Girls finally win SAC cash battle

RAE—The registrar, Dr. John P. Alexa, has announced that a new interdisciplinary degree program to be offered by the campus will be a major development. The new degree program, to be offered to students majoring in the arts and sciences, will provide a better understanding of the issues involved in the arts and sciences. Christmas is early

Racing

It would only seem that Christmas comes early to Cal Poly. In fact it started in November. At the Cal Poly versus Stanford game on November 10, the Mustangs scored the first and only touchdown of the game. The Mustangs still have yet to score at home.

Puff on Saturday night, "Santa Claus" Hanlon gave away the biggest.

It would really be ideal to have the Cal Poly band, "Jolly Crew," be led by a genuine Santa Claus.

Unfortunately, "Stuffy" missed the chance for another "santa training" by not entering a handball pool at the #2027 hangout.

Also, don't bet that the Mustangs have trained their linesmen to get by on your own. Everyone else you can see those green signals.

The "Chief" missed being a part of the action, but a very good job was being done with our football team.

Don't get me wrong. It was a homecoming "little training" session.

We bring up the difference point in whether the college loses pole position, "santa" to mean the cooler enough, until next year, with some. I was never in all of Cal Poly history, but I do believe that a person should always be ready to make a difference.

Mean Machine

Here's the mean one, Honda Scrambler 160. Designed mean and rugged for rough riding, sharp and cool for the campus. Clean, perfectly balanced for easy handling.

And Honda's dependable OHV 4-stroke engine delivers up to 116 mpg. Initial price, upkeep and insurance are impressively low. Parking? No problem.

Make the scene at any of Honda's 1,800 dealers. Take a safety demonstration ride. Watch for the Scrambler 160. You'll agree it's a mean machine - at a lowdown price.

To the anonymous student who sent along a dozen flowers and a congratulatory card with the note "Cheer up" and "You're doing great!"

This is the kind of gesture that is so heartwarming to the recipient.

Parked three days in a row during the school's annual homecoming and you won't see the same Mustang. The campus is just that big.

On the way to the "oak" order to improve some last minute changes. Work is complete in the new stadium, and familiar faces are everywhere.

A hand-pushed plunger, however, is not installed them. The visiting former also may have improvements in finish, and many of the seats have been removed. The stands have been rearranged.

Their two-day-long visit also included a tour of the Administration building, the library and student center, and an inspection of the new stadium.

They also were lucky enough to see the pretty crew and had a beauteous time.

Farmer group from Pakistan visits

Need is great and this is competitionable...the "main" event.

A group of 10 farmers from Pakistan recently visited the College of Agriculture here.

They were impressed with the college's facilities and educational programs, and expressed a desire to cooperate with Cal Poly on similar technology data.

Soil Science, Crops, Animal Science, and Home Economics departments were also visited.

The group, traveling under the auspices of the Committee for the Development of Agriculture, was impressed with the college's facilities and educational programs.

Their visit was arranged at the request of the United States Department of Agriculture.

NEW YORK—A trend among students who are fighting against discrimination and racism in schools is prompting many black students to found their own clubs within predominantly white institutions. Some of these clubs, fully supported by the student administrations of these universities, are setting an example of black militancy at campuses.

These clubs are part of the growing number of ghetto-bred clubs, writes Dunbar, which are combining the viewpoints, cultural activities, and social concerns of the schools with the major concerns of black students. The Afro clubs serve as a major vehicle for the expression of the repressed black consciousness of Negro students at many of these schools.

While some schools do not permit organizations to discriminate along racial lines, many have turned a blind eye to organizations like the Afro clubs. The speaker, for the State Grunge's opening convention session in the Hotel Fort Dearborn, told the sentiments of the area's leaders who are working to preserve our human abundance and eradicate hunger in the less developed areas of the world.

‘Bulls to go to market’

Fifty-two Hereford bulls will be sold at the Interna­tional Ranch of San Luis Obispo, California State Polytechnic Institute and the California Dairy Foundation, and the Cal Poly Foundation. *' Steve Bunch of Foot Hill, the highest bidder as the final price. Each ranch and two colleges have contributed the sale proceeds to the Psy­chotherapy program for agricul­tural education.

Milk prices jump

While costs which cut into the consumer's pocketbooks are rising, the percentage of disposable income spent for food probably will decline this year. The Service noted that the milk prices, increased 1.1 per cent in January, in 1961. Average retail feed prices, which include dealer feedlot operations, declined 10 per cent.

The speaker told the audience that the cargo ships which have continued the export efforts.
Freshman coach faces quarterback dilemma

Freshman football coach Dave Edminster has a problem that most coaches would give anything to have. Edminster has two talented quarterbacks on his team and must decide which one will get the starting nod.
