Farm bureau leader to discuss ag issues

The leader of the state's largest agricultural organization will discuss major farm issues Monday in the Cal Poly Theatre.

California Farm Bureau Federation President Henry Voss will begin his address on "Major Issues Facing California Agriculture — A Farm Bureau Perspective" at 4 pm. Admission will be free. Everyone interested in the topic is invited.

Voss became president of the state's farm bureau organization in late 1981 after having been its second vice president for six years and a member of its board of directors for nine. In 1982 he was elected to represent the Western region on the American Farm Bureau Federation board of directors and was named to that organization's six-member executive committee last year.

Born of farm parents in San Jose in 1932, he earned a bachelor's degree in horticulture at the University of California, Davis and became a farmer himself. When urbanization forced him to relocate his farming operations in 1960, he moved to Stanislaus County, where he has 500 acres of peaches, walnuts, almonds, grapes, cherries and watermelons.

Voss is a member of the Cal Poly President's Cabinet. His appearance Monday is sponsored by the student council of the School of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Mayo head of History for Spring Quarter

Edward Mayo, of the History Department faculty, has been named interim department head for the Spring Quarter. He replaces Robert Burton, who will be on assignment in London.

The appointment also covers Fall Quarter 1984 when Burton will be on leave.

Mayo's selection was based on recommendations of the history faculty, with the endorsement of Dean Jon Ericson and Provost Tomlinson Fort.

Seating added, but tickets required for Commencement

Even more seats than previously announced will be set up in Mustang Stadium for Cal Poly's 1984 Commencement, but the university also has found it must limit spectators to five per graduate.

Guests will need a ticket to get into the June 9 ceremony, Provost Tomlinson Fort Jr. announced last week. Graduates will receive five tickets each for family and friends when they pay their commencement fee.

The plan was recommended by the university's Commencement Committee and endorsed by President Warren J. Baker.

Students desiring additional tickets will have only one possible source: graduates who don't need their full allotment. Lost tickets won't be replaced.

To accommodate the nearly 13,000 guests expected, 3,700 temporary folding chairs and bleacher seats will be set up. That's 1,700 more than previously planned.

In January it was announced that 2,000 temporary seats would be added and tickets would not be required. That plan depended on graduates inviting an average of four guests each. A subsequent survey revealed the average guest list would be almost six. That news led to the change in plans.

About 2,500 graduates are expected to take part in the ceremonies, bringing the total number of people in the stadium (including participating faculty and official guests) to nearly 16,000. Each participating faculty and staff member will receive one guest ticket. Seating for ticket holders will be first-come, first-served.

Immediately after the 10:30 am festivities in Mustang Stadium, each of the university's seven schools will hold its own ceremony, with no limit to the number of guests. All graduates will receive certificates, outstanding students will be honored, and refreshments will be available. The school ceremonies provide an opportunity for those unable to attend the stadium program to be part of the day's activities.

When this year's plans have been completed, the Commencement Committee will begin reviewing proposals for 1985. Those include a recommendation by the Student Senate for two stadium ceremonies on the same day, each for half of the new graduates. A similar proposal is before the Academic Senate.

Car pooling info available

Cal Poly employees living in the North County, the South County, Cambria-Cayucos-Morro Bay or Los Osos-Baywood areas can get car pooling information from Transportation Services.

Anne Pickens, ext. 2451, has a list for each of the above areas which contains the names of people who are car pooling to work or would like to do so.

Snodgrass begins job as rec sports coordinator

Cal Poly's Associated Students Inc. has a new recreational sports coordinator, Marci Snodgrass — the first woman to hold the position.

Snodgrass, former recreational sports manager for San Diego State University, was selected after a nationwide search and screening of more than 40 applicants. She succeeds Denny Byrne, who left Cal Poly to become director of the Intramural Recreation Office at the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

Snodgrass is responsible for coordinating all intramural team sports, special events and open recreation at Cal Poly. She will also supervise the sport club teams such as rugby, lacrosse, women's soccer and women's water polo. She manages a staff of 80 student assistants and 50 to 60 officials and referees.

"Cal Poly seems to have the highest percentage of students participating in the recreational sports program of any of the CSU campuses," she said, noting that 6,000 to 8,000 of Cal Poly's 15,000 students use the program each year.

Snodgrass received her bachelor's degree in physical education from the University of California, Berkeley and a master's degree in college student services administration from Oregon State University.

High school students given chance to increase gpa

High school students taking "honors" courses will receive additional grade points when applying for admission to The California State University, beginning in fall 1985, under procedures implemented March 6 by Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds. The procedures will assign a value of one additional grade point to grades in approved honors courses.

Grades in honors courses will receive 5 points for each unit of A, 4 points for B, 3 points for C, 1 point for D and no points for F. In regular courses an A equals 4 grade points.

The CSU has found that, in some cases, a high school student is unwilling to take a truly challenging course out of fear that its rigor might lead to a lower grade and consequent loss of a scholarship, academic honor, or even admission to a particular college.

"This is a modest means of encouraging our more able students to strive to gain the greatest possible benefit from their high school experience," Reynolds said. "We hope that this will serve as one more message to students and their parents that solid preparation is important and that we truly value excellence."
Campus info available by phone till midnight

Taped information about Cal Poly services and events is now available by phone until midnight, seven days a week. Callers can find out about student activities, registration, health services, the library and special programs.

The number to call is 546-INFO (546-4636). Hours will be 8 am to midnight Monday through Saturday, noon to midnight Sunday.

The caller will reach an operator, who then will plug the call into which ever specific message the caller requests. A directory of subjects is expected to be available soon in the University Union, residence halls and all campus offices.

Governor appoints 2 to CSU Board

Governor George Deukmejian has named a banker and an educator to the board of trustees of The California State University.

Tom C. Stickel, 34, of San Diego, will replace Blanche Bersch. Dale Ride, 61, of Encino, will replace Juan Gomez-Quinones.

Stickel is chairman and chief executive officer of TCS Financial of San Diego. Ride, father of astronaut Sally Ride, is assistant to the superintendent of Santa Monica College.

The appointments require state Senate confirmation.
