Viet conflict, major battle of WW III

WASHINGTON—Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, has promised his Senate committee that it will hold hearings to investigate whether or not the U.S. military involvement in Vietnam is really helping to end the war.

"The aim of Lieut. Gen. Westmoreland's plan is to make it impossible for the Viet Cong to fight this war from within the camps, and we are not going to let them
get away with it," Bennett said.

Dr. Eugene Prater; Dr. Isaac

the psychology department head,
were among the speakers who told the students that the Negro revolution is nearer than they think.

"The Negro is preparing for civil disobedience in protest against the repressive acts of two to three million Negroes who are already living in cities.

"With a total of 120 Negroes,
these people are not going to be left out by the city councils." the psychology department head said.

ther policies to lead to Negro control
of cities by 1975.

Foundation aids students, faculty

What is the Cal Poly Foundation? Though students on campus don't know it, the Foundation is in charge of the day-to-day running of the individual auxiliary units. It has formed its own treasury, printed its own checks, sponsors its own programs, and is ultimately responsible for the success or failure of these organizations. Foundation members are therefore aware of their responsibilities and committed to their success.

Schools to sharpen teacher skills ordered by State Education Board

Legislation setting up a series of new education courses for teachers has been approved by the State Board of Education.

The board voted to ask the State Legislature to appropriate funds for a three-year program aimed at improving the state's teaching force. The program would include courses in education, child development, and classroom management.

The legislation has been ordered by the State Education Board which has been seeking ways to improve the quality of teaching in the state's schools.

The board has been concerned about the growing number of students who are not receiving a quality education. They believe that better trained teachers are needed to improve the situation.

The legislation also includes a provision for a demonstration school. This school will be designed to test new methods of teaching and to provide a model for other schools to follow.

The demonstration school will be located in a rural area and will be staffed by teachers who have completed the new courses.

The legislation was introduced by State Senator John Smith, who is chairman of the Education Committee.

The legislation is expected to be passed by the state legislature in the next session, which begins in January.

The board is hoping that the legislation will help to improve the quality of teaching in the state's schools and to prepare teachers for the challenges of the 21st century.
