Extended Education has new associate director

An educator with 22 years' experience in teaching, counseling and school administration has been named associate director of the Extended Education program.

Dr. Darel F. Sorensen was appointed by Cal Poly Vice Provost Malcolm Wilson. He will serve primarily as an operations manager to supervise course planning, enrollment, financial accounting and other aspects of the growing number of extension programs offered by the university. Extension Director Howard Vollmer said Sorensen also will participate in the development of new programs.

New names for some schools and departments

Several Cal Poly instructional departments and schools have new names, as of July 1.

The changes were approved by Provost Tomlinson Fort Jr. They were based on recommendations from the deans, department heads, and faculties of the involved schools and departments.

Receiving new names were the Construction, Food Science, Child Development and Home Economics, Physical Education, Psychology, and Computer Science and Statistics departments. Also getting new identification are the School of Agriculture and Natural Resources and a new school formed from the departments of the School of Human Development and Education and three departments from other schools.

All changes are related to the recently announced reorganization or to program revisions contained in the 1984-86 Catalog.

Departments involved in the changes are:

- Child Development and Home Economics Department, which will become the Home Economics Department.

- Computer Science and Statistics Department, which will be divided into two separate units. The Computer Science Department is being moved to the School of Engineering and Technology. The Statistics Department will remain in the School of Science and Mathematics.

- Construction Department, which will become the Construction Management Department.

- Food Science Department, which will become the Food Science and Nutrition Department. The department will continue to offer the food science bachelor's degree program and will add the undergraduate dietetics and food administration degree program, which was formerly provided by the Child Development and Home Economics Department.

- Physical Education Department, which will be renamed the Physical Education and Recreation Administration Department.

- Psychology Department, which will become the Psychology and Human Development Department. It will continue to offer psychology courses and will add to its offerings the renamed child and family development bachelor's degree program that formerly was provided by the Child Development and Home Economics Department.

The School of Agriculture and Natural Resources will become the School of Agriculture. The only change in the school's programs is the addition of the dietetics and food administration degree program to the offerings of the Food Science and Nutrition Department.

Foundation has new board members

Cal Poly's new vice president for university relations and a business administration student are the two newest members of the Cal Poly Foundation's Board of Directors.

Dr. James L. Strom was elected recently to serve the two years remaining in the term of Dr. Dale W. Andrews, who retired last July from his duties as executive vice president of the university and as a member of the foundation's board.

Lori A. DeMatteis, a senior from Porterville, was chosen for a term that will expire in May 1985. She succeeds Christopher Hartley, a graphic communications student who had been student representative on the nine-member board since May of last year.

DeMatteis is a member of the Cal Poly chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management, Financial Management National Honor Society, and Kappa Delta sorority.

In other action at its annual meeting, the board re-elected its officers for new one-year terms through May 1985 and voted new three-year terms for two of its incumbent members.

Re-elected were Howard West, chairman; Dr. Tomlinson Fort Jr., vice chairman; and Dr. Lark P. Carter, secretary-treasurer.

New three-year terms were voted for both West and Fort as members of the board through May 1987.

Insurance rep to visit campus

Dianne Maness, representative of The Monterey/Central Coast Foundation for Medical Care, will be in the Staff Dining Room Thursday, July 19, from 9:30 am to 1:30 pm to answer questions about the First Farwest basic and major medical health insurance plans sponsored by the Public Employees' Retirement System. Appointments are not necessary.

Photo I.D. service hours

During the Summer Quarter the Dean of Students Office will provide photo I.D. service on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 1-5 pm.

Students first should pay the $5 fee at the State Cashier's window (Admin. 131E) and take the receipt to Admin. 209. For faculty and staff, the cost will be paid by their respective departments.

A temporary I.D. will be issued, and the photo I.D. will be ready in four to six weeks. Initial distribution of student cards will be in the UU Plaza. Faculty and staff cards will be sent to the Personnel Office for mailing to respective departments.

Poly Royal officers chosen

Student officers elected to serve as the 1985 Poly Royal Executive Board are:

- General Superintendent: Ray Reed, agricultural business major from Woodlake.
- Vice-Superintendent: Ellen Green, political science major from Rancho Palos Verdes.
- Secretary: Jane Finn, home economics major from Concord.
- Treasurer: Greg Helwick, business major from Danville.
- Arrangements: Jackie LeClerc, business major from Whittier.
- Publicity: Becky Olshausen, political science major from Santa Ynez.
- Queen's Director: Maureen Marks, economics major from Ojai.
- Special Events: Lynn Filice, liberal studies major from San Jose.
- School Events: Cheri Fraser, architecture major from Redwood City.
- Carnival: Mike Haag, aeronautical engineering major from Cupertino.
- Security and Transportation: Jim Low, architectural engineering major from Granada Hills.
- Historian: Ted Gill, agricultural business major from Visalia.

Aerobics for seniors

A class of mild exercise, designed for senior citizens and others who want a program less strenuous than regular exercise and aerobics classes, will be offered July 9 through Aug. 22 at Cal Poly.

The 45-minute class will begin at 11 am in the dance studio of Crandall Gym. There is no registration fee. The class's mild aerobics and spot exercises will be possible for people using wheelchairs, walkers and canes.

To register, call Terri Rebenstorf at ext. 1395. This is one of several programs offered by OARS (Otherwise Able Recreational Sports), a Cal Poly program serving individuals with physical disabilities. It is part of the university's Recreational Sports program.
CYBER disk drive installation

This is a reminder that the CYBER system will not be available July 14-15 and July 21-22 because of the installation of a new dual 885 disk drive. Also, during the week of July 16-20 available disk storage will be reduced and some delays in processing are anticipated. Users with critical processing needs during this period should review their schedule with Computer Operations, ext. 2005.

Relocation of terminals

The terminals located in Computer Science 112 and 113 are being moved to the Reserve Room of the Kennedy Library this summer to make room for the CAD/CAM system donated by IBM. The output bins and input trays also will be moved to the Reserve Room. The documentation library and programming assistants were moved to the library at the beginning of Spring Quarter and are available to users.

Terminal reserve lab has moved

The terminal reserve lab, formerly located in Computer Science 112, is now located in Arch. 313. When not reserved for classroom demonstrations, the facility will serve as an open lab for students and faculty. Policies and procedures for use of the lab are posted in the room and are included in the latest version of the Computer Center Newsletter Supplement. To reserve the lab for classroom use or to obtain a copy of the supplement, please contact Mary Shaffer, Computer User Services, ext. 2516.

CSU has new PA director

Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds has announced the appointment of Judith Elias as director of public affairs. Elias has been a member of the public affairs staff at California State University, Northridge since 1975 and has directed the campus’s public affairs program since 1977.

Poly included in book on ‘competitive colleges’

Cal Poly has been selected for inclusion in the third edition of “Peterson’s Competitive Colleges” just published by Peterson’s Guides, a Princeton-based publisher of education and career reference materials. This edition of the reference work presents data profiles of the 302 U.S. colleges and universities that consistently have more applicants with above-average credentials than they can accept. The schools represent less than 10 percent of all U.S. institutions of higher education.

Rummage sale to benefit Children’s Center

The Cal Poly Children’s Center Parent Advisory Council will sponsor a rummage sale from 9 am-2 pm Saturday (July 7) in the Children’s Center (in Plumas Hall, near Poly Grove). Funds raised will be used to redecorate the interior of the pre-school facility (paint, carpeting, new chairs, etc.). For further information call Yvonne Ricketts, coordinator, at ext. 1267.

Guest parking permits available

James Landreth, director of business affairs, wishes to remind staff on the 10/12 plan and faculty who will not be teaching during the summer that Guest Parking Permits are available in the Business Affairs Office, Admin. 114. These permits make it possible to visit the campus without purchasing a Summer Quarter parking permit. Guest permits also are available year round for faculty and staff on leave.

New names

The School of Human Development and Education will cease operations and be replaced by the School of Professional Studies and Education. The new school will include Education, Physical Education and Recreation Administration, Graphic Communications, Home Economics, Industrial Technology, Military Science, and Psychology and Human Development.

Also announced was the addition of a course option in industrial education to the Industrial Technology Department. It replaces the bachelor’s degree curriculum in industrial arts, which has been discontinued.

Still other changes in the names of Cal Poly’s instructional schools and departments are expected as reorganization of the university’s academic programs proceeds.
Trustee appointed to deanship

CSU Trustee August F. Coppola has been named dean of the School of Creative Arts at San Francisco State University.

Coppola, who has served four years of an eight-year term on the CSU Board of Trustees, will resign from the board by Aug. 1. In addition, he has also been appointed a full professor in the Department of Design and Industry, one of six departments in the school he will head.

Assistant vice chancellor selected

Jacob Samit, director of labor relations for the Minnesota State University System, has been appointed assistant vice chancellor, employee relations for the California State University.

He succeeds Thomas Lambre, who resigned. Samit is the former director of field services, college and university department, for the American Federation of Teachers.
