For the official students year abroad program, the system-wide pilot program, all students are to spend two semesters or one full academic year in another country. There is a one-way air ticket and a one-way air ticket back when a student comes home.

Resident of the International House at the University of California in Los Angeles, where the students are housed, said that the program was sponsored by the Japanese government, which负担s the costs of the students. The program is open to all college students.

In other news, the University of California at Berkeley has recently completed a yearlong program in Japan, and the University of California at Santa Barbara has recently completed a yearlong program in France. The programs are designed to give students an opportunity to study in another country and to learn about the culture and language of that country.
