Hirt takes over duties as dean of engineering

At a meeting Tuesday, April 5, Interfaith Council took action on some aspects of Headman's recent letter on religion in Life World. A compromise motion, the Hirt action, received unanimous support from the speakers present at the meeting and will be invited to explain their views.

Also voted unanimously were measures to have next year's HIRL plans for "Religious Relations and Religion." The next HIRL will be held Jan. 12, 1967. Attempts will be made to incorporate other recommendations made by the chaplains. One item which was not invited by a vote, but was seen feasible, was the "inclusion of a "forbidden" text in the program in order to make the textbook life. The program is divided into two distinct phases. The first is the active, preparatory work of the students. This preparation will be aided by a new class system and an informal seminar prior to departure.

April 25 is entry deadline for annual Spring Sing.

This year's Spring Sing, "Sound of Spring," is being presented by Gamma Sigma Sigma, honorary women's sorority, 8 p.m., May 19 in Crandall Gym.

"This year we want it to be a more casual affair," said Rainy Beasyer, member of the Spring Sing Committee. "We want everyone to come and have a good time. It's really a lot of fun.

All entries for "Sound of Spring" must be submitted to the committee by April 15 and may be put in the ASI Office Box 88, along with the five dollar entry fee.

Preliminary tryouts will be held on May 5 in Crandall gym. Dress rehearsal will begin at 6 p.m. on May 14 and 15 in Crandall gym.

The date of Spring Sing has been changed this year due to a conflict with the annual home concert. "This year's Spring Sing promises to be the biggest and greatest yet as there has already been a great deal of interest shown," stated Rainy Beasyer. Entries must be from either on campus residence halls, or off campus approved residence halls, chartered clubs, eating approved professional or honorary fraternity and sororities. Each group may request a member of the Spring Sing Committee to appear before them to answer any questions they may have and explain exactly what Spring Sing is all about.

There are four divisions in which entries may be filed for this Spring Sing. There are women's residence hall division, men's residence hall division, clubs and organizations division, and the production division.

Both the residence hall and organizations may only enter one group with the exception of the new halls. The new halls may enter one group from each floor. There is a maximum of 40 and a minimum of 10 individuals per group, which includes the director.

All musical accompaniment must be approved by the Spring Sing Committee and no props may be used. All members of the group with the exception of the director, must be enrolled at Cal Poly San Luis Obispo. There is a maximum of 40 individuals and a minimum of 10 individuals per group with the exception of the director.

AN ALTERNATIVE...

"Give me that old-time religion, it's good enough for me." So goes an old-time religion song. But is it enough for most people? The current issue of "Time" magazine discusses the question: "Is God Dead?" The article points out that 97 per cent of the American people believe in God but only 27 per cent declare themselves as people of religion. Why is this? Could it be that many are with one teenager who is reported to have said, "I love God but hate church?"

Many churches have taken note of the estrangement of modern man, and especially students, from institutional religion and have tried to correct the situation. A prime example is the outline in the article of an alternative: "A life that old-time religion..., for most people is not enough for me...

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your yening article (April 1) about Colnies. We appreciate your bringing some of our major problems to light, particularly those that are the selection of entertainers for our events.

Our group is made up of approximately 25 students who buy a ticket to every assembly and support our efforts. We are always curious to find out more about the campus and students in general. We recently completed a survey of 500 question-

We hope that our entertainments are worthy of your high appreciation. We recently efforted the entire group of entertainers and their work in planning to the College Union Assemblies.

We appreciate your bringing this matter to my attention; that is, the recent "release" of Dead Humid Denn Hayes of his title so he may assume "operational responsible ties" and "committee assignments" and "replace men t.' In contrary to this, why wasn't Dean Hayes merely given an "assistant to Vice President"? I don't believe the answer lies in depicting the Uni-ders in Vietnam. The following is the governing body's response.

The Judy jury proposal, which was essentially the work of Elag, contains a five-man body which would have the power to determine the constitutionality of club charters, to exercise initial review over the acts of SAC, and to settle any disputes between campus organizations.

The court, according to Brown, would not be used for disciplinary purposes against students. The reason for this is that students have verbally and in a questionnaire the reorganization committee and we feel Brown expressed the view that they do and want to be judged by their peers on matters of discipline.

If the court's decisions are approved by the SAC, American Indians would probably be late in May or early June. He emphasized the view that students would come to realize the potential importance of the proposal and that students would take time to consider them.

Copies of the reorganization suggestions will be available in the ASI office and on reserve in the library.

Letter to students from India's leader

(Editor's note: This letter is from the Prime Minister of India to the Indian students of Cal Poly.)

Dear young friends,

I am soon coming to the United States to meet President Johnson and other U.S. leaders. This will be a very full visit—lasted a week. Much as I should have liked to do, I shall not be able to meet the Indian Students Studying in American Institutions.

However, I should like to take this opportunity to tell you that you are all very much in my heart. I am going through a critical phase, perhaps this is the most difficult year since the first year of independence. But there is nothing need not room for discouragement. We make mistakes but we also have considerable achievement to our credit. Many of our problems are problems of development, how can we make a huge sleeping giant get it to move ahead without creating disaster?

May I also remind you that the country expects a good deal from the young men and women who have had the opportunity of displaying at institutions of international repute and of supporting themselves with the latest trends in India's thought and technology. We can all or our own merit justify to the national good.

With greetings and good wishes.

Yours sincerely,

Jawaharlal

Poly programs provide aid for foreign students

Eighty-one foreign students are enrolled this semester at Cal Poly under programs of two cooperative international agencies.

Seventy-three of the total number are studying under assignment from the United States Department of State's Agency for International Development (AID) and the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO). The remainder are studying at Kellogg Campus, located near Pomona.

These students represent 21 different foreign nations, with Nigeria (23) and Kenya (8) having the largest representation. Other nations with students enrolled at Cal Poly under the AID and FAO programs include Sudan (33), Pakistan (31), Tanzania (47), Togo (4), and Niger (1).

Also, Afghanistan (2), Morocco (2), Tanzania (2), Vietnam (2), Bolivia (1), Brazil (1), Cameroon (1), Chad (1), Ethiopia (1), Guatemala (1), Honduras (1), Jordan (1), Malawi (1), Somalia (1), Syria (1), and Uruguay (1).

Of the 73 students, studying agriculture and related fields are 9, in animal husbandry; 14, in agricultural engineering; 18, in animal husbandry (it stops are such as dairy husbandry and food processing); four, in poultry industries; three, in soil science and agricultural engineering; and two, in electronic engineering.

The programs are designed to train representatives of foreign nations in the basic skills necessary for economic development. There are approximately 6,000 participants in the United States, most of them, studying agriculture and related fields.

They are selected by their governments to receive specific training with the commitment to return to employment utilizing the training experience. Their expenses are shared by the program and the home country.

Poly graduate to serve in Laos

Twenty-three trainees arrived in Honolulu March 28 to begin a rigorous three-month period of training for service with the Agency for International Development in the rural areas of Vietnam and Laos.

One of the trainees for Laos is Eugene L. Roth of San Francisco who graduated in 1957 with a B.S. degree in animal husbandry.

Fellowship will be a provincial representative or staff assistant in Vietnam and are scheduled to be rural development officers in Laos. When they finish the training course, they will be expected to understand local customs and culture, converse with the people, and adapt quickly to living and working under difficult, often hazardous conditions.

The trainees come from a variety of backgrounds. Twenty-three are majoring in agricultural engineering; 16, in animal husbandry; 11, in mechanical engineering; and two, in electronic engineering.

Calendar lists many graduates at Pasadena lab

Cal Poly lists with many colleges and universities in the Western United States as far as the number of students engaged at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) in Pasadena.

A total of 23 graduates of Cal Poly are currently employed by JPL, which lost graduates of more than 250 colleges and universities in its employment.

California Institute of Technology, which operates the laboratory for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), has the most graduates employed at JPL with 151.

Others among the top Western colleges and universities and the number of its students graduating presently working for the Pasadena facility are UCLA, 91; UC at Berkeley, 80; UC at Los Angeles, 72; Stanford University, 46; University of California at Los Angeles, 30; University of Colorado, 11.

Also listed among the colleges and universities with graduates working at JPL are the following: Arizona State College, 9; Brigham Young University, 7; California Institute of Technology, 6; Colby College, 4; Connecticut College, 4; Cornell University, 1, one from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 4; Connecticut College, 4; eastern New Mexico State College, 4; and California State College at Long Beach and UC at Riverside, 1 each.

Supported by NASA's unmanned lunar and planetary program, JPL has conducted a number of significant breakthroughs in space exploration including the United States' first soft landing on the Moon, the 1959 flyby of the planet Venus, and the Ranger photographic reconnaissance of the Moon, and the Mariners' mission to Mars.
