design.

Holiday schedule

The campus will remain open and all employees are scheduled to work on Thursday, Feb. 12 (Lincoln's Birthday). It is designated for observance on the day after Thanksgiving (Friday, Nov. 27).

Washington's Birthday (Monday, Feb. 16) is a holiday for all employees. The campus will be closed except for needed emergency services and essential work.
South African exile to speak Feb. 19

Dr. Anthony Ngubo, a black South African exile, will be the next speaker in a Cal Poly series on apartheid.

The Mira Costa College professor will discuss "The Socio-Cultural Impact of Apartheid on Black and White South Africans" on Thursday, Feb. 19. The talk will be at 8 pm in Room 286 of the Fisher Science Building.

The series is designed to help students, faculty, and the community learn more about South Africa, its racial policies, its geopolitical importance, and its relationship to the United States.

The program, primarily funded by the School of Liberal Arts from state lottery funds, has been endorsed by the History, Journalism, Political Science, and Social Sciences Departments.

Ngubo's publications include "Contributions of the Black American Church to the Development of African Independence Movements in South Africa."

The next speaker in the series will be Dr. Edmond J. Keller, associate dean of the Graduate Division at UC Santa Barbara. He will examine "Black Politics and the Coming Crisis in South Africa" on Monday, April 13.

UC Berkeley poet here on Feb. 18-19

Robert N. Pinsky, poet and professor of English at UC Berkeley, will be the next speaker in the Arts and Humanities Series.

Pinsky will discuss "Poetry and Ordinary Life" on Thursday, Feb. 19, at 11 am in UU 220.

"New Directions" is the theme for the Cal Poly series. It is sponsored by the School of Liberal Arts.

He will also present a poetry reading on Wednesday, Feb. 18, at 7:30 pm in Room 205 of the BA&E Building.

In 1979 Pinsky was the recipient of an Artists Award from the American Academy of Arts and Letters, and a year later he was a Guggenheim Fellow, and winner of the Saxifrage Prize. He was awarded the William Carlos Williams Prize in 1984.

"Cries and Whispers From Limbo" exhibit

An art exhibit, "Cries and Whispers From Limbo," will be on display in the rear first floor gallery in Cal Poly's Kennedy Library throughout the month of February.

The show coincides with Cal Poly's Women's Week presentations, Feb. 23-27. This year's Women's Week theme is "Freedom of Choice: A Feminist Goal/A Human Right."

Artists Theo Coleman and Mary Whiteford will be available to discuss their works on Tuesday, Feb. 24, from 11 am to noon.

Coleman, a senior majoring in social sciences, said she began to develop her three-dimensional pieces in 1983. She calls her pieces "assemblages." Responses to her Cal Poly exhibit have ranged from laughter to ridicule to tears. Her pieces carry such titles as "Juile Verne Plans Her Escape;" "My Morning Cup of Coffee;" "Mildred's Nightmare;" "Estate Sale;" and "The Gifted Child."

Whiteford, a member of the university's Academic Programs staff, earned an undergraduate degree in art education from New York University. She has also studied at the School of Visual Arts in New York, City and at Cal Poly.

Before coming to San Luis Obispo she was a member of a cooperative ceramics studio in New York, producing functional pottery and ceramic sculpture. Her mixed media piece, "Life Is Fragile," and her ceramic works, "Help! Get Me Out of Here!," deal with the process of choice and life changes.

The Cal Poly library is open Monday through Thursday, 7:30 am to 11 pm; Friday, 7:30 am to 5 pm; Saturday, 9 am to 5 pm; and Sunday, 1 pm to 11 pm.
Glass sculpture exhibition to open

A unique presentation of sight and sound will combine works of glass sculpture by George Jercich with recordings by Jon Iverson in an upcoming exhibition in the UU Galerie.

The show will open with an artist’s reception on Tuesday, Feb. 17, from 6-8 pm and run through March 20.

According to Galerie Director Jeanne LaBarbara, Jercich’s works “will combine elements of shape, color, and transparency into a series of forms which represent the animate character of glass frozen in time.”

Many of the pieces will include wood, metal, stucco, and rubber in combination with glass to contrast and complement the sculptural compositions.

Jercich is an associate professor in Cal Poly’s Art and Design Department. Among other courses, he teaches a glassforming series, which includes instruction on glassblowing, fusing, casting, and coldworking.

“The Sounds of Glass,” was produced and recorded by Iverson especially for this exhibition.

According to Iverson, “The recording is a composite of sounds created with glass objects including rolling, tapping, clinking, breaking, and just about every other imaginable sound that can be created with glass.”

Galerie hours for the exhibit are Monday and Tuesday, 10 am to 6 pm; Wednesday and Thursday, 10 am to 8 pm; Friday, 10 am to 4 pm; and noon to 4 pm on weekends.

$5500 donation

Halliburton Co., a Dallas-based oil-field services and engineering and construction organization, has donated $5500 to Cal Poly through its educational foundation. The School of Engineering received $5000 and the Placement Center $500.

Sales of new book will help center

The El Corral Bookstore has received shipment of a new book, “In Fond Remembrance,” by Jim Brock of Oxnard, a former student, long-time friend, and generous donor to Cal Poly.

This autobiography explores the author’s early days in Ventura County and his many years as a leader in the Southern California vegetable production and distribution industry. It also details his role in establishment of the Brock Center and Agricultural Communication, which is based in Cal Poly’s Journalism Department.

All proceeds from the sale of “In Fond Remembrance,” which is displayed in El Corral’s General Book Department, will be donated to the center.

University Club programs planned

Sara Elbert of the History Department will address the University Club on Feb. 19 on the historical circumstances of the American farm family. Elbert is a visiting faculty member from the State University of New York’s Binghampton campus. She is a specialist on American farm women and the historical sociology of rural communities.

On Feb. 26, Woody Frey, Ornamental Horticulture, will present a sound and light show titled “A Thing So Lovely as A Tree: Thoughts About the Trees and Gardens of Europe.” Frey is a recognized authority on trees and landscape gardening. He is currently preparing a tour of the historic gardens of England.

The following week (March 5), Craig Harlan, a visiting professor of history from the University of Canterbury in New Zealand, will present his reflections on being an American in New Zealand during the debate over that nation’s banning American nuclear weaponry from its seaports and air bases.

The University Club meets every Thursday at noon in the Staff Dining Room. Free coffee is provided, and the presentations are open to all faculty and staff.

Poly Royal Queen will be selected

The 1987 Poly Royal Queen and her court will be chosen at a pageant tonight (Feb. 12) at 7 pm in Chumash Auditorium.

This year one woman will be chosen from 51 contestants to represent Cal Poly and be the official spokesman for Poly Royal. Four runners-up will make up the queen’s court. This year Poly Royal will be held of Friday and Saturday, April 24-25.

Tickets for the pageant are $1. They will be available at the door.
