Hippie capital expects boom

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — If there is anything more pernicious and more destructive than the spread of hippies to the country, it is the spread of their philosophy, which is nothing more than the breakdown of all moral behavior and the establishment of anarchy.

The hippie movement has spread from San Francisco to Los Angeles, where it is now the biggest single population in the city. It has also spread to New York City, where it is the largest group of people in the United States.

The hippies are now in control of the city, and the Mayor is doing little to control the situation. The hippies have taken over the city, and the Mayor is doing nothing to stop them.

The hippies are a threat to all of society, and the Mayor should do something to stop them.

Student survey being conducted at California's state colleges

A statewide survey of student financial and demographic information has been announced by the Chancellor's Office of the University System of California. The survey, a part of the Chancellor's Comprehensive Survey Program, will include questions relating to such topics as student backgrounds, employment, and family structure.

The survey is expected to provide valuable data for the Chancellor's Office and for other institutions interested in student issues.

Chapter 711

THE CONFLICTS OF THE PERIOD

The conflicts of the period have been the result of the failure of the hippie movement to understand the nature of society. The hippies have failed to understand that society is a complex system, and that change must be planned and controlled.

A draft comment concerning the "Mustang Daily" appears in the June 25, 1967, edition of the "New York Times." The comment discusses the lack of participation by students in the yearbook process and suggests that the yearbook should be "our Brother's "keeper." The letter also mentions the need for a "lot of aspirin" a week.

Take part!!

Editor:

If you think the current process of creating the "Mustang Daily" is confusing and lacks participation by students, here's a tip: take part! This year there were only three faculty members who worked on the yearbook, and some students have expressed interest in getting involved. Before substantial criticism is made, consider giving feedback to the editors. They are more than willing to hear your thoughts on what you think is needed in this year's edition.

Lattergirl clinic

A clinic for selecting lattergirls will be conducted on May 1 at 5 p.m. Behind the gym. Students believe that this year's edition lacks student involvement. It is important to share your perspective with the editors to ensure that your voices are heard.

Strange language

Editor:

It is quite a strange experience to be in a majority of classes attended by students who use "Pray" and "Praise" in every sentence, as if they were a part of their daily vocabulary. This language is strange to me, as it is not commonly used in typical conversations. The editors should be aware of this and consider the impact it may have on the readers.

Student wants aid

Dear Editor:

As a student facing the challenges of obtaining scholarships and financial aid, I would like to share my perspective. Scholarship money is very limited, and it is difficult to secure funding for college. I urge the Business Department to be more focused on student needs and provide more opportunities for financial aid. It is my hope that the proper people will listen to these concerns and make changes to improve the process.

In this edition, the "Gentleman's Agreement" page is a highlight, featuring a story about the Gentlemen's Agreement that was signed in 1923. The story emphasizes the importance of understanding historical events and making connections to current issues. Readers are encouraged to explore this page and engage with the content.
And why would very few students choose to attend college full-time? A full-time student must show up for 15 hours a day, and some instructors believe that the students aren't coming to class. The instructors think that the students aren't coming to class because they want to attend another class or have other plans. This makes it difficult for the instructors to keep track of who is attending class. If few students attend class, the instructors might want to change their schedule to make it easier for students to attend. However, this change might disrupt the plans of other students who want to attend class.

Vital courses seen lacking in school

Dick Anderson, head of the chemistry department at our university, feels that the majors are not getting the courses they need to prepare them for their future careers. Anderson also feels that there are too many non-chemistry courses that are required for the majors. Anderson says that the majors should have the opportunity to take more chemistry courses. He believes that the majors should be able to take more chemistry courses because it is important for them to have a strong foundation in chemistry.

EXODUS FROM FRANCE

The exodus of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NAATO) from France has been of interest to the student body. The exodus of the NAATO from France is due to the disagreements that have arisen between the United States and France. The exodus has been of interest to the student body because it is an important issue. The student body is interested in the exodus because it is an important issue.

I enjoyed the football game and the bowling. Both were good. The football game was exciting, and I was rooting for our team. The bowling was good, but I was rooting for my roommate. I enjoyed the game and had a good time. It was a good day overall.

Makshif squad set for 'fun' meet

UCCLA track pro Leo Dovin believes his Mustangs, selected by the Associated Press as No. 1 this week, are set for a good showing in the Western Athletic Conference meet in Las Vegas. He was joined in the selection by Bob Dorn, head coach at Arizona State, and Tommy Torkelson, head coach at Idaho State.

Dovin said the Mustangs had a good meet last week, with figures to show three firsts, two seconds and two thirds. Dovin added that the Mustangs' biggest problem may be their height on Friday but his height concerns are few.

"If anything, it may be a little optimistic," Dovin said. "But I think we'll do well."

However, Dovin's optimism is not shared by Bob Dorn, head coach at Arizona State, and Tommy Torkelson, head coach at Idaho State.

Dorn said the Mustangs' biggest problem is their height.

"We're not as tall as some of the other teams," Dovin said. "But I think we'll do well."
