Vote called for

Editor: If the United States government were to hold a referendum on the Vietnam war in which the youth of the nation were allowed to vote there is little doubt that the young people would vote the war out of existence. For both legal and political reasons such a referendum can and will not be held. Yet if the youth of our nation are resolve there seems to be a way for them to hold their own referendum using a system that has been set up by the government.

Each time a 58 Form 150 is filed it becomes a statistic within the selective service system. Should a million young people file 58 Form 150, it would be a mandate from the youth that the war be ended at once. The filing of the form is not an act of civil disobedience but is a right under the 58 system.

Since in all but a few cases the board clerk will routinely deny the CO application, the referendum will add little burden to the members of the nation's draft boards. It will allow each youth to vote soon after his 18th birthday. Copies of the form could be printed in the newspapers to make sure that the administration did not find itself short of supplies and funds to print new copies of 58 Form 150.

I encourage all of this nation's youth to file a 58 Form 150 during the month of December. Further I request those that share my concern in this matter to publicize this youthful referendum.

Joan and Joni --- fills event with soul

by John Pitranolph

A damp Big Sur wind blew their hair an unexplained delay in the folk festival rustled their minds.

The round little man with a fat nose and olive skin was calm for awhile. But soon Esalen Institute's gates trembled like the tribal congoa and steel guitars and the little man pranced with excitement.

WHAP—a table was flattened in the crush.

"This is bordering on the absurd!" he yelled. "This is getting out of hand! Bland back! You'll have to be patient!"

It was well past 11 a.m. and the growing, groaning crowd had been promised admittance by 10:30 a.m. The little man fussed with rubber stamps and finally gave the word to "let only those through with tickets."

That was like hanging towels to dry in the Big Sur fog.

Some had purchased advance tickets; few had ever heard of such a thing. The announcements had read:

"BIG SUR FOLK FESTIVAL... STARRING JOAN BAEZ... GENERAL ADMISSION $4.25... SAT. & SUN. SEPT. 13-14..."

Eventually every person with four bucks (and a stamp to prove it) moved past the stormy little man at the gate. Most sensed a residue of irrationality (his wild-eyed "Stamp?" and walked on—rejecting little men—bearing a new voice, Joni Mitchell, singing "We've got to get ourselves back to the Garden...."

The festival began around 10:30 a.m. Tha little man fused the sprawling thousands with the same sensitivity she poured out, years before her marriage to David Harris—now locked up for refusing to co-operate in the killing—and years before her beautiful pregnancy, soon to end.

Friends who weren't and never were, loved her music.

"This is the Forest of Arden from Downtown America was not because of Joan—or her lament in song—but rather with her. It could have been others singing.

"This is bordering on the absurd!"

Dorothy Mattison turned people on in an animal, sensual undulating way. Her music and her group showed the euphoria to eagerness. Her sinfully red dress and thick voice led people to the cliff where motion must ultimately resist fanaticism.

Dorothy Mattison—commanded the piano and eased everyone to the garden of Golden Age rapport, symbolizing harmony. Joan's midriff, schicked with rebirth. Levels of Nature were as obvious to the student of literature as inked wrist impressions to the round little man at the gate.

Then the sun sank into the fog as coolness crept to shore. People walked the long slow hill back to Highway 1 and the falconized man was at the gate again. This time he was smiling and selling paper posters for a buck and a half. A few stopped and shelled out, forgiving his earlier violence.

Most sensed a residue of irrationality (his wild-eyed "Stamp?" and walked on—rejecting little men—bearing a new voice, Joni Mitchell, singing "We've got to get ourselves back to the Garden...."

The witch, the toad, and William C. Snitzer

ONCE upon a time William C. Snitzer snickered at a witch who was walking her toad through a large park near his home.

"Hey," he said snidely, "What's a good-looking toad like you doing with a witch like that?"

He only had time to snicker this once before he could say "Member FDIC," the witch had changed him from a 5'/6" smart aleck into a five story full-service bank. A Security Pacific Bank to be exact.

William was far more popular as a Security Pacific Bank than he had ever been as a William C. Snitzer. People who didn't even talk to him before now trusted their money with him. Even the witch opened a savings account. In fact, in time she saved enough to trade in her toad on some mule deer. (Mule deer were just becoming fashionable for witches.)

She continued saving at Security Pacific Bank so she could buy more deer, and she was always given friendly, efficient service.

Which only goes to prove that Security Pacific Bank welcomes anyone, even if she be, it only has a few bucks.

Here's what your first year or two at IBM could be like.

You'll become involved fast. You'll find we delegate responsibility—to the limit of your ability. At IBM, you'll work individually or on a small team. And be encouraged to contribute your own ideas. You'll advance just as fast and far as your talents can take you.

Here's what three recent graduates are doing.

Soon after his intensive training course, IBM marketing representative Preston Love, B.S. '66, started helping key Iowa commissioners solve problems. Like how to introduce school kids to computers, without installing one. His answer: share one in Chicago by phone cable.

Soon after his IBM programmer training, John Klayman, B.S. Math '68, began writing programs used by a computer system to schedule every event in the Apollo tracking stations. And when the finished programs were turned over to NASA Goddard Space Flight Center, he was responsible for making them work.

IBM
Almeida draws full house

by: Jan Soward
staff writer

A three dollar concert draws the eager, so Laurindo Almeida had an eager and appreciative audience on September 26 in the Little Theater. The hall was filled when the concert began at 8 p.m. Students were perhaps outnumbered by citizens of San Luis Obispo—"townies" resplendent-looking and knowing how to applaud.

Almeida was called upon for an encore after a four-part concert. He began with classical music, the most rewarding. The pieces arranged by himself. The Spanish composers, designed to fill, were graceful, or even interesting.

Almeida seemed more interested in four Villa-Lobos pieces, "Choro No. 1;" "Etude No. 8;" "Etude No. 1;" and "Quasi Allegro." There were some nice runs and other indications of facility of technique in these numbers, but when intermission began, excitement generated by the concert still did not warrant the hassle of dressing and coming.

The third part of the concert, after a short intermission, was and Locuona's "Mulaguea." Almeida played works for the guitar, and these were enjoyable, but Almeida's treatment was too facile to stir real excitement. Almeida's involvement in his work definitely went up from the first half of the evening.

An aviation information team from the Naval Air Station in Los Alamitos, Calif., will visit the campus on October 2 and 3 between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Men interested in the Navy's officer programs are invited to stop by the snack bar and investigate the opportunities offered.

The expansion of Naval Aviation has necessitated the development of several programs offering young men flight training as pilots or as officer aircrew members. Upon successful completion of training, these young men will be rewarded with designations as Naval Aviators or as Naval Flight officers.

Although the Navy now requires applicants for any officer program to have a baccalaureate degree, there are several programs available for the student during his last two or three years of college. These programs are available in both the aviation and surface fields. Participation in one of these programs would allow the applicant to receive his commission upon graduation with a baccalaureate degree.

Applications due

Applications must be turned in by 5 p.m., Wednesday Oct. 15 to the ASI box in the Temporary College Union. The queen pageant will be Friday, October 17. The campus organization sponsoring the queen will be awarded $50.

Poly-Boise State: who will survive?

BY DOUG GIBSON

Tomorrow night's intercollegiate football game at Mustang Stadium will feature a struggle for survival between two early-season underdogs, the host, the Mustangs, the visitors, Boise State.

Kickoff time is set for 7:30 p.m. An expected capacity crowd is expected.

The similarity between the two teams is striking:

— Both have horse monarchs: Cal Poly, the Mustang, and Boise State the Bronco.

— Each team brings a perfect 1-0 record into the contest.

— Each team possesses a strong defense.

— Each club has intercepted six passes.

— Each team has scored 103 points, over 100 points in its first two games.

— Each team has an explosive offense.

— Each club has a strong and efficient running game.

The similarity between the two teams is striking.

Last fall, BSC posted an 8-2 mark. Poly, 5-7 in 1969, will put up a five-game victory streak on the line. The Mustangs captured wins in their final three games last fall.

And last but not least, each head coach feels Saturday's contest will be the toughest test of the season.

Coach Tony Knox's Bronco defense will be featured in a pro-set offense while the Mustangs will rely on their powerful split-T.

Sophomore quarterback Pat Ebright will direct the BSC offense, after taking over for the injured quarter-back, Eric Guthrie. Guthrie has connected on 11 of 19 passes for 181 yards and four touchdowns. The ground game will be carried by halfbacks Larry Smith and fullback Abe Brown.

Ebright's favorite targets are split ends Dennis Hajiri, who has caught five passes for 107 yards and a TD.

A former San Luis Obispo County prep star, Henry Jenkins, is one of the Bronco speedsters.

Jenkins, a 156-pound halfback, is a freshman who starred last fall at Paso Robles. Last week Jenkins scored twice on a 61-yard punt return and a 28-yard run from scrimmage.

The Broncos defense has been key to success last fall and again this season. Middle linebacker, Steve Svitak, at 244 pounds, anchors the dangerous Boise State defense. The BSC front four and three linebackers average 218.8 pounds per man, compared with the Mustangs, defense front and linebackers who average an even 219 pounds per man.

Coach Joe Harper told newsmen, "The thing we are striving for is consistency in execution. I don't feel we've progressed far enough in that area but vigorously and defensively." Evaluating tomorrow's contest, Harper said, "Boise State is our toughest team to date, we will undoubtedly be one of top teams on our schedule.
