World famous symphony band to perform

The University of Michigan Symphony Band—a one hundred and ten-member musical contingent that has toured the United States, Western Europe, and the Middle East—will perform in the Cal Poly Gym at 8:30 Sunday evening, May 11.

Under the direction of William D. Revelli, the band has been acclaimed by audiences at home and abroad as one of the world's finest concert bands.

This musical group was selected by the State Department as the first band ever to represent the United States in the Soviet Union and the near East as a part of our cultural exchange program.

Traveling throughout the U.S.S.R., Egypt, Lebanon, Jordan, Cyprus, Turkey, Greece, Romania and Poland, the Michigan Symphony Band elicited praise from critics, composers, musicians and audiences everywhere.

It was also the first major university band to concertize extensively throughout the United States each year. Repeated appearances have been made in such famous halls as Carnegie Hall and Boston Symphony Hall.

Dr. William D. Revelli, Director of the Michigan Symphony Band for almost six years, has transformed students in college band directing positions into any other one person.

A large portion of the band members are professional musicians who are attending the University of Michigan in order to work on their master's degrees or doctorates.

During their concert here, the musical group will present a blend of past and contemporary music, both traditional and contemporary.

Tickets are $1 for students and $2 for general admission. Tickets may be purchased at the Administration Building or by a member of the Cal Poly Band.

Journalists honored at award banquet

Printers, business aides also gather up kudos

"The food was very good, in fact it was much better than the food in the cafeteria," remarked George Ramos, Editor-in-chief of Mustang Daily at the Second Annual Publishers' Board Awards Banquet that was held last Saturday at the Laguna Village Inn.

This event is held each year to honor the people who have contributed the most to the two publications on campus that are under the jurisdiction of the Publishers' Board, El Rodeo and Mustang Daily. This includes not only the writers, editors, and photographers, but also the printers as well, for without them there would be no Mustang Daily.

John Hawley, the head of the Journalism Department, gave out the "Bette Betts Kemp" Award to the top upper and top lower classman. The top upper classman was Nina Zaneti, the top lower classman was John Hauser.

The advisor to Mustang Daily, Brent Keeth, headed out the awards ceremony after the three-course dinner. Vincent Gates, the advisor to El Rodeo, gave out the "Certificates of Merit" to the best upper and lower classman in the publication. Adrienne Donaldson, the best upper classman, and Ann McManus, the best lower classman, were given the award.

Letters to editor

Student tired of dissention, chaos

Editor: This is a typical case of student on campus. The student is tired of the way things are going and wants to make a change. He suggests that the university should have more classes that are relevant to his interests and that there should be more opportunities for students to express their opinions. The student also mentions that he is tired of the way the university treats him and other students, and he wants more respect and recognition from the administration.

Kresge Supporter

Editor: Paul Kresge is a prominent figure in the Kresge community, and his support for the ARIR program has been vocal and consistent. He understands the importance of diversity and inclusion in the university community and believes that the ARIR program is necessary to achieve these goals. His support for the program has been instrumental in its success, and he continues to advocate for its expansion and improvement.

San Luis Stick hits stands; staff to set tasteeful policy

A new kind of publication will be made available to students beginning this week. San Luis Stick, a weekly journal of people and ideas, goes on sale Thursday in front of the Black Bar for a dime an issue.

The new paper will present freewheeling, in-depth features on campus activities as well as many other topics of interest to students. It is aimed at providing a forum for the exchange of ideas and opinions, and it will be edited by students.

San Luis Stick is the work of students, and it is not a reflection of the administration's views. The staff is made up of students who are interested in writing and editing, and they are dedicated to producing a high-quality publication.

The Stick will be published off-campus by Miller Printing Company, and it will be sold in San Luis Osceo as well as on campus.

Staff members of the Stick are made up of students who are interested in writing and editing. They are dedicated to producing a high-quality publication.

Ethnic studies or ethnic observations?

by Michael Daniels
Staff Writer

The purpose for ethnic studies programs now instituted in almost every major college and university in the country is to obtain two specific goals in the following order.

First—To educate the minority student in his heritage, literature, political systems of government, language, economics, dance, and geography. In short, to educate the minority student in all areas pertaining to his heritage.

Second—To inform others of the minority heritage with hopes of further understanding but not recognition.

Notice that the primary purpose of the ethnic studies program is first to educate the minority of themselves, and secondarily to inform others of the minorities. If these two primary purposes can't be accomplished, then it is useless to institute an amended modified ethnic studies program at Cal Poly.

If the present ethnic studies program should go into effect, it will become no more than an extension course not geared toward the minority geared toward the average Cal Poly student. A typical white student is one whose understanding of minority students goes no further than their color.

Next fall 45 courses in ethnic studies will be included in Poly's catalog for 1969-70. Some of these courses will be offered on an experimental basis. Among those with special ethnic emphasis are anthropology, art, economics, education, English, foreign languages, geography, history, human economics, music, philosophy, physical education, political sciences and sociology.

The 1969-70 ethnic studies program will be under the temporary direction of Rev. Bruce E.
Tjaden, a minister of the United Campus Ministries and part-time member of the college faculty since September 1967. The reason for a temporary coordinator is that Dr. Robert B. Fitzer, president of Cal Poly, has not yet found a qualified minority applicant to fulfill the position as coordinator of ethnic studies.

Rev. Tjaden will be assisted by a group of faculty members representing each department of the college. No students at the present time are on this committee, thus the students have no official say over the ethnic studies program which is supposed to educate the minority students.

Dr. Kennedy listed five major assignments for the campus-wide ethnic studies committee.
They are:
(1) Investigate all of the presently listed ethnic studies courses to determine whether they should be continued and/or whether new courses should be offered.
(2) Maintain contact with representatives of minority groups to determine if Cal Poly's interdiscipliary approach to ethnic studies is meeting the need of these groups.

(3) Work with the college's non-minority faculty and students to determine how well the interdisciplinary approach to ethnic studies is meeting the need of the student body at large in helping students gain greater understanding of subcultures.

On Monday, April 21, Rev. Tjaden met with the Black Students Union, Third World and United Mexican-American Students at the Black Students Union building on Monterey Street.

The purpose of this meeting was to go over the present ethnic studies program and jointly come up with an ethnic studies curriculum that would satisfy both sides. But to our surprise the Black Students Union, Third World, and United Mexican-American Students had gotten to-together with the campus-wide committee's ethnic studies program while Rev. Tjaden presented the campus-wide committee's ethnic studies program.

It is obvious that if two separate ethnic studies programs have arisen from the meeting, the campus-wide committee already failed, because one of the five assignments given to the committee was to maintain contact with representatives of minority groups to determine if Cal Poly's interdisciplinary approach to ethnic studies is meeting the need of these groups.

At the close of the meeting, the following comments were made pertaining to the ethnic

Author slated to speak at local ‘rap’ session

by Emily Perry
Staff Writer

Alex Haley, co-author of The Autobiography of Malcolm X, will speak in the Cal Poly Ballroom Thursday, May 8 at 8 p.m.

Haley’s autobiography, which was originally set on June 1, has been cited as one of the world’s great books by The New York Times. It has been translated into 14 languages – to coincide with its publication by Doubleday.

Haley is to write the script with George Rose, an editor-in-chief, who has successfully published the book.

Presently, Haley and his family are living in New York, where he is writer-in-residence and guest professor.

An independent thinker, Haley brings the perspectives of history and travel to the social crises of our day. Nowhere is this better illustrated than in the fascinating stories he has to tell. Haley’s informal “rap” session on May 8 is 50 cents for students and $1.00 for the public.

While in the service, Haley received the position of Chief Film Editor, and decided, upon re-assuming civilian life, to devote more time to writing. He became a freelance writer—a career which he has successfully continued.

PERSONAL STORY TOLD

Haley is a prolific writer. He has had many articles in Harper’s, Atlantic Monthly, Cosmopolitan, and the New York Times. He has interviewed many notable personalities for Playboy Magazine and has regularly contributed to Reader’s Digest.

Haley’s new book, Before This August, which is the result of five years of research and travel in Africa, Europe and America, will be published soon. It is the unique, true-life story of his own search for his ancestry and heritage.

Rights for a movie based on the book have been sold, and Haley is to write the script with Ellis Kazan, director. Reader’s Digest has purchased serial rights for the book to coincide with the appearance of the book’s first edition. In addition, the book is to be published in several foreign languages to coincide with its appearance.

And what is Alex Haley’s own story? He was born in Ithaca, New York in 1921. He is the son of a college professor (now retired) and the brother of a Kansas State Senator and a Washington D.C. architect. He attended North Carolina Teacher’s College until his enlistment in the U.S. Navy.

Thai agriculturalists visit college divisions

by Paty Bowen
Staff Writer

With the idea of observing and learning about the Department of Agriculture, four agriculturalists from Thailand visited this college for two weeks. At head was Mr. Thumkhrn Bittathun, Dr. Narong Kusnadi, Mr. Thaworn Kansana, and Mr. Thaworn Wisanarak.

During the visit, each agriculturalist met with a representative from his field of study. Dr. Kusnadi worked with Dr. John Allen, head of the Veterinary Science Department, observing the functions of the Department. Mr. Thumkhrn and Mr. Thaworn worked with Dr. Couchman, head of the Crop Department, during their stay.

Those four men are part of a four-year Crop Land Crops project, which will spend a year in each Thai field each year for the next four years. These men will study and observe for 36 weeks, the methods of agriculture and mineralogy used in the United States. They will use this knowledge to better serve their government and to raise the productivity of food crops, according to Earley.

Earley also stated that these four men will probably return to Cal Poly in January, 1970, to study and observe the college during the Winter Quarter. The four agriculturalists stayed at Mountain Village during their visit to San Luis Obispo. After their stay, they returned to the Kern County Land Co. in Bakersfield.

Engineers win SAE award

Ronald Mullison and Robert Wood, senior mechanical engineering majors, were recently awarded the Macron Memorial Award for engineering excellence.

The award is presented each year by the California Southern section of the Society of Automotive Engineers (SAE).

Mullison and Wood, representing the 1969 class on this campus, won the award in a field of fifteen entries. The local co-winners of the award presented their senior project, Experimental Determination of Radiation Emissivity (heat transfer), before the Board of Governors of the SAE.

The students were awarded an individual marble desk set and a certificate of recognition. They stressed, however, that the most important reward was the perpetual bronze plaque that will be retained on campus.

Nixon's budget trims

In a recent announcement from Walter J. Gale, head of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, the funding level of the National Defense Student Loan Program has been reduced for the school year beginning July 1, 1969. Gale said, "The President's (Nixon) budget contains a request for a total of $150 million in new federal capital contributions for the next school year," said Gale. "This figure is substantially lower than the amount requested by all institutions of higher education." Gale emphasised that it would be essential that all institutions participating in the National Defense Student Loan Program make the most of available dollars. He urged that primary consideration be given to those needy students who have the lowest family incomes.

"Hopefully, those students in need of financial assistance who come from higher income families will be in a better position to negotiate a guaranteed or insured loan through the bank," Gale said.

It is suggested that financial aid offices give serious consideration to student loans for those individuals with a gross family income of above $25,000, due to limited funds available. "This is not intended to exclude graduate students; but certainly the needy undergraduate student from a low-income family is in a less advantageous position for the negotiation of a bank loan," Gale added.
Bill to amplify majority voice

The California Teachers Association's Legislative Letter reports that one way of giving the "silent majority" of California high school students a "voice" has been suggested by Assemblyman Jesse M. Unruh of Inglewood, who proposes a Student Board of Regents with student members elected from among the registered rolls of the University of California and the California State Colleges.

The bill sets out detailed procedures for eligibility for the board, the method of selecting members, when and where meetings of the board and specified committees are to be held, publication of meeting results, and expense allowances for those participating.

Nowells told the audience that the recent campus conflicts, the bill notes that vocal minorities of students were able to seriously handicap or eliminate educational opportunities for the majority.

Students go to model UN

Twenty students—all members of the Model United Nations on this campus—travel to Fresno today to participate in the nine-teenth Session of the Model United Nations of the Far West.

The three day session, which culminates work and study done during the entire academic year, will bring together 1800 students from 108 colleges and universities in the western United States.

All 184 countries in the United Nations will be represented.

According to Mr. Quesada, the main emphasis of this year's tournament was on the basis of past performance. Cal Poly is very fortunate in that we were assigned three countries. (Most schools were assigned one or two.)

"The college is representing Albania and Switzerland in a field as being observer for the People's Republic of China."

State official praises campus CAHPER

Some 150 members of the California Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, and faculty members and out­side workers who participate, stayed at the Days Inn during the annual meeting held at Cal Poly, a week ago.

The association, better known as CAHPER, is made up of stu­dents, faculty members, and out­side workers who participate, study physical education or recreation.

Guest speaker Willard Nowells, executive secretary of CAHPER, spoke briefly on his experiences with the organization over the years, and the leadership he had been able to provide.

Some 150 members of the California Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, and faculty members and outside workers who participate, study physical education or recreation.

The guest speaker, Mr. Nowells, pointed out that the organization is the government's largest employer of the physically handicapped.

The Veterans Administration is the government's largest em­ployer of the physically handi­capped.

Trackmen visit FSC

The Mustang track team will be coming off a triangular win over Valley State and Cal Poly Pomona as they venture to Fresno for the annual West Coast Relays last Friday. Coach Dick Purcell will enter his team in the colleges Division competition on Friday but is undecided upon entering the open competition on Saturday afternoon.

Ernie Holmes and James Lowe are entered in the 180 high hurdle competition. Holmes has been clocked at 14.8, and Lowe in 14.4. Scott Heymann (88-10), D. Winter, and Murrell will enter the long jump. Junior Olson (84-10), Richard Gooch (85-10), and Jeff Druhe (81-9) are slated in the shot put and discus along with Wayne Barbee and Paul Campbell.

Mohlinder Gill and Heymann are expected to sweep the titles in the triple jump contest. Gill has recorded a 50-3¼ leap, while Heymann marks the tape at 46-9. Greg Tibbats has Purcell’s best in the 1800-pd race, while Gary Duval will run the mile. Dave has been one of the steadiest performers on the track squad this season.

Mike Stone and the Fontates will represent Cal Poly in the high jump activities. Stone holds a mark of 6-8 feet and Fontates is credited with 6-6.

Stoner slates winter games

Each year as sporting fans turn their interest to baseball, track and spring football, the sound of the bouncing basketball seems to disappear. The excitement and after-game satisfaction is gone for the off-season coach, but just ask Coach Neal Stoner if the work is still present. He might be found in his training room office, or maybe you can catch him scurrying to follow up a lead on a new recruit. He’s a nice guy and a good conversationalist, but he’s hard to track down.

Stoner comes to Poly from San Diego with a successful season under his belt. His quintet registered an impressive 80-6 win-loss mark, and made the play-offs in the NATA conference. This spring he has been working hard to secure a schedule for next winter, and he has been pushing hard to get recruits for Poly’s 1949 team.

Netters drop Aztecs; out-swung by 49ers

The Mustang netters split a pair of weekend matches here, shutting out San Diego State, 9-0, and losing to Long Beach State, 7-2, to end their 1969 season with a 12-6 record.

The shutout over the Aztecs made it the seventh clean sweep over opponents this year for the Mustangs.

The loss to the 49ers of Long Beach left the Poly courtmen 8-8 in league and fourth in conference standings.

The 49ers had just lost a disappointing 5-4 match to Fresno State the previous day.

Cal State Los Angeles won the CCAA season with a perfect 6-0 record, while Fresno State finished second and Long Beach State third. All three teams will be out of the CCAA league next year.

The CCAA individuals begin this Thursday at the Cal State Los Angeles courts and continue on until Saturday.

Cal Poly's John Easley is highly favored in the third singles spot while Mustang freshman Rod Heckelman will take a near perfect record into the fifth singles competition.

The season ended with Joe Maghan, 9-7, Larry Mores, 15-3, Easley, 18-4, Jon Janotta, 12-6, Rechman, 18-3, and John Rose.
