The Brothers Four to appear with "Frankie and Johnny"

When a folk-singing group like the Brothers Four steps into the San Luis Obispo Civic Auditorium next weekend, it's as sure as the sun sets and recursively rises on the horizon at dusk. It's a way to live, whether you're a folk-singer or not. But it's also a way to die, as sure as the sun is going to set.

The answer, then, is that the Brothers Four is in a position to combine both of these things. It's a way to live, because you can make a living singing folk songs. It's a way to die, because you can also make a living singing folk songs.

The Brothers Four are a folk-singing group from New York, New York, and they are coming to San Luis Obispo to perform at the Civic Auditorium on April 22. They will be appearing with the well-known folk singer "Frankie and Johnny," who have been together since 1960. "Frankie and Johnny" are known for their romantic ballads and their ability to put across a message of love and understanding. They are also known for their ability to connect with the audience, and they have a reputation for being able to handle a crowd well.

Discrimination committee offers help

The Mustang Daily's Committee on Discrimination is making another effort to teach students that campus-wide committee chairman Cindy Hill is putting on a series of three programs to educate them on the problem of discrimination.

Chairman Hill said that students who do not wish to attend before-these programs, may contact any member of the committee for information.

The committee offers help to students with any problems they may have or any other question about discrimination.

Hill, chairman of the committee, said that the committee will meet every week to discuss problems and to offer help to students.

The committee is made up of students from different backgrounds and is open to anyone who wants to learn more about discrimination.

“Want a company where you can really put your education to work? See IBM January 23rd or 24th.”

Some of the engineers who graduated before me complained that their education didn’t mean much in their jobs. This year, Cal Poly has a unique opportunity for its students. IBM will be in attendance at the Cal Poly Career Center on January 23rd and 24th, offering interviews for full-time positions.

Here are some reasons why you should consider IBM:

1. IBM offers a comprehensive benefits package, including health insurance, retirement plans, and tuition reimbursement.
2. IBM is a leader in technology and innovation, providing opportunities for growth and career development.
3. IBM has a diverse and inclusive work environment, where employees are valued for their unique perspectives and contributions.
4. IBM is committed to social responsibility, working to make a positive impact on the world.

IBM is looking for students with a strong interest in technology and a desire to make a difference in the world. If you are interested, please visit the Cal Poly Career Center website for more information on how to apply.
