El Corral gains new manager

Eugene E. Wttrtoy has been appointed manager of the El Corral College Store.

Wttrtoy, a 16-year-old, is manager of the bookstore at El Camino Junior College, Los Angeles, and has been appointed to that position effective September 1 following action by the Board of Governors.

Wttrtoy, who has been manager of the bookstore for many years, will continue to work on the campus planning for the new bookstore.

College President hosts group buffet desserts

Desert buffets with community groups were hosted by President and Mrs. Kennedy on the mornings of April 10, April 15, April 17 and April 22 at the Home Economics Pavilions on campus.

The groups hosted included:
- April 10: The San Luis Coastal Unified School District, the County Board of Education, and administrative personnel.
- April 15: The City Council, County Board of Supervisors, and city and county administrative officials.
- August 17: The Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, and on August 22, Cuesta College administration personnel and the Cuesta College Trustees.
- San Luis Obispo High School and Mission High School administrative personnel.

Special guests from the community at the various buffets included Mr. and Mrs. George Brand, Editor of the Telegrarn-Tribune; Mr. Elliot Curry, Telegraph-Tribune, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hargood, ESBY Television, Mr. and Mrs. Reg Strooker, RSPY Judge and Mrs. Richard Harris, Judge and Mrs. Paul Jackson, Miss Anita Hathaway, and the college administrative personnel.

Miss Linda McClellan, President of the Men's Residence Club and Miss Carl Robbins, Vice President, Home Economics Club, were in charge of seating and decorations.

Mr. Devere Kverak's Flower Arrangement class arranged floral displays and table decorations, and they were used in decorating the patio.

Ex-editor returns to advise students

Charles E. Mendehall, for more than 20 years editor of the Modesto Bee weekly farm news tabloid, will join the staff here this fall as agriculture information specialist.

Mendehall was a student here from 1931 to 1935. He was editor of the Mustang, the student newspaper, and directed publicity for the 1934 Poly Royal. While he was a student he had a farm program over WVEG Radio and worked part-time on Winslow's radio station, WPAC. He was also active in the work of the Greater Modesto Chamber of Commerce, which works to make foreign agricultural students at Modesto Junior College feel at home in Modesto.

Nguyen Thuong Thu, called "Thu" by her friends, studies chemical engineering and comes from her home in the Republic of Vietnam to do it. The eighteen-year-old freshman arrived in San Luis Obispo last February to complete a required six-month English course before attending Fall Quarter. "I was awarded an A.I.D. scholarship through my high school to attend college here," she says.

The lives in the city of Saigon, the capital of the South of Vietnam. After attending elementary school for seven years, she attended one of the largest public high schools in the country, where she completed her studies and attended high school.

The public high school requires that we wear white pants," she says.

The An Dai is the traditional dress of Vietnamese women. It owns a variety of the high-collared garments and displays a special tradition for the people one which was sent to be recently by her mother.

The An Dai is a long dress which is slit below the waist to two panels that open in the sides, she explains. "Black pants are worn under the garment."

"Since the An Dai is so traditional to make, the women prefer to have them made by seamstresses."

"We have three groups of potential social attitudes which exist in her city of Saigon."

The third group are paraiah who are greatly influenced by Western life. The youngest attend parties, date at dance, choose their own friends."

"The Republic of Vietnam has more working girls today than ever before. With the lack of marriage partners, the women themselves start to choose their social walks and hold jobs which were previously occupied by men."

"Daughters are allowed to choose a marriage partner from three boys," she says. "My parents are members of that group."

"The third group are parents who are greatly influenced by Western life. The youngest attend parties, date and are encouraged to choose their own friends."

New department head tells of numerous experiences abroad

By Bruce Kennelly, head of the*Department of Elemendary Education, has just returned from a trip to the USSR and Poland. Mr. Kennelly was accompanied by his wife and four children. Mr. Kennelly is a native of Broomfield and attended the University of Colorado on a scholastic scholarship. He earned a bachelor's degree in mathematics and a master's degree in education.

The family spent two weeks in the U.S.S.R. Kennelly says, "An attempt was made to have us visit as many schools as possible. We visited a number of educational institutions that were brought to our attention. The schools are well-equipped and have modern facilities. The students were well-behaved and respectful. The teachers were friendly and knowledgeable.

"In many ways our trip was a contrast to our own. We visited schools that were very small, with only a few students. The schools were not as well-equipped as ours. The students were not as well-behaved as ours. The teachers were not as well-paid as ours.

"There were a number of things that were very different from our own. The schools were very different from our own. The teachers were very different from our own. The students were very different from our own.

"In all, the trip was a very interesting experience. We learned a lot about the schools and the students. We learned a lot about the teachers and the administration. We learned a lot about the country and the culture.

"In general, the schools were well-equipped and had modern facilities. The teachers were friendly and knowledgeable. The students were well-behaved and respectful. We learned a lot about the country and the culture. We learned a lot about the schools and the students.

Accountants to hold conference next week

The Society of California Accountants will hold their 1967 Advanced Study Conference here on August 31 and September 1. This is the third year that the Business Administration Department has hosted the event. John L. Trammell of the Business Administration Department here is the advisor and co-ordinator of the conference.

The conference is designed for thinking men and women who wish to concern themselves with the philosophical aspects of accounting. The objectives are to give SCA members the opportunity to meet old friends and to make new ones, and to talk with, know better, and share ideas with some of the thinkers in public accounting.

The conference will also provide the occasion for members and their families to enjoy recreation and live together in a campus atmosphere for a few days. There will be old guest speakers. Dr. Andrew Cruikshanks, from the Social Science Department here will speak on "How to Think," Stanley N. Goff, C.P.A., is lecturing on "General Accountancy Role in Estate Planning," and Robert E. Wilson, C.P.A., is lecturing on "General Accepted Accounting Principles."

All Sessions will be held in the Little Theatre of the Music, Speech, and Drama Building. A full hour and fifteen minutes will be devoted to questions and answers with the Speakers at each session. The Conference is limited to members of the Society of California Accountants, their wives, and children of high school age or older. Registration will be held Sunday, August 27, from 12:00 to 6:00 p.m., and from 8:00 to 10:00 p.m. Any registrants arriving after 10:00 p.m. may register after 8:00 a.m. Monday or may make special arrangements for morning registration. Registration will be held in the Sequoia Dormitory.

Seventeen students from here will be among the more than 225 California State College students who will leave San Francisco August 31 to September 3 for study abroad. The students come from all 18 of the campuses of the statewide college system and will study at ten universities which cooperate with the program in seven foreign countries.

The R.U.I. students going abroad and the universities where they will study are: John M. Caldwell, 1902 Vincente Dr., Waseda University in Tokyo, Japan; Milton Demond, 206 Foothill Blvd., University of Uppsala, Sweden; James C. Huner, 91 Lawrence Dr., the National University of Taiwan, Formosa; Richard J. Bouch, Cal Poly campus, the National University of Taiwan, Formosa; Donaldson, 706 Foothill Road, the University of Tokyo, Japan; Richard O. Routh, Cal Poly campus, the National University of Taiwan, Formosa; Robert A. Alvey, 706 Foothill Road, the University of Tokyo, Japan; Jacques B. Taylor, 921 Foothill Road, the National University of Taiwan, Formosa.

The program itself is unique, in that students study and live under the same conditions and take the same courses as do the students at the host universities.

The American visitors usually make dormitory accommodations, with the students to avoid being grouped together.

Under GI bill

Veterans planning to attend schools and colleges this fall under the New GI Bill are urged to apply early to the VA for Certificates of Eligibility, according to Mort Weller, Manager of VA's Southern California Regional Office.

Each veteran must have this document as proof of eligibility. A claim number is also assigned for use in future correspondence with the VA.

Exposure to the cultural life of the various countries.

The selected students — of junior, senior or graduate level — were required to meet stringent academic, linguistic and personal qualifications before being considered for the program.

"Cost to the students for a full academic year range between $1,800 and $2,380 and includes room, board and round-trip transportation. Cost to the state is no greater than if the student studied a state college here."

The ten universities cooperating in the program are: University of Granada and the University of Madrid, Spain; the University of Stockholmn, Sweden; the University of Bergen, the Free University of Berlin, Germany; the University of Stockholm, Sweden; the University of Uppsala, Sweden; the University of Tokyo, Japan; the National University in Taiwan, Formosa; the University of Rome, Italy; and the University of Uppsala, Sweden.
