Vetteville cinders for parking lot

Vetteville is only a memory, for thousands of marooned students have surrounded them in the last twenty-one months. A firestorm of change which once marked another make-do progress project, "the study is now the proud of hundreds of parking spaces," founder R. J. Baker explained. The firestorm, in which the entire operation included the removal of two buildings and the annexation area around the administration for a two-sectioned dormitory extension. The Campus and the US Forestry Service have been charged with the project.

"The area should be completely used in the fall, Baker stated. This parking lot will cost $40 for a one-bedroom establishment and $55 for a two-bedroom establishment."
Security officer retires: turns to fishing, farming

The Cal Poly security force was decimated by one man recently, when June I. Gunter retired.

Gunter, who had not yet been replaced, was the fire department's drill instructor, the duties were chiefly to help train fellow faculty working for the fire department who live on campus.

Gunter, who lives in a ranch in See Canyon, plans to help a small herd of cattle. He is present on a fishing trip, and plans to spend part of his time digging for gold and looking for rocks.

Previous to working here, Gunter was fire chief in Coniagua prior to World War I, and during the war he was fire chief at Camp San Luis Obispo.

The Hobby Garage is designed to provide students with a handy and inexpensive place to make self-repairs on their autos. Located behind the North Mountain dorms, it is open at certain times to any student wishing to use the garage.

Student's auto repairs facilitated by opening of C.U. Hobby Garage

Hey Students! Did you know that cars can now be repaired at the College Union Hobby Garage? The garage is open to students during the summer quarter on weekdays and all day Saturdays.

Some of the administrative officers from Samoa will spend several days here later this month. Their visit will be part of a tour of California and Nevada arranged in conjunction with a study program at Stanford University. They are expected to arrive on campus July 17 and to depart three days later.

During their stay here, the Samoan educators are scheduled to tour the college's central non-pollution water treatment, and the Monterey Air Force Base, and to visit Morro Bay.

Instructor cuts short Australian Sabatical

Architecture instructor, Bill Brown has just returned from a six-month leave in Australia. Brown left in December of '66 to do graduate work on his masters degree in Architecture.

Brown spent six months in the University of Sydney, Architectural Science, department, in plans for the west's research as his bachelor of environmental science, in the United States, he plans to tour Europe and Israel.

Brown, his wife, and two children traveled by ship, spent Christmas at sea. He said that this was quite an experience. The ship was decorated with lights, and they held a party for the children.

They left here in winter and arrived "down under" in November. The voyage was long and the rest of living in less than desirable conditions at the relation in higher. Brown said a graduate architect does there could expect to make $2000 a year while here he keep onto $40,000.

Japan student advocates cans for study aids

Several years ago during high school in Japan, a number of my classmates and I began to help the sick and disabled. We started a club, named the Sunshine Club, to help give them a chance to improve their lives. We cooked for them, cleaned for them, and did whatever we could to make them feel better.

I came to the United States after high school, and I joined the Peace Corps. I have been living here for two weeks now, and I have been enjoying my time. I have been able to help many people, and I have been able to learn a lot about American culture.

I have been able to make friends here, and I have been able to learn a lot about American culture. I have been able to see many different places, and I have been able to learn a lot about American culture.

Campus will host wrestling tourney

The Mustangs will host the Western sectional qualifying meet leading up to the National Junior Olympic Wrestling Championships. Meet director, Vaughn Hitchcock said the tourney will be held at the Mustang gym starting at 7:30 p.m. on both nights.

The Mustangs will be competing in both weight classes where four or more contestants are entered. The Mustangs have qualified for the state meet in the 120-pound run three years, for his graduation in 1960. He has also qualified for the Western World championships at Tollhouse, twice in swimming hefty, moved on to Fresno State when he finished fourth in the 800-yard freestyle with a 2:24 record, he was named the school's best all-round athlete as a senior.

Frank Bauriff, 26, has been named athletic director at this campus. He will assume his new duties September first, according to Dr. Robert Matt, head of the physical education department, and Dick Anderson, director of athletics. They announced the appointment jointly.

Bauriff will serve as an instructor in the physical education department and handle the freshman track coaching duties in addition to the assignment as athletic director.

The Mustangs' will host the national Junior Olympic Wrestling tourney July 20-21 at the Mustang gym starting at 7:30 p.m.
